Housing Program Appeal

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(P)—Trying to save his $2,000,000,000 co-op housing program from prospective defeat, President Truman declared today this plan to provide homes for middle-income families is above party politics.

A telegram from the president at Key West, Fla., reached Democratic leaders as a spot poll indicated that almost half of his own party members in the House may vote against the co-op idea. The Senate already has turned it down.

The House will vote on the bill late today or tomorrow.

Mr. Truman addressed his special appeal to Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking committee. Spence is House floor manager for the bill.

Mr. Truman said the plan "will stimulate home ownership through the use of cooperative methods which have long been successfully used in other fields of endeavor."

He added:

Of Value to Veterans
"It will be of particular value to those of our veterans who are still seeking adequate housing, and who should not be required to pay an excessive share of their income in order to obtain it."

"The bill will enable many citizens of moderate income to acquire homes through their own combined efforts, without government subsidy."

Mr. Truman went on to say that middle income families—those with incomes of $2,800 to $4,400 a year—are "the backbone of the country" but that they can't afford to buy or rent suitable homes at present prices. He said the co-op housing plan would go a long way toward meeting their needs.

Spence read the telegram when the House resumed debate on the bill.

Democratic leaders are hoping they may yet switch some of their party members now inclined to vote against the measure.

Score About Even

Of over 100 Democrats checked by a backer of the proposal, the score for and against the bill was just about even. Several were non-committal.

Republicans probably will line up almost solidly against the co-op idea and, unless there is a sudden shift in Democratic opposition ranks, it is bound to be defeated. The House GOP policy committee has voted unanimously to oppose it.

President Truman personally interceded in an effort to head off defeat. From his Key West, Fla., vacation quarters, he wired Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking committee urging favorable House action.

The Senate struck co-op housing.

'Advertising' Topic of Talk At Lions Club

Californian Tells History, Development Through the Years

"Earliest recorded use of advertising is found in the crude drawings left by prehistoric cave dwellers," Stan Lane, executive vice-president of the Western Pottery Distributors, Los Angeles, California, said to the members of the Sedalia Lions club at their noonday meeting held at Hotel Bothwell today. Mr. Lane, using as his subject, "From Tom-Tom to Television," covered advertising from the Garden of Eden to the present day.

Lane, a nationally known authority on advertising and television as well as an author of several books on the subject, traced the history of advertising down to the Babylonian, Greek and Roman civilizations, where "advertising became an art, prior to the total eclipse during the dark ages."

In his talk, Mr. Lane said, "Revival began in the twelfth century, accelerated by the invention of the printing press. Signboards, trademarks, development of newspaper and magazines are the milestones in progress of advertising, leading up to the present day."

Made Many Talks

He has been speaking on advertising developments and its history to universities, Chambers of Commerce, civic organizations, advertising clubs, as well as sales executive clubs throughout the nation. Prior to his advertising work, Lane was a lawyer in Philadelphia, and represented Pennsylvania in its legal aid department. He is an author and actor having appeared in Broadway stage productions as well as having directed several of these productions.

Joplin Primary Results

JOPLIN, Mo., March 22.—(P)—Dr. H. Chris Oltman established himself as a favorite to unseat Mayor L. Russell McGee in the April 4 city election by his vote getting in yesterday's primary.

Both men will run in the regular election for first and second get the nomination, Dr. Oltman, dentist and state wing commander of the civil air patrol, got 3,980 votes; Mayor McGee, 1,771.

Refuses to Attend Funeral Of Twin Sister She Killed

FRESNO, Calif., March 22.—(P)—Moody Alice Richard, 14—"An exhibitionist seeking notoriety"—today passed up a requiem mass for the fun-loving twin, Sally, she killed in an outburst of hatred. The blonde bobby-soxer firmly said "No, I don't want to" when asked if she wished to attend her sister's funeral.

Outwardly cool, she wisecracked with newsmen at a preliminary hearing yesterday. That caused Juvenile Judge Arthur C. Shepard to comment:

"This would appear to be, at first glance, a case of pure exhibitionism. Alice may just want attention and is determined to go to any length to get it. Certainly she is basking in the light of her publicity—or should I say notoriety?" Alice said a firm "Yes" when

Spring Off to Slow Start

By The Associated Press

Spring appeared getting off to a slow start over many parts of the eastern half of the country.

There was snow on the ground over many sections of the midwest and fresh falls covered areas in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts. The falls in Cambria county in Western Pennsylvania measured up to 12 inches and other sections reported falls from one to eight inches on yesterday, the first day of spring. The fall at High Point park, in Northwest New Jersey, measured 7 1/2 inches.

More snow fell today in the Great Lakes region and the upper Mississippi valley. Some rain also was reported in the area and also in some parts of the southeastern states. Skies across the eastern half of the nation were cloudy. It also was dark in the Pacific northwest, but other areas reported fair weather.

There wasn't much warming in the west belt. Temperatures were at freezing or below in the New England region, New York State, the northern plains and the northern and central Rockies. The 13 above at Pembina, N. D., was one of the lowest readings early today. The highest mark yesterday was 90 at Yuma, Ariz.

Not Sure Man Can Make Bomb

PASADENA, Calif., March 22.—(P)—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, Nobel prize winning scientist, says he is not at all certain that man can make a hydrogen bomb.

He is frankly skeptical that any man-made device will ever split the earth asunder.

But it is true, he says, "that we and our possible adversary now possess the instruments to destroy each other."

Millikan is 82 today. In an interview commemorating the occasion, the man who first isolated and measured the electron and opened the way for present day atomic research observed:

"With all the talk about the hydrogen bomb, I'm not yet convinced that it's at all certain we can build such a bomb. Of course, if it were possible to make the hydrogen in all the seas combine at once into helium, we probably could explode the whole earth and transform it into a nebula."

"However, I'm still skeptical. I think it would take a warmer lady than mother earth to make such a horror possible."

Shepard asked if the recorded statement of her crime was accurate. The statement: "That she shot her sleeping twin early Sunday with a .22 rifle."

Examination Ordered
Psychiatric examination was ordered by Shepard.

Her mother, Mrs. Mary Richard, tried to embrace her. Spurned, the mother sobbed "Oh my baby" and fainted in court. Judge Shepard set April 7 for a hearing to determine whether to:

Order Alice to a mental hospital if the examiners report she is insane.

Order her to a state school if she is sane.

Order her certified to superior court for trial for murder, with a life sentence the maximum possibility if convicted.

Presents Plan For Twenty Years of Peace

Secretary-General United Nations Critical of Disunity

By The Associated Press

The secretary-general of the United Nations has presented a bold plan to bring Russia and the United States together and end the cold war through a 20-year peace plan.

"What we need, what the world needs," he said, is a 20-year program to win peace through the United Nations.

Trygve Lie, speaking in Washington last night, pointed out the United Nations charter calls for periodic meetings of "foreign ministers or even heads of government."

He warned the world the sands of time are running out for settling national differences through negotiation and conciliation. He urged the heads of government to take advantage of United Nations machinery now. The dangers of further delay were too great, he said, in this age of the hydrogen bomb and bacteriological weapons.

In effect, Lie criticized both the United States and the Soviet Union for the present disunity in the U. N. organization. He rapped the Soviet for boycotting the U. N. because recognition has not been given to Chinese Communists.

His First Concern

On the other hand, he said, his first concern is to see that Communist China's 450,000,000 people should be represented in world councils "by whatever government is qualified, regardless of its ideology." The United States recognized the regime of Chiang Kai-Shek on the island of Formosa and has not extended recognition to the Chinese Communist republic at Peking.

Italy is torn again by a Communist-called general strike. The 12-hour demonstration was called by the Communist-directed General Confederation of Labor (CGIL) in protest against government proposals to increase the country's police force and authorize bans on political demonstrations.

The Communists claim the police restrictions are a blow at civil liberties. The strike order was issued last night after two workers were reported killed when police opened fire on a group of demonstrators in the central Italian town of Lentella.

Move To Preserve Order

Heavily-armed police and troops have moved swiftly to preserve order. Minor clashes between demonstrators and police marked the early hours of the strike.

Shanghai's Lunghwa air field was under attack yesterday by Chinese Nationalist planes. The Nationalist air arm claimed it raked shipping along a wide swath of coastline.

Hong Kong dispatches said Communist Gen. Lin Piao has moved his best troops, the "Steel Corps" of 5,000 elite to Luichow peninsula on the south China coast for the invasion of Hainan, second largest island territory controlled by Nationalists.

Sweden's foreign minister, Osten M. Unden reiterated in parliament that Sweden is standing firm in her refusal to join the North Atlantic Treaty. Adhering to her historic neutral position, he said, Sweden has turned thumbs down on military cooperation with Norway and Denmark, both members of the Atlantic Pact.

File Charges in Horse Meat Case

AUSTIN, Tex., March 22.—(P)—Texas may follow through on federal charges against dealers involved in recent horsemeat cases. State Health Officer George W. Cox said federal charges filed in Dallas yesterday against Kansas City, Mo., and Minneapolis handlers "encourages" state action against any Texans involved.

The federal complaints named Meyer Gilgus, operator of a meat commission firm at Kansas City, and Louis K. Risken of Minneapolis.

The charges said the men shipped horse meat in interstate commerce which had not been federally inspected and which was not labeled horse meat.

Thousands of pounds of horse meat were seized in Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth and Austin. And officers said thousands of pounds more had already been sold to the public as beef tenderloins.

Quads' Mother Worried, Says Need of Help

May Have to Offer Them For Adoption For Their Welfare

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ontario, March 22.—(P)—Mrs. C. O. Hargreaves is "really crazy" about her quadruplet daughters but she is still afraid she may have to offer them for adoption "for their own welfare."

"I'm very worried," she said today. "We really need help." Word that the financially stricken Hargreaves family was considering offering the five-month-old daughters for adoption was announced yesterday and reports of ready offers of assistance sprang up immediately.

But Mrs. Hargreaves said today those reports were greatly exaggerated and that the only definite offer of help came from a Hamilton (Ont.) radio station.

"They wanted to know what we needed in the way of clothing, food and the like," she said.

His Take-Home Pay
Her husband gets $208 monthly in take-home pay as a laborer at the Great Lakes Power company here, Mrs. Hargreaves said, adding that was insufficient to care for the quads, themselves and two other children.

"We had reached the end of our rope," she said, "when we wrote a Toronto paper we were considering offering the babies for adoption."

"We're exhausted, physically and financially. We haven't put them up for adoption yet. That's the last thing we want to do, but I'm worried."

No Offer of Adoption
John McLeod, legal advisor of the family, said flatly he hadn't had any offer of adoption or support as had been reported.

"No offer of any kind of assistance has come to me from any quarter since the parents talked of offering the children for adoption, McLeod said.

However, there was unofficial reports of offers of funds to the family.

With money worries piling up, the father, C. O. Hargreaves, a laborer, had speculated on finding foster parents for the babies.

In addition to Jennifer Ann, Janice Barbara, Joyce Carol and Joan Diane, there are two other children in the family.

Passengers Drove Off With The Beer

MIAMI, Fla., March 22.—(P)—When a bus driver parked his vehicle, turned off the lights and went into a restaurant for a cup of coffee, two passengers drove off with the bus.

They were picked up later and jailed on a charge of larceny of a vehicle. The men were identified as Joseph C. Bowman, 26, and Hugh D. Lomas, 23.

The bus driver said he thought all passengers were off when he went to get his nightly cup of coffee.

Questioning Two Men in Slaying Case

Columbia Officers Flew to Arkansas Where Men Are Held

VAN BUREN, Ark., March 22.—(P)—Missouri officers are questioning two men here in connection with the rape-slaying of a 13-year-old baby sitter in Columbia, Mo., last week.

Police Chief Voll Russell said one of the men, identified as Hersell Summers, 29, 2419 East Ninth street, Kansas City, Mo., cab driver, had in his wallet a newspaper clipping of the slaying of Janett Christman at Columbia.

Summers explained he had the clipping because he intended to go to Columbia to look at the house where the slaying occurred.

Russell contacted Missouri authorities and they flew here this morning to talk with Summers and Curtis L. Linder, 27, a Kansas City (31st and Indiana) sheet metal worker.

The chief said he is holding Summers on a drunken driving charge and Linder on a drunkenness charge. They were picked up here yesterday as Assistant Chief Virgil Goff and Patrolman Russell Dunn.

Had Missouri License

Summers was driving an automobile with a Missouri car dealer's license plate, Chief Russell said. A regular Missouri license plate was in the rear of the car.

Summers was quoted as saying that he and his companion laid off work Monday and were headed for Mexico. The chief said Summers denied knowing the location of Columbia, although he had worked in Kansas City for about ten years and also had lived in Clinton, Mo., about 60 miles from the Missouri university city.

The chief expressed the opinion the men possibly left Kansas City in a hurry because they had little extra clothing with them. Summers had more than $100 on him, but Linder was without funds. There was beer and whisky in the car, Russell said.

Borrowed From Wife
Summers explained that he had borrowed the money from his wife.

Missouri officers included Police Chief E. M. Pond of Columbia, Deputy Sheriff Jack Beasley of Boone county, Missouri, and Sgt. Harry H. Wells of the Missouri State Highway patrol.

They flew to Fort Smith, just across the Arkansas river from Van Buren, in a Missouri State Highway Patrol plane.

A reward for arrest and conviction of the baby sitter's killer is being raised in Columbia. It is past the $1,650 mark.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 22.—(P)—Chief of Police E. M. Pond telephoned his office here today from Van Buren, Ark., to say that two Kansas City men questioned there with regard to the rape slaying of baby sitter Janet Christman here Saturday night had satisfied Columbia officers they had nothing to do with the case.

Pond said that he and two other officers who flew to Van Buren today to question the pair will return to Columbia immediately.

54 County Courts to Support Gas Tax Law

JEFFERSON CITY, March 22.—(P)—The better roads committee said today it has the promises of 54 county courts to support Gov. Forrest Smith's gas tax increase.

The law, designed to double Missouri's two cent gasoline tax and apply one cent of the increase to all-weather county roads, is slated for the referendum vote April 4.

The committee said some other county court registered partial or qualified support of the law.

Glory of the 1890's Held in The Hand of an Auctioneer

By Martha Cole

TERRELL, Tex., March 22.—(P)—The glory of the 1890's was there—held in the hand of an auctioneer.

They sold most of the stock that I. Levy had started collecting more than half a century ago. He put it all in his store in Terrell, a small north Texas town among the cotton fields—damasks, fine furs, imported laces, silks from China, high button shoes, handkerchiefs, linen shirts for men, imported woolsens and hand painted buttons.

Hundreds came yesterday to the two-story store to stand among the crumbling gingerbread work and listen to the chatter of the auctioneer—J. B. Mosley of Terrell.

The high school girls bought high button shoes and put them on. Their mothers bought old lace and linen dresses to wear to the square dances.

Strike Nearer Settlement

By Glenn Engle

Detroit, March 22.—(P)—The Chrysler strike, now in its ninth week, was reported only slightly nearer settlement today, after the first major peace move since the walkout.

The company and the United Auto Workers swapped settlement proposals in an action-packed bargaining session last night.

Both sides, it was learned, gave a little ground on the pension dispute and other matters. But sources close to the negotiators indicated they would have to give considerably more ground to send the 89,000 strikers and 50,000 other idled workers back to their jobs.

The contents of both Chrysler's proposal and the UAW's counterproposal were kept secret.

The company put its peace bid on the table as the session got under way late yesterday, after both sides had huddled privately most of the day. The union's counter proposal came shortly after negotiations were adjourned three hours later. Another session was set for today.

Separate Judges For Gas Tax Election

A separate set of judges will be used in the election on April 4 to handle the Four-Cent Motor Vehicle Gas Tax law which will be submitted to Missouri voters on that day. In Pettis county those voting on the tax law can vote at their regular precinct voting place the same as in any general election.

It was announced this morning by County Clerk James Green each political party will appoint one judge in each precinct and each judge will have one clerk to handle the gas tax voting.

The naming of the judges is expected to be made this week.

Aged Resident Dies

Iola, Kas., March 22.—(P)—Morris Willis, city engineer and utilities superintendent here 2 1/2 years, has resigned to accept a similar position at Chillicothe, Mo.

Loyalty Program Is Legal

Board May Dismiss Person if Loyalty Is Questioned U. S. Appeal Court Rules

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(P)—The United States court of appeals today upheld the constitutionality of the government's employee loyalty program.

The three-man tribunal that any government worker may be fired by a loyalty board acting under an executive order from President Truman.

The decision was handed down in the case of Dorothy Bailey, a former $8,000-a-year-employee of the federal security agency.

Miss Bailey was suspended from her job in November, 1948, on grounds her loyalty was questionable. In February, 1949, she was dismissed.

She sued for reinstatement to her job, raising among other points, the contention that the whole loyalty program was unconstitutional.

This program, ordered by President Truman, calls for the investigation of every government employee and the dismissal of any whose continued employment might be a risk to the security of the United States.

Denied Being a Red
At the time Miss Bailey came under investigation she was president of local No. 10 of the CIO government workers union. She denied any Communist party membership or affiliation.

In the U. S. district court, Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled the program is constitutional and that he lacked authority to set aside federal loyalty board findings. Miss Bailey appealed.

In its 2-1 decision, the appeals court's majority said: "It is our clear opinion that the president may remove from government service any person of whose loyalty he is not completely convinced."

However, the majority threw out a part of the loyalty board decision which banned Miss Bailey from any government employment for three years.

The Court Ruling
In effect the ruling on that point was this: The court upheld the right of the loyalty board to dismiss Miss Bailey but said the board had no right to forbid a government agency from giving her a new job if that agency felt it had a spot where she could be properly employed in the light of the record.

With FSA, Miss Bailey was a training officer in the agency's justice service.

Justice Prettyman wrote the majority decision with Justice Proctor concurring. A vigorous dissent came from Justice Edgerton who declared:

"Without trial by jury, without evidence and without even being allowed to confront her accusers or to know their identity, a citizen of the United States has been found disloyal to the government of the United States."

"The (majority judges) think Miss Bailey's interest and the public interest conflict. I think they coincide."

No Reason to Doubt Patriotism
"On this record we have no sufficient reason to doubt either."

Operator of Fur Business Dead

KANSAS CITY, March 22.—(P)—Mrs. Irene Sarno, 48, operator with Mrs. Charles Binaggio of the fur concession at Chasnoff's Inc., here, died today.

Her physician, Dr. D. M. Nigro, said death might have been caused by an overdose of sleeping tablets. Dr. Nigro said he would perform an autopsy later today.

Mrs. Sarno had been subpoenaed as a witness by the present federal grand jury investigating the crime conditions and income tax matters here. She had not appeared before the jury, however.

Dr. Nigro said Mrs. Sarno had been ill recently, suffering from a tumor for which she was to enter a hospital for treatment next month. He added her mother had died recently, placing her under a strain. But the doctor pointed out she had been in his office yesterday and had seemed to be in good spirits.

Mrs. Sarno's death is the third to occur in the ranks of persons subpoenaed as witnesses before the grand jury. Mrs. Sarno appeared as a witness in the federal court contempt case of Miss Blanche A. Howard last Feb. 13. She identified herself as a cousin of Miss Howard and testified Miss Howard often had carried large amounts of money.

To Go With Easter, Nostalgia's an Accessory

By Kay Sherwood
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Underneath the mobile, airy "1950 Look" of Easter fashions are accessories that are light, graceful and frequently give a nostalgic hint of the 1920's.

Patent leather, for example, which enjoyed its heyday 30 years ago, shines as brightly in 1950's shoes, handbags and belts. Long fox stoles swing out as jauntily as their earlier counterparts. Pointing up the light look of accessories are two-toned effects, cut-outs, scallops and embroidered trimmings.

Fur stoles which dangle to the hemline make a luxurious display of soft, pale-toned pelts. Glacier blue fox, for example, is worked into one outstanding scarf that mantles the shoulders and falls to a point below the hemline of a suit.

Today's patent leather is soft and pliable and is turned out in pastels, navy and gray as well as glossy black.

For supple, airy shoes, patent is confined to strappings or shell soles to leave plenty of open space for comfort afoot. In some new two-toned sandals, the gleam of black patent shell soles is played against the mat finish of suede or fabric straps.

With the new pliability, neat little patent leather handbags can be manipulated with accordion folds at the sides to afford roomy interiors when the bag is opened. Gold trim adds more shine, and interiors are specked with bright linings of red or yellow.

Two-toned effects are carried into gloves which set off slim cuff lines. Some gloves turn back scalloped edged cuffs to show off contrasting linings. Others are accented by contrast stitching, appliques or cut-outs. Embroidered motifs dress up the backs of white or chamois-colored gloves.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, March 22—The future atomic-hydrogen defense of Washington, according to atomic scientists, must require a ring of fire stations fifteen miles out of the city and completely around the city. Present fire stations inside the city would be wiped out and futile in case of an enemy attack. It will require from 10,000 to 15,000 regularly trained and paid firemen to man these stations.

The defense of New York, a city nine times the size of Washington would require at least nine times as many firemen — about 100,000 — and cost nine times as much. In brief, the defense of our big cities against future hydrogen bombing would just about bankrupt us. Peace will be cheaper.

Every noon when Republican senators sit down at lunch they ask each other: "How's Joe doing?" They are referring to their colleague, Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin. They agree that Joe isn't doing well, but they think he's winning votes for Republicans. Senator Taft, now the leader of the party, expressed it this way: "I told Joe to keep talking. I don't think he's got anything. But the longer he talks, the more people will think he has something."

Worked up by astute political speeches, the drift toward isolation continues. The secretary of state Dean Acheson, a scholar more than a politician, has lost so much political appeal that some Senate leaders want Truman to dump him.

Meanwhile, in Key West, President Truman sits in the sun, oblivious to congressional bitterness, oblivious to his slipping foreign policy. In addition to Republicans, many Democrats are bitter at Truman. They feel that overnight — election night of November, 1948 — he was transformed from a humble little man who asked all Americans to help him, to a boastful little "I-did-it" Harry.

In the Wardman Park hotel in Washington, Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, the Republican, who has had the courage and unselfishness to give the United States a bipartisan foreign policy, remains ill. He may never go back to the Senate as a vigorous leader. Without him, less responsible Republicans run berserk.

Democratic leaders would like to see their president launch a bold, brave move for a unified nation. They recall how President Roosevelt conferred repeatedly with Wendell Willkie and brought two elder GOP statesmen, Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox, into his cabinet. They wish Truman would call Dewey, Stassen, Warren of California to a conference on the vital problems facing this country — before it is too late.

Along the Hungarian-Yugoslav border, more and more divisions of the Red army have been moved up, including mechanized divisions. They are equipped with machine shops and heavy repair units, which do not accompany troops unless they are heading for battle. Some Russian troops, seized by Yugoslavs in border raids, have maps showing Yugoslav airports and Danube bridges.

It looks as if the Red army is waiting for spring and dry weather for the big push against the one man who has successfully defied Stalin. But whether that push comes or not, virtual war is now on. And it will continue on until one side or the other cracks.

Risk of Hurting Living Men Shouldn't Bar Marshall Story

By Bruce Blossat

Gen. George C. Marshall, former Army Chief of Staff and Secretary of State, says he won't write his memoirs because to tell the whole truth might do irreparable to living men.

Says the general:

"Inevitably the press reaction—the public reaction—devotes itself to the critical item, although it may be only one paragraph in the entire book.

"You almost ruin a man. But if you don't mention that, it is not history, because it had a very important bearing on the procedure."

Many other men who have played a key role in the great events of America's recent past do not seem to share Marshall's attitude. Either they are less concerned about the impact of their disclosures upon living individuals, or they believe the importance of their story transcends whatever damage they may do.

Naturally there may be some, too, who choose to leave out vital parts of the story rather than offend principals whose part in the events may have laid them open to criticism.

We agree with Marshall that leaving out essentials to achieve a result that is simply "pleasant reading" is an unwise thing. It may be badly misleading to all but the most discerning of our historians.

As for whether or not to risk harming living men, that is an individual choice that each public figure must make according to his own conscience. But in our view, no man should bar for all time the telling of his personal chronicle of great events.

In other words, no one can rightly quarrel with the general for declining to speak out publicly at this time. But it would be a great loss to history if his version of events were never to be told.

Marshall is rated the great organizing genius of our victorious military effort. On top of that, he was our chief diplomat in one of the most puzzling periods in the history of U. S. foreign affairs. The historian can never gauge the war and early postwar days accurately without knowing what Marshall did, what he thought, how events appeared to him.

Some say the lessons of history are seldom learned. But we dare not assume man will not learn to draw more guidance from the story of his own past. That story, well and completely told, is inevitably filled with great instruction for his present course—no matter what the age he's living in.

Marshall owes it to history to set down his personal report on the war and its aftermath. Let him tell the full story, sparing no one. To protect any living men likely to be hurt, he can direct that his memoirs be kept secret until, say, 2000 A. D.

That way the general may live with his conscience, and he may know also that he has faithfully performed his final, inescapable duty as a high public servant.

Who Should Man H-Bomb Ark? Picking Ten is Tough Chore

By Peter Edison

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— There's a new wrinkle going around on the old wheeze about, "Who would you like to be stuck on a desert island with?" To make the question fit the atomic age, it has been revised to, "What ten persons should be given top priority protection for posterity, in the event of national destruction by hydrogen bomb?"

The supposition is that, as in the days of The Flood, they would take the place of . . .

"Noah and the animals—two by two—

The Hippo-pa-tamus and the ki-kangaroo"

. . . As the old song had it.

This is a fair enough question. It should be good for an evening's lively conversation at any cookie and carrot juice party. It makes you think who is essential and who is non-essential. And it brings you up against the stark realization that there are many more of the latter than the former.

In the first place, there is no use saving anyone over 30 years old. The ten to be picked will have the job of procreating to carry on civilization. So all the old gals and gaffers are out. Much as you would at first be inclined to nominate for salvation John L. Lewis and Eleanor Roosevelt or Senator and Martha Taft, the sad truth is that they'll have to be sacrificed. No personal reflections about this of course. It's all in the interest of posterity, and the wisdom of the aged counts for naught.

Some people working on this list would doubt like to approach it from the Dan Cupid angle and do some ideal matchmaking: Margaret O'Brien and boy friend, Joe DiMaggio and a diving queen, Ingrid Bergman and Rita Hayworth and their latest, Clark Clifford and Miss America. Margaret Truman and Mr. America. Yehudi Menuhin and somebody to play the piano.

But that's no go. It's too much like the old story about the proposal that Bernard Shaw marry Elenora Duse. The idea was that their children—with his brains and her beauty—would all be geniuses. Shaw discovered the catch in that one. What if the offspring turned out to have his beauty and her brains?

Spin the Wheel

Perhaps the easiest way to start on this problem would be to conduct a national lottery. Leave it to chance. That's what Mother Nature has done since the beginning of time. It has produced some terrible misfits. It has also produced Abraham Lincoln, Thomas A. Edison, Mark Twain and Walt Whitman. Ten people picked at random—if of sound body and average intelligence—would probably do as good a job as five ideal couples.

Another approach would be to pick 'em the way they pick race horses. Get good stock. Perfect physical specimens, high I. Q. Or pick one couple on those standards. Then surround them with four other couples who would contribute most to their staying alive.

First off, you would want a scientist. Somebody who could run a Geiger counter and tell you where it would be safe to put your tootsies without getting them ray-burned in an atom-contaminated world. That suggests some young atomic scientist like J. Robert Oppenheimer, generally conceded the smartest of the American geniuses. Only he'd have to promise not to build another bomb. If his wife is a school-teacher let him bring her along to educate the next generation.

You would want a young doctor and nurse, to carry on what mankind has learned so far about curing illness and saving life.

Next you would want a good farmer and wife. Somebody who knew how to grow potatoes and can tomatoes. That suggests picking the champion 4-H Club boy and girl each year, and keeping them available. They're young enough, of good country stock, sound of heart, of health, of mind and habit.

Next you would need a good mechanic and jack-of-all-trades—somebody who could build a porch on the cave, rig up a waterwheel, hook it to a grindstone, build a fire by rubbing sticks together, trap a squirrel, skin a rabbit, build a boat, cut firewood and fix the plumbing. By all means he must be able to do that.

Your jack-of-all-trades would need to have a good practical wife. Somebody who could run a sewing machine, hang curtains over the cave windows, bake a wild cherry pie, spin, weave and darn socks.

And there you have your ten.

As for all politicians, lawyers, radio entertainers, bond salesmen, bankers, real estate agents, movie stars, executives, Canasta players and newspaper columnists—

As the Lord High Executioner sings in the Mikado, "They never would be missed, they never would be missed."

FEAR IS THE FIFTH COLUMNIST

Now we come to the sixth step: (6) Hold in mind that nothing that you fear is as bad as the fear itself. I mean that seriously: nothing that can happen to you, or can be as disastrous and disruptive as the entrance of fear and worry into your life; for if you keep the center of life intact, then you can come back from anything. Healed at the heart, you can say, "Let the world come on" but, hurt at the heart by fear and worry, you are knocked down by happenings—real and imaginary. The man who fights life's battles without fear fights one enemy—the real thing confronting him. But the man who fights with fears within him fights three enemies—the real thing to fight, plus the imaginary things built up by fear, plus the fear itself. And the greatest of these is fear. Fear is the Fifth Columnist within the soul, the Trojan horse that looses from within itself the enemies that capture us within before the real fight with the outward enemy begins.

Then take your fear

By the ear.

And say, "See here,

If the thing I fear

Were really here,

It could not cause a fear

So scalding, nor could it sear

My soul as much as you, the fear,

So, now and forever, out of here!"

So, boiled down to its essence, the conclusion is that there is nothing to fear, nothing to worry about except worry.

But to leave the matter there with that trite saying is to leave us with fear feeding on fear and worry feeding on worry. That would be just as bad as fearing and worrying about something objective. Even the fear of fear must go. How? By fastening our attention not on the thing to be feared, or on the fear of this fear, but on Christ, the Savior from fear.

O Christ, my Saviour, Thou dost know everything that causes me fear—Thou hast gone through it all. And yet no fears or worries rooted themselves in Thee. I would know Thy secret: unfold it to me. I obey completely and fully. Amen

Special Summer Camps Fit Needs of Handicapped Child

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Great progress has been made in the medical care and in the understanding of children who are crippled, deformed or handicapped by injury or disease. A number of involuntary organizations have helped immensely. Today many of these youngsters can be helped to take a more normal part in the mental and physical activities in which others of the same age indulge.

It is encouraging to realize, too, that play as well as work has been so much improved for the handicapped. Camping in the summer has been one of the great delights of many children for years. Now the camping experience (adjusted to the particular needs of the youngster) can be provided for more and more of the handicapped and crippled.

For example, the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults (11 South LaSalle Street, Chicago 3, Illinois) in co-operation with the American Camping Association (343 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois) has informed me that either organization would be willing to supply information on camps for crippled children which are located in many parts of the continent.

These camps are not exclusively the privilege of the rich. Through the generosity of many public-spirited citizens, it is often possible to send children who need to some of these camps under scholarships or partial scholarships.

It is particularly appropriate to call attention to this service and to the other great work for handicapped youngsters which the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults has done now when the Easter Seal campaign is under way.

Special Diabetic Camps

Other organizations also have an interest in camps for handicapped youngsters. There are a number of camps which are designed particularly for children with diabetes. Youngsters suffering from this condition can profit greatly from a properly conducted camp experience.

I am gratified, therefore, to be able to report that the American Diabetes Association (1 Nevin Street, Brooklyn, 17, New York) has also offered its services as a clearing house for information on diabetic camps.

Certainly all children should have a camp experience if it can be arranged. Certainly, too, there are special needs for those who

FINGERPRINTS Don't Lie

By Rupert Hughes

Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Although fingerprints found on the telephone used to kidnap Wendell Palmer to death point to Paul Moody as the guilty party, the murdered man's daughter, who is Moody's fiancée, refuses to believe his guilt. She has hired private detective Martin Queripel to investigate the case. When Queripel and Moody's lawyer, Harley Kenyon, interview Moody, the young man says he did not touch the phone and when he left Palmer was still alive. A woman in a passing car had waved to Palmer standing in the doorway when he left, Moody says.

—XXI—
MARTIN QUERIPPEL considered Harley Kenyon's suggestion to advertise for the woman who could supply evidence that Wendell Palmer was still alive when Paul Moody left his home. "We can try it," said Queripel, "but in the first place, she might not see the ad. In the second place, she might prefer to keep out of this case."

"I don't know about her not reading it," Kenyon objected. "The reporters would certainly find news in the fact we're advertising for a witness."

"That's true," Queripel said, with a nod, "but if she did not appear, it would tend to weaken Paul's story. Furthermore, all the testimony of all the women in the world wouldn't weigh against those fingerprints on the telephone." Kenyon nodded and Queripel went on:

"Harley, you stay here and make your notes and your plans, and see about bail and habeas corpus and what-have-you. I'll go take a peek at those prints."

Queripel shook hands with Paul and left the jail in a state of extreme conflict between what he wanted to believe and what he could not disbelieve. He was in the mood of the Scriptural prayer: "Lord, I believe; help thou my unbelief." His torment gave the lie to Dryden's cynicism: "With how much ease we believe what we wish."

He was tempted to throw away his principles and his convictions for the sake of his new and fatherly love for Azalea Palmer. In a daze he made his way to his car and drove it to the Crime Laboratory down at 320 West First Street. His mind was chugging on all cylinders, humming:

"Whether Moody is guilty or not guilty, that girl worships him and needs him, and must have him, or all her beautiful life is wrecked. Some murderers go free—some of the bestliest win the applause of juries. Hundreds of murderers are walking the streets uncaught or unconvicted. Why make an exception of this one sculptor?"

"I told that sweet girl that Benvenuto Cellini was a murderer and liked it. But if they had put Cellini to death, the world would never have had his magnificent 'Perseus with Medusa's Head' or his other works."

INTERTANGLED with these impious thoughts were thoughts of Detective Pete Kello and the fallibility of fingerprints.

It was a confused and bewildered man who climbed the shabby stairway in the old rookery at 320 West First Street and presented himself to the technicians in the Crime Laboratory.

He felt something like an atheist walking into an old cathedral to tell the priest that their Gospels were all wrong and they might as well abandon their religion.

Naturally Queripel did not tell his hosts that he had come to take a long shot at proving their supposed infallibility a myth.

He merely explained that he had been retained by the defense in the Paul Moody case and would like to follow the evidence against him step by step. He was hospitably received by Ray Pinker, who instructed James Stivers to "give him the works."

Stivers knew Queripel by reputation and knew also that Queripel was well informed on fingerprint methods. Although he was working on another case Stivers was glad to interrupt his task and show the eminent sleuth everything he asked to see.

By apparently casual questioning, Queripel verified all that Azalea had told him; but he avoided any mention of Kello's name.

Stivers definitely identified Paul Moody's fingerprints by showing Queripel first acknowledged prints he had made from Moody's own fingers at the studio, where Moody had made no objection to the ordeal. Indeed, Moody had brazenly welcomed it.

Next, Stivers produced the prints he had found at the studio. They all conformed to the pattern. Finally, he brought forward the eight fingerprints taken from the base of the telephone.

He said with a kind of solemn elation:

"These are the prints that will give Moody his whiff of gas."

Queripel shuddered, thinking more of Azalea's grief than of Moody's exit from the world he had hoped to adorn with statues.

Queripel studied the prints with fiercely eager eyes. To his sorrow he could find no least excuse to doubt that they were all the portraits of Moody's talented fingerprints.

BUT it was his custom to probe ever deeper and deeper, and he said:

"Could I see the telephone base these prints were taken from?"

"Sure," said Stivers. "We cut the instrument loose and brought it in for safekeeping."

He produced the telephone and part of its severed cords, carefully wrapped in cellophane so as to be visible without being touched. He held it while Queripel studied it through a magnifying glass.

Queripel winced as if stuck with a knife.

• Q's and A's

Q—What does an inch of rainfall amount to in ordinary liquid measure?

A—A rainfall of one inch over one acre of ground is equivalent to 27,143 gallons of water.

Q—When were lead pencils first used?

A—Apparently they originated in England about 1560 with the discovery of the Barrowdale graphite mine in Cumberland. Raw graphite was sawed into strips and, without further treatment, was inserted into slots cut lengthwise in wooden dowels. The first real invention was made in 1795 simultaneously by Conte in Paris and Hardmuth in Vienna.

Q—Should wet or green lumber be painted?

A—No. Paint does not adhere well to wet wood and is likely to peel off.

Q—What is the world's tallest known standing tree?

A—Founders Tree, a redwood in the Humboldt State Redwood Park, near Dyerville in California. It was 344 feet tall in 1947.

Too Many Questions Rob Women of Their Friendships

The February issue of the "Woman's Home Companion" offers its women readers a full page feature called "How to Ask a Question."

If there's anything women don't need to be taught it's how to ask questions. The average woman asks far too many as it is and is as bash as a radio quizmaster hammering away until she gets the information she wants.

There is one simple way to add to your face value—SMILE!

It doesn't appear that the two American soldiers who were court-martialed for refusing to pass the ketchup to a sergeant were using the old tomato.

People are already looking up places where they can't afford to go for vacation this coming summer.

With spring sales already in full swing, what this country needs is a 98-cent bill.

woman trying to find out another woman's age, without letting the other woman know what she is up to and yet giving her no avenue of escape?

Have you ever heard a wife checking up on a husband with such subtle, harmless-sounding little questions he doesn't know what she is trying to find out until he is trapped with no way to back out gracefully?

Have you ever listened to a woman digging out every single fact about a juicy bit of gossip—when she had nothing more to go on than a feminine hunch when she started out?

Build Up Frustration

And yet what good does all this skill at question-asking get women, beside a lot of headaches?

What they work so hard to find out often just makes them more envious, more suspicious, or more upset than they were when they started probing around with a lot of questions.

It's a safe bet the fewer questions a woman asks the more friends she has, the longer she keeps a man's love and the happier she is.

Says the introduction to "How to Ask a Question": "Questions are one of the best means of handling and improving our personal relationships."

Ask any husband what he thinks of that statement!

'Junior Rackets' Add Billions For The Crime Chiefs

PICK A NUMBER (or a horse, or a ball team) and the writers will take your bet, on the street or in your factory. The big winners will be the men "upstairs" in the syndicates.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's the third of six dispatches on how crimes DOES pay in the U. S. today—the sinister story of a new brand of super-crime with a yearly take estimated as high as $20 billion, more than the national defense budget, an illegal big business that threatens every law-abiding citizen.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—With the fabulous profits from their safe monopoly on off-track betting and slot machines, America's big crime syndicates have successfully promoted other gambling enterprises into the multi-billion dollar racket.

The two most important "subsidiaries" are sports pools and the numbers racket, plus the operation of both of them in the relatively new in-plant gambling business.

Betting on the outcome of sports events is handled very much like off-track betting on horse racing. Odds and results are flashed to gamblers and bookie joints all over the country by integrated networks of long distance telephone lines and on the same wires that carry horse race information.

A Massachusetts crime committee report finds that "the principal function of the syndicates is to serve as 'lay-off' houses for smaller sports book-makers, and the 'servicing' of big money gamblers." It also reveals that a Minneapolis organization, the Athletic Publishing House, equipped with an excellent research staff, prepares odds on baseball games 22 hours before game time.

Last summer, in Boston alone, it was estimated that the syndicate was taking in about $200,000 worth of bets a week and would aggregate about $4,000,000 for the season. Nationally, it is estimated by reliable investigators, the total take is $5,000,000,000.

The numbers or "policy" racket first became popular because very small sums, even pennies, could be wagered. Bets are made on the "number" of the day. The most popular method of getting the "number" is to select various predetermined digits from the daily pari-mutuel prices.

There are many clever ways of cheating the numbers players. Not long ago the daily number was composed of two digits from the noon report of bond sales in the New York exchange and one digit of the Cincinnati Clearing House reports. In a sensational expose, the secretary of the clearing house, Dennison Dubel, was discovered accepting a bribe to manipulate the number so that a minimum number of betters would win. He is now in prison.

Not to Accept Chairmanship

ST. LOUIS, March 22—(AP)—Dr. Arthur H. Compton, chancellor of Washington University, said Tuesday he would not accept chairmanship of the Atomic Energy Commission.

"The work of the Atomic Energy Commission is essential to the nation's safety and welfare," Compton said, "but it seems clear to me that I can do more toward these ends at Washington University than with the Atomic Energy Commission."

The university head, one of the group of scientists who developed the atomic bomb, made his statement to the university's campus publication.

It was not clear whether the post, left vacant by the resignation of David E. Lilienthal, has been offered to Compton by President Truman.

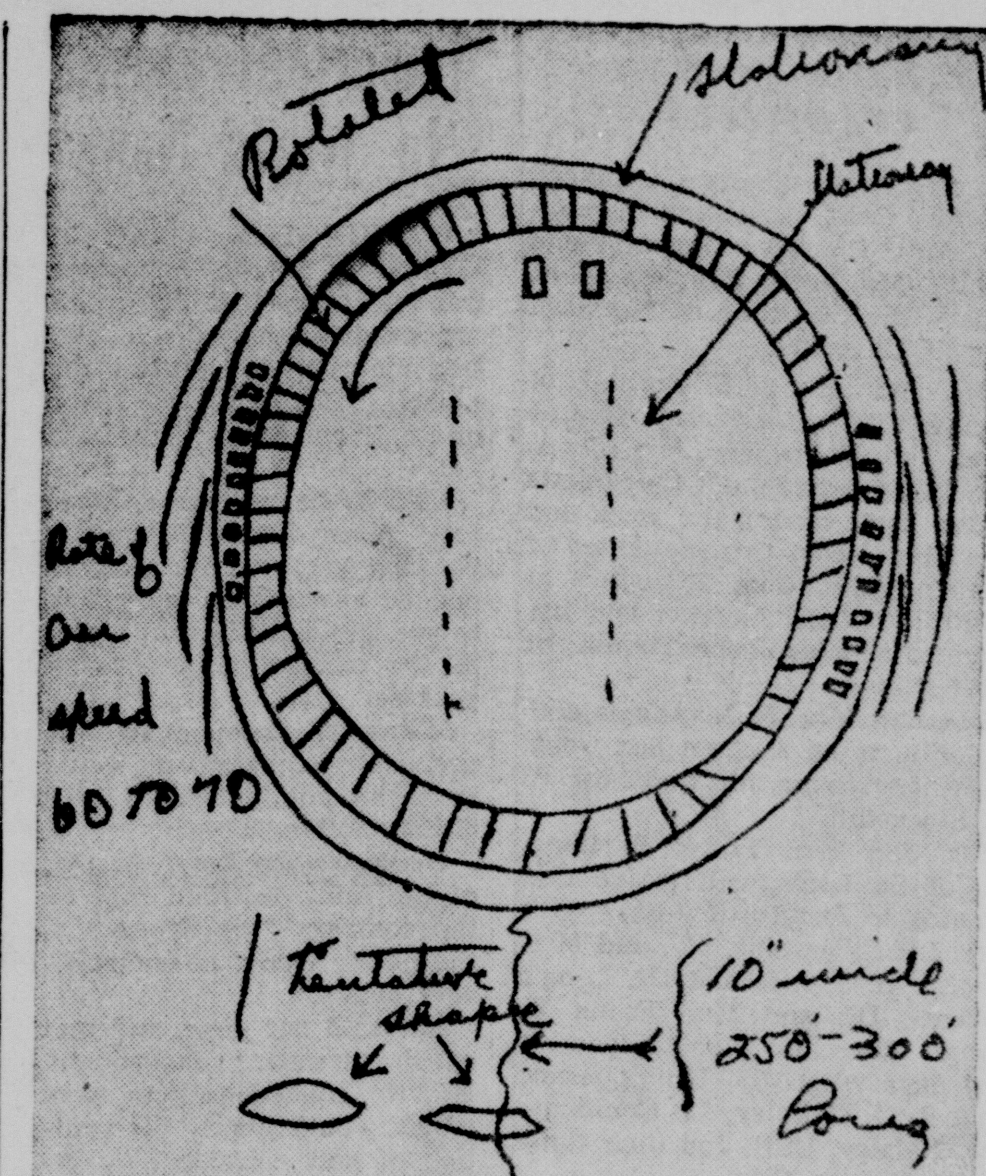

Compton previously had declined to comment on published reports that he was under consideration for the job.

of all employees in these plants gamble at some time or other.

"For every job opening as a gamblers' agent, there are dozens of applicants from among workers regularly employed in the plant. The risk of being seriously punished if caught is relatively slight. In-plant gambling is a much more highly organized business since the end of the war. National syndicates are involved as never before."

What this activity means in the loss of production, in addition to the loss of income by workers, is obvious. And the part that violence and bloodshed play in this situation is explained by the Massachusetts report:

"Rumors have been persistent in crime prevention and law enforcement circles and in the labor movement itself that the nearly

Highway Men Here Today About Roads

Want Plans Soon In Event Gas Tax Law is Passed

The Missouri state highway department is making preliminary plans on rural roads if the four-cent motor vehicle gas tax law is passed at the special election on Tuesday, April 4. Representatives of division four of the highway department were in Sedalia this morning discussing plans with the Pettis county court and the county road commission as to future rural roads.

Division engineer H. M. Brush and G. A. Barth, with the division of survey and plans, were in Sedalia this morning meeting with the court and commission. They told the group the highway department wants them to make ready their preliminary plans for Pettis county on rural roads. Should the tax law be passed they desire to have these plans in the hands of the department within ten days after the election so they can compare the highway plans with the county plans and make a final agreement on what work is to be done.

Barth also made it clear the highway department was not campaigning for the tax law, but they were only making preliminary plans should it be carried. If the tax law is defeated, "you just as well can forget the whole thing" was the inference left by the two highway department men from Kansas City.

Have Plans Ready
Judge J. V. Kestersan told the two Pettis county already has plans, with minor changes they can be given to the highway department anytime they want them. He also said the county court and highway commission have been working very closely on road plans in this county and feel they could work with the highway department as in the past.

Barth explained Pettis county will get $93,000 for farm-to-market roads as are now maintained in the county and an additional $93,000 for supplementary county roads.

Mr. Brush also explained the King bill road program will be open for two more years and Pettis county can still take advantage of those additional roads which will be a great help in improving the entire road system. Just when work will start if the tax law is passed is still a question. Brush said it all depends upon the collection of the tax and how soon it will be available for the highway department to start its work. It was indicated no work would get under way under ninety days after the election.

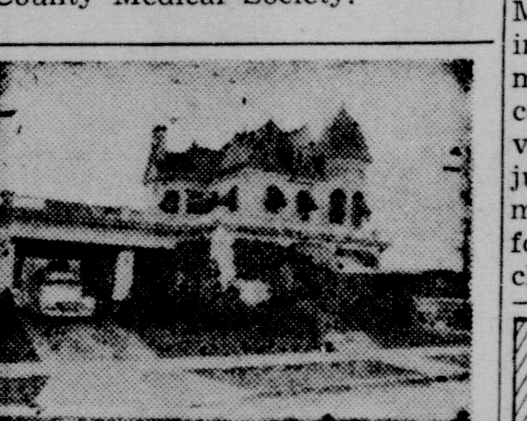

Funeral Director Home From Meeting

D. W. Heckart, a local funeral director, has returned from the National Selective Mortician Group meeting. This meeting, held annually, took place this year on March 20-21 at the Fontelle hotel in Omaha, Neb.

Meeting with morticians from the states of Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Mr. Heckart was able to discuss many of the trends in today's funeral service.

The National Selective Morticians, of which Gillespie funeral home is a member, consists of 500 funeral directors in the United States and Canada. The purpose of the S. N. M. is to improve the service of funeral directors to the public and to maintain high standards.

Cancer Clinic Friday
The Cancer Clinic will be held at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Nurses Home at Bothwell hospital. Dr. John W. Walker, of Kansas City, and Dr. Fink, of Topeka, Kas., will be at the clinic, assisted by members of the Pettis County Medical Society.

There were no immediate indications whether Mr. Truman's personal efforts will build up any more house strength.

Compromise Talk
Leaders talked of possible compromise.

The measure proposes a $2,000,000,000 government corporation. It would borrow most of its money from the public and make loans to co-ops or other nonprofit organizations at about 3 per cent interest with mortgages to extend up to 60 years. The co-ops would build dwellings for families with annual income from $2,400 to $4,700.

Opponents contend the plan is discriminatory and socialistic. They point out that veterans must pay 4 per cent on housing loans and that home mortgage insurance for other citizens through FHA is at 4 1/2 per cent.

The poll, showing Democrats themselves lukewarm to the co-op plan, was made on the basis of the legislation as now drawn.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Ardie Pretzinger

Mrs. Ardie Pretzinger, 76 years old, a former Sedalia, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Virgil Lawhorn, in Los Angeles, Calif., after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Pretzinger was a native of Clinton and was born February 28, 1874. She lived many years in Clinton and then came to Sedalia where together with Mrs. Dolly Bailey, she operated the LaMoore Coffee shop. She left Sedalia in 1936 with Mr. and Mrs. Lawhorn and went to Los Angeles where she has since made her home.

Surviving besides her daughter, Mrs. Virgil Lawhorn, is one son, Leonard Pretzinger, also of the state of California.

Funeral services will be held in Clinton on Saturday afternoon. The body is expected to arrive in Clinton, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lawhorn, about noon Saturday.

Following the burial Mr. and Mrs. Lawhorn will come to Sedalia where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Green, 624 East Fourteenth street.

Mrs. Cameron D. Garrett

The body of Mrs. Cameron D. Garrett, former Sedalia, who died in Yonkers, N. Y., will arrive in Sedalia at 5:28 o'clock Thursday afternoon, accompanied by deceased's son, Richard Barrett and Mrs. Garrett, with whom she had made her home.

Mrs. Garrett was born in Kentucky September 4, 1851, a daughter of Dr. Thomas Montgomery and Mrs. Montgomery. The family moved here from Kentucky and the daughter was married to Richard Garrett, a lawyer. Mr. Garrett died soon after their son was born.

Mrs. Garrett then taught school for a time in a private school in Booneville, then at Broadway, Prospect which is now Mark Twain, and she was principal of the East Sedalia Primary school.

She was the oldest member of the Broadway Presbyterian church. She was a sister of the late John Montgomery, Jr., and for six years prior to leaving Sedalia had made her home with Mr. Montgomery. Since that time she had resided with her son and family in Yonkers.

The body will be taken to McLaughlin's chapel.

John D. Wills

John D. Wills, 50 years old, of 1423 East Ninth street, died at the Bothwell hospital at 5:33 o'clock Tuesday evening. He had been a patient at the hospital since February 26.

He was born in Benton county, October 7, 1899, the son of C. G. and Hattie Smith Wills. He had resided in and near Sedalia for the past 20 years.

May 17, 1920 he was married to Miss Viola Chapman, who preceded him in death August 30, 1930.

He was married at Warsaw, November 29, 1933 to Miss Anna Wise.

A daughter, Yvonne Wills, died in 1934 at the age of two months. One sister, Mrs. Armelia Smith, died in 1933.

Mr. Wills is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Wills; one son, Donald Wills of the home; three daughters and one son by his first marriage, Mrs. A. M. Cameron, Miss Armelia Wills, Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Grace Riojas, Kansas City; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Wills, 1407 East Sixth street, three brothers, Guy H. Wills, 1712 East Seventh street; Paul Wills, Windsor, Neb.; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Elkins, Ft. Worth, Texas; Mrs. Averilla Rudosol, 2400 South Missouri avenue; Mrs. Una May Smith, Eldon.

Funeral services will be held at the Ewing funeral home at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Rev. Walter P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church, will officiate.

Interment will be in the Crown Hill cemetery.

The body is at the Ewing funeral home.

Mrs. W. H. Powell Service

Funeral services for Mrs. Louise Humphreys Powell, widow of late Col. William H. Powell, who died at the Bothwell hospital Tuesday morning will be held at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Calvary Episcopal church, with the rector, the Rev. Warren Botkin, to officiate.

Pallbearers will be T. W. Cloney, II, E. M. Stafford, Jr., C. E. Messey, John G. Crawford, Dr. W. A. Beckmeyer and James Norlin. Burial will be in the Powell family lot in Crown Hill cemetery.

The body is at the McLaughlin chapel.

Here to attend the funeral are: Mrs. Powell's two sons and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Powell, of Albuquerque, N. M., and Mr. and Mrs. David H. Powell, of Kansas City.

Funeral of Mrs. Willner
Funeral services were held in the Bunceton Baptist church for Mrs. Charles Willner with Rev. Edward A. Winchell officiating.

Mrs. Willner died while visiting with relatives in Kansas City. She was born on April 28, 1887 near Bunceton the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sellers.

She was married on June 13, 1936 to Charles Willner of Indianapolis, Ind.

Burial was in the Bunceton cemetery.

J. C. Sutherland Service
Funeral services for J. O. Sutherland, of Windsor, who died unexpectedly early Tuesday morning will be held in Windsor at 2:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Burial will be in the Laurel Oak cemetery.

The body is at the Huston-Turner funeral home.

Surviving Mr. Sutherland are his wife, two sons, Elbert and Logan Sutherland, both of Windsor, seven grandchildren three great grandchildren two brothers, Sam Sutherland and Ronald Sutherland and two sisters, Mrs. Walter Botts and Mrs. Garland Ruffin, all of Windsor, a number of nieces and nephews.

A daughter, Mrs. Ann Boney, died in 1949.

Miss Bailey's patriotism or the value of her services to the government, or to suppose that an unpatriotic person could do substantial harm in her sort of job. "Even if her services were on the whole undesirable, to oust her as disloyal on rumor and without trial is to pay too much for protection against such harm as she could do in such a job."

"Even if such dismissals would strengthen the government instead of weakening it, they would still cost too much in constitutional rights. We cannot preserve our liberties by sacrificing them."

'Dagwood' Gets Out on Bond

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—(AP)—Police early today arrested two men on drunk charges and identified one of them as Arthur Lake, the movies' "Dagwood."

Arresting officers identified the other as Paul W. Sebring, president of a dogfood company. The men were picked up in front of Sebring's home where neighbors complained they were creating a disturbance.

Both were released on $20 bail pending hearing in municipal court later today.

Important Events In World News

WASHINGTON, March 22 —(AP)—A Senate committee was told today that this country needs to follow up splitting the atom by splitting the nickel. But the lady who mints Uncle Sam's coins said no.

The battle of the coinage took place before a Senate banking sub-committee that opened hearings on legislation to add 2 1/2 and 7 1/2 cent pieces to the change in Americans' pockets.

Witnesses supporting the proposal estimated it would save the public from 5 to 8 billion dollars a year.

Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, testified that on the contrary "the expense to the public would be undoubtedly heavy."

She said her view, and that of the treasury department, is: "No conditions now exist which would justify the addition of new coins to our system."

ROME, March 22 —(AP)—One man was reported killed at Parma and 3,000 persons were arrested in Rome today during a Communist-led general strike that hit Italy's industries and tied up local transportation.

The government met the challenge with a massing of police strength that choked off many demonstrations throughout the country.

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP)—Former president Herbert Hoover says the federal government "needs more than an annual housecleaning."

"There are corners where the dust, cobwebs and the red tape have not been cleaned out for at least 50 years," he declared yesterday.

Mr. Hoover, head of the commission on reorganization of the executive branch of government, spoke at a women's rally of the New York citizens committee for the Hoover report.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today backed up contentions from associates that the United States is being harmed in its foreign relations by the charges from Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) of Communist infiltration of the state department.

At a news conference, reporters recalled that ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup had called McCarthy's charges "utterly irresponsible" and harmful. Acheson said he fully supports Jessup's declaration.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—A report that government payrolls showed a net reduction of 6,153 persons in January came today from the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—Senator Taft said today that former President Hoover may be asked to testify on President Truman's proposal to abolish the independent general counsel of the National Labor Relations board.

The Ohio Republican told a reporter he doesn't know Hoover's attitude toward the President's move, submitted to Congress as No. 12 of 21 government reorganization plans. Hearings on the proposal probably will be held by the Senate expenditures committee early in April.

Four Perish When Fire Sweeps Home

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., March 22.—(AP)—Four small Negro girls perished here yesterday when flames swept their home.

Mary Pirtle, mother of the children, said she left them alone to go a short distance into town to get some laundry. The father, Jesse Pirtle, was at work.

The victims were Dorothy Mae, five; Bessie Jean, three; Elsie, two; and Elnora, five months.

Firemen said the cause of the fire was not known.

Admitted for medical treatment: Rudy Meyer, Cole Camp; Mrs. Margaret Shaw, 1500 South Warren avenue, and John E. Braum-parler, 1415 South Carver avenue.

Admitted for tonsillectomy: William D. Hawley, 1100 East Sixteenth street, and Virgil Rodgers, 1620 South Beacon avenue.

Dismissed: George Whitman, 131 East Walnut street; Jimmie Lee Thompson, 429 North Street; Ernest Selken, route 5, Sedalia; Mrs. Vellie Moore, 1301 South Lamine avenue; Wilber Easter, route 1, Green Ridge; Mrs. James D. Case and son, 1400 South Sneed avenue, Mrs. Roy Sirks, 1311 East Broadway; Mrs. Nell V. J. P. Devine, Clifton City; Francis Harvey, 319 1/2 West Sixth street; C. Smith, 506 South Park avenue, and Dalton H. Brown, Versailles.

Judge W. M. Ilgenfritz, 615 West Broadway, was admitted to the hospital this afternoon for medical attention. Judge Ilgenfritz had been ill at his home for several days.

Gorgeous George Coming Thursday

Advance ticket sales for the Gorgeous George of Hollywood, Calif., and Marshall Esteppe of Sturgeon, Mo., wrestling match on Thursday night are in demand according to Mel Carl of Beverly's Snack Shop where the tickets are being handled.

Promoter Pearl Christy has announced that Gorgeous George is drawing overflow crowds in every city in which he appears. His popularity as one of the leading attractions in wrestling is nationwide and the face he is mentioned from time to time by leading radio entertainers on their broadcasts creates a desire to see him.

His appearance in Kansas City Tuesday night proved his drawing powers as he had an overflow crowd at the Legion hall there. Sedalia is certain to provide one of the largest crowds ever to jam into the National Guard armory.

Supporting Gorgeous George and Esteppe will be two catches in which women wrestlers will appear. These two matches alone are worth seeing as the women wrestlers provide many thrills during their events to the delight of the wrestling fans.

Barber Admits Killing Man

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 22.—(AP)—A slender, greying barber who told police he was too little to carry the body of a big man admitted last night the butcher slaying of a window washer.

Detective Clint Seward said 56-year-old Clarence Taylor broke down after 12 years of questioning and, between sobs, told a grisly tale of how he killed George Willis Baldwin, 54.

The police detective said Taylor related that he killed Baldwin with shots from a .38-caliber pistol in his downtown barber shop the night of March 13.

"I did it—I'll tell everything," Seward quoted Taylor as saying, adding that the slight-statured barber blamed the shooting on an argument over a pretty young woman.

The woman, identified as 19-year-old Mrs. Goldie Juanita Wilson of Dresser, a community across the Wabash river from Terre Haute, was held without charge for questioning.

Forrest Smith Is Encouraged

KANSAS CITY, March 22.—(AP)—Governor Forrest Smith said today he was encouraged over growing sentiment for the proposal to increase Missouri's gasoline tax from two to four cents a gallon.

"I feel greatly encouraged," he said in an interview. "If the people and the organizations who tell us that they are for it will go out and vote April 4, there is no question about the outcome."

In regard to the possibility of a special session of the legislature in April, Smith said it was not at all certain there would be one.

While there have been numerous requests for one, he added, a definite decision is yet to be reached.

The Governor and Mrs. Smith came here to attend a concert by Miss Margaret Truman last night.

Cocktail Invitations Must be Censored

WARSAW, Poland, March 22.—(AP)—Even cocktail party invitations must be passed by the censor under Poland's new law governing all printed material.

The British embassy found out about it yesterday when a Warsaw printer refused an order for invitation cards to a farewell party for Sir Donald Gainer, the retiring British ambassador.

The printer cited a new law which requires prior approval by the press censor of all material to be printed. The embassy sent a formal note to the press ministry asking it to approve the wording of the invitations.

WONDER-WORKING HADACOL
GREAT FOR THIN, SICKLY KIDDIES

suffering from B Vitamins and Mineral Deficiencies

Most mothers don't realize this! When your child won't eat, is pale, sickly, puny, backward at school, nervous, has an easily upset stomach—it's often because he's suffering from such nutritional deficiencies. Kiddies need two to three times more of these disease-fighting, health-building elements than adults. So start your children on HADACOL at once.

HADACOL is almost a miracle-working nutritional treatment for kiddies troubled like this. HADACOL helps build strong spines, muscles, sound teeth. It improves the appetite, aids digestion and relieves upset stomachs. HADACOL even helps build up red blood to course through their little bodies, bringing unbelievable new strength and energy. Watch school marks improve!

Mrs. G. R. Reeves of Anniston, Alabama, writes: "I've been giving my little girl HADACOL for about eight weeks and it's done her so much good. She eats more and is more playful. She doesn't mind taking it at all."

No matter what you've tried—give HADACOL a chance to help your kiddie. Trial size only $1.19 a bottle. Large family or hospital size for $1.19

'MOTHERS TO BE' NEED HADACOL
To help bear strong, healthy babies

Expectant mothers may not be aware of it, but they oftentimes have a deficiency of essential B vitamins and minerals—which are so necessary if they want to help bear strong, healthy babies. Undoubtedly, Nature's plans are to disregard the older life to do the best possible for the new individual coming into the world. In order to maintain normal calcium concentration in the blood, Nature makes so great an effort that it robs bones and teeth for this purpose. This explains the increase in tooth decay during pregnancy, for Nature robs the mother—to feed the child—of not only calcium, but of iron and other valuable elements.

So give your children the right start—take wonder-working HADACOL all through the waiting months. HADACOL relieves morning sickness, upset stomachs, heartburn and constipation when (as so often) these symptoms are due to such deficiencies. HADACOL helps reinforce and nourish body tissues. It contains precious calcium to help keep your teeth sound. HADACOL also has iron to build up red blood to go coursing through your body, bringing new strength and energy which you need at this time.

Buy HADACOL today! You owe it to yourself, your family, and the "little one" coming "Trial" size only $1.19 a bottle. Large family or hospital size $3.19.

Storm Sewer Report Made By Engineer

Richard Lindemood, resident engineer, Monday night submitted to the City Council, the following report on progress on the sewer system being installed:

"March 8, 1950.
To: The Honorable Mayor and Members of the City Council, Sedalia, Missouri.

"Progress Report of Sanitary and Storm Sewer Improvement Project and Treatment Plant Construction.

"Gentlemen:
The following is a report of the progress during the month of February 1950 on the Sanitary and Storm Sewer Improvement Project, and the Construction Program for the South, North and West Treatment Plants.

"Work on the Sanitary Sewer Improvement Project included completion of Main "A" consisting of 8 inch tile laid East on Henry street between Lamine and Washington avenues. This completed installation of tile in the North District. In the West District Main "V" consisting of 8 inch tile laid south of Eleventh street and Warren avenue, was completed which completed installation of tile in the West District. In the East District work continued on the section of Main "N" consisting of 8 inch tile laid west of Merriam avenue and north of Fourteenth street extending east to Merriam avenue and then south. Sewer tile laid this month consisted of approximately 1,961 lineal feet. By the end of February the total amount of sewer laid amounted to approximately 40,495 lineal feet, which combined with manholes constructed and work done on the pump stations represents approximately 86 per cent completion of the project.

Complete Contract Documents
"Contract documents have been completed for the replacing of approximately 120 lineal feet of 24 inch vitrified clay pipe, installation of concrete encasement, installation of approximately 54 lineal feet of 25 inch cast iron pipe and necessary excavation, structures and grading to be known as "Repair of 25 inch outfall sewer." This sewer carries sewage from a point north of Henry street and east of Grand avenue to the North Treatment Plant. The contractor on this project is W. J. Menefee Construction Co., and they are in the process of obtaining the necessary materials with construction to start as soon as materials are on hand.

"Work on the storm Sewer Improvement Project consisting of construction of a 96 inch monolithic concrete relief sewer parallel to the existing 60 inch brick sewer located on block east of Grand avenue and extending from the Missouri Pacific railroad tracks north approximately 2,800 feet will be started in March. The contractor on this project is Hastings and Stiers and they have set up an office on the job site, brought in some equipment and are in the process of clearing brush and receiving materials to begin construction.

"At the South Treatment Plant work this month consisted of sitting the digester floating covers, completion of roofing and glazing for the Control building and additional work on gas and water piping and power and light wiring in the Control Building. The concrete work on the influent structure was completed. Work done to March 1, represents approximately 91 per cent completion of the project. Since my last report there has been some lost time due to bad weather and although the contractor is making every effort to put this plant in operation by March 15, it appears at this time as though it might be nearer the last week of March.

Work Done
"At the North Treatment Plant this month the Control Building roof was poured and brick work was completed. Work was continued on yard piping and installation of filter tile was completed. Concrete work on the influent structure was started and alterations to the existing Imhoff tank are under way. Pumps and pipe work have been installed in the pump structure and grading was in progress around the digesters. Work done to March 1 represents approximately 80 per cent completion of the project.

"At the West Treatment Plant the operation floor slab of the Control Building was poured this month and all forming and reinforcing steel placed for pouring the walls above the operating floor level. Work proceeded on yard piping which is now approximately 75 per cent completed. Alterations to the existing dosing tank were completed and the tank put back into operation. Work done to date represents approximately 65 per cent completion of the project.

"Respectfully submitted,
"RICHARD LINDEMOOD,
"Resident Engineer."

Quads Bring Financial Crisis

Ossie Hargreaves, father of the five-months-old girl quadruplets shown here in a Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., hospital soon after their birth, says his financial plight is such "we may have to consider offering the four girls for adoption." The father says that public interest has waned. He points out that there is only $5,000 allotted for a home by the committee organized to raise funds for building a home and educating the children. He says he doesn't feel he can make a start on that. (AP WIREPHOTO) weather and although the contractor is making every effort to put this plant in operation by March 15, it appears at this time as though it might be nearer the last week of March.

Work Done
"At the North Treatment Plant this month the Control Building roof was poured and brick work was completed. Work was continued on yard piping and installation of filter tile was completed. Concrete work on the influent structure was started and alterations to the existing Imhoff tank are under way. Pumps and pipe work have been installed in the pump structure and grading was in progress around the digesters. Work done to March 1 represents approximately 80 per cent completion of the project.

"At the West Treatment Plant the operation floor slab of the Control Building was poured this month and all forming and reinforcing steel placed for pouring the walls above the operating floor level. Work proceeded on yard piping which is now approximately 75 per cent completed. Alterations to the existing dosing tank were completed and the tank put back into operation. Work done to date represents approximately 65 per cent completion of the project.

"Respectfully submitted,
"RICHARD LINDEMOOD,
"Resident Engineer."

Save Cameraman From Mob Action
CAPRI, Italy, March 22—(AP)—Police saved an American movie cameraman from mob action on Monday in the Capri village square.

He was identified as Peter Riethof who had been shooting scenes on the isle of Capri for several days.

A crowd of angry villagers surrounded him, protesting that he was staging "disgusting" scenes that did not present a true picture of Capri life.

Police stepped in before the crowd could lay hands on Riethof. They confiscated his camera.

Protest on Eldon Sewage

ELDON, Mo., March 22—(AP)—State Health department officials have taken under advisement the sewage problem at Eldon, described by two witnesses Tuesday as "fierce" and "fearful."

More than 100 persons in the Eldon area attended the hearing today in which the State Health officials hope to find a solution for a stream pollution situation in this Ozarks community.

Some 20 witnesses, including two state officers, testified that Eldon's present sewage disposal plant was inadequate and was polluting Blythe creek.

Farmers and landowners below the disposal plant said their land values were down, fish were destroyed and their own general health was endangered.

The hearing was called by Samuel Marsh, director of the state department of health and welfare.

Dr. Buford Hamilton, director of the division of health. They will decide within 10 days whether they should recommend that Eldon improve and expand its sewage disposal system.

The present system is 20 years old.

Utah enacted a law in 1921 to prohibit cigarettes and repealed it two years later.

Grocers See Movies After a Dinner

The Sedalia Retail Grocers Association held a dinner meeting in the Palm room of the Bothwell hotel Tuesday night. The meeting was open to all retail grocers of this city and surrounding areas.

A movie entitled "Design for Selling" was shown following the dinner. This was the first in a series of seven such pictures produced by the National Association of Retail Grocers.

The remainder six movies will be shown at the ensuing six meetings of the association.

Fire Destroys Abbey and Church

NORTH CUMBERLAND, R. I., Mar. 22—(AP)—Fire Tuesday night destroyed the abbey and church of the Cistercian monastery here.

At 11:10 p. m., EST only the front gate and quarters in the rear of the Abbey had not been consumed by the flames.

Two ambulances with litter cases arrived at Woonsocket hospital but there were no details.

The monks of the Cloistered Trappist order said so far as they knew no one had been trapped in the buildings.

How the fire started was not immediately clear.

Acheson Speech Reply up To Propaganda Agencies

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.,
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Soviet Russia's reaction to Secretary Acheson's Berkeley speech has been as expected—a resounding "Nyet."

The Kremlin has left the job of replying to its propaganda agencies, which is only natural since the secretary's words were addressed to people, not to any government.

First Moscow comment was a long diatribe by Anatoli Surov, Russian writer, who termed Acheson's seven points of needed cooperation an "ultimatum."

Since that time Pravda and others have made it plain that the "ultimatum" has been rejected in its entirety, although the Moscow commentators did discuss one point—the Japanese Peace treaty—which they say can be had, but only on their terms. There does seem to be a certain modification of these terms to include the smaller participants in the Pacific war as observers at the peace conference. But the Russians still want the real work to be done by the Big Five, which in practical effect leaves the others just as ineffective as ever.

Belittled by Chinese Reds

The Chinese communists were quick to catch their cue, too, in belittling Mr. Acheson's San Francisco speech in which he warned the Chinese people against adventures in other Asiatic countries.

The whole thing has resulted in a dispatch from Eddy Gilmore, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Moscow for many years, in which he says:

"There has probably been no time since the war when relations between the Soviet Union and the United States have reached such a low level."

Gilmore says the Russian people believe war is possible but not probable or imminent.

Russia, he says, still counts heavily on the Lenin-Stalinist theory that the capitalist countries will hang themselves through failure of their economic systems. The Russians feel time is on their side: t'at their sphere grows stronger while the west grows weaker.

They consider the communist conquest of China and the establishment of the East German "Republic" as highly significant signs of this trend.

Departing from the mass of vilifying generalities in which Acheson's terms were rejected, one specific Russian complaint which is understandable is made against American policy. It says it is understandable, even though based on misunderstanding. That is the Russian fear that the U. N. proposals for control of atomic energy are aimed at western monopoly. The Russians are counting heavily on atomic energy for the power with which to hurdle their years-long lag in catching up with the industrial revolution. They hope it will do for them in a few years what steam, electricity and the internal combustion engine did for western industry in the course of a more gradual development. They believe that proposed international controls would be rigged by the anti-Soviet majority to throttle these hopes.

The western nations are just as naturally fearful that, without the strictest sort of controls and inspection, Russia would be preparing secretly for atomic warfare whenever she feels the time is ripe to put the military climax to her world revolution.

This is just one example of the impossibility of a meeting of minds between east and west, and why speeches such as Acheson's will be strictly "for the record" until there are factual changes in the situation which will permit some exchange of mutual faith.

Newsweek looks at Life Insurance

RECENTLY members of Newsweek magazine's editorial staff interviewed Mr. Leroy A. Lincoln, President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, on the subject of Life insurance.

The tremendous role that Life insurance plays in the national economy, and the interesting institutional material developed during the discussion, are so important that a motion picture has been made of this interview. This film will be given wide distribution in line with Metropolitan's "Open Book" policy.

Naturally, in reply to questions from the editors, Mr. Lincoln made many references to Metropolitan's achievements in 1949. In fact, the interview developed the information that is customarily included in the Annual Report to Policyholders. Accordingly, a complete transcript has been printed as the Company's Report for 1949. Here are some of the highlights of that report:

—Metropolitan...paid about $769,000,000 (to beneficiaries and policyholders last year)...and I might add further that...(this includes)$502,000,000 to living policyholders."

—For our 33,000,000 policyholders in the United States and Canada, the total Life insurance in force in the Metropolitan at the end of last year was almost $42,000,000,000—an increase of 4 percent over the preceding year."

—Metropolitan's assets totaled $9,700,000,000, an increase of about 6 percent over the figure for 1948."

—"Through the combined efforts of the many health organizations, the average expectation of life at birth has improved 18 years since 1900. At that time it was about 49 years—while right now it is about 67."

—"Expenses for the Life insurance companies have gone up the same as for everybody else. For example, in the Metropolitan last year they increased about 4 percent... insurance in force in Metropolitan has increased about 80 percent since 1939, whereas operating expenses have increased only 71 percent."

—"In 1949, Metropolitan... paid $164,000,000 in dividends to policyholders—the largest such amount in the Company's history. Dividends payable to policyholders in 1950 will be somewhat larger in the aggregate than 1949."

—"Dividends would be substantially higher were it not for the low interest returns which have prevailed throughout the United States and Canada. For example, last year the net interest earned on Metropolitan assets was 3.07 percent, compared with 3.03 in 1948, and with 5.18 in 1929."

Metropolitan's Annual Report to Policyholders for 1949 will be sent to anyone on request. In addition, copies of the film may be borrowed for showing by local business, civic, or other groups in which Metropolitan policyholders are interested.

Critical on 'Overlapping'

Call on Brannan For Close Study On Activities

WASHINGTON, March 22—(AP)—The House Appropriations committee Tuesday sharply criticized Agriculture Department for "overlapping and duplication" in its multi-billion dollar activities.

It called upon Secretary Brannan to make a searching study of nationwide activities of his department looking toward a more efficient organization.

And, emphasizing the desirability of government economy, the committee said it was "disturbed about the question of efficient administration and operation" within the agency which directs broad food and farm research, crop control and price support programs.

"The committee is concerned about the future of the department and the agricultural programs of the country, in view of the fact that a large number of separate organizational units are conducting separate and in many cases completely independent programs in the field, each with a separate representative contacting the farmer," the committee said.

It cited as an example the separate soil conservation activities of the soil conservation service and the production and marketing administration.

The committee also professed to see "some reluctance throughout the department to adopt new lines of research holding more promise." It said committee investigations had disclosed a complete lack of advanced planning in department programs for insect and plant disease control.

Similar criticism of the department has been made by the Hoover commission on reorganization of the government.

The house committee's remarks were made in a report on the Agriculture department section of a huge $29,000,000,000 appropriation bill approved by the committee today. The measure recommends $1,284,382,000 to run the department's activities—exclusive of price supports—for the 1951 fiscal year, starting July 1. This amount is $50,000,000 more than the agency received for the current year, but $131,893,000 less than it requested.

Plan Easter Egg Roast

The Oak Point Extension club met at the home of Mrs. Otto Tegtmeyer at their last all day meeting until fall on March 15.

Mrs. Norman Gibson, the president, opened the meeting and roll call was answered by "An Ironing Trick."

Mrs. Gibson gave some hints on clothing from a meeting she had recently attended in Sedalia. Several songs were sung including the club song. The Lord's Prayer was also repeated in unison.

Arrangements were made for an Easter Egg Roast to be held at the school on April 7.

Recipes were given the members from a former demonstration on food by Mrs. Paul Payne and Mrs. Paul Sparks.

Members of the club play will present it at the school March 10. It will be given again the 21st when a group of county plays will be given in Sedalia.

The April meeting will be at Mrs. Darold Aruett's home in the afternoon.

Committees In Split on Substitutions

Wide Apart on Products for Recovery Cash

By W. H. Mobley

WASHINGTON, March 22—(P)—Foreign committees of the Senate and House split wide apart Tuesday over question of substituting surplus U. S. farm products for $1,000,000,000 of European recovery cash.

Each gave final approval to its version of a foreign spending authorization bill with $3,100,000,000 provided for economic cooperation administration programs in Europe. But in the Senate's measure it is all cash while in the House's bill a billion is farm surplus.

The Senate Foreign Relations committee action was unanimous. On the House side Chairman Kee (D-WVa) of the Foreign Affairs committee said approval was by "a large majority."

The disagreement set the stage for a rousing Senate-House battle. Kee made the prospect of such a contest plainer with a statement to reporters that "I'm going to support the bill all the way through."

Lack of support from the Foreign Affairs chairman made the road ahead look rough for any move to take out the farm products substitution amendment on the floor.

No Hurry on Bill
There were indications the Senate committee will be in no hurry to bring its bill formally to the floor. The House's bill is likely to be reported tomorrow, but there are no plans to bring it to debate until late April, after the Easter recess.

Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio), author of the substitution plan, told reporters there was "evidence of a determination among members 'to cut the cash fund even more and hinted he would lead a move to trim $150,000,000."

Simultaneously with the Senate committee action, the House group attached to its own foreign aid measure a declaration in favor of organization of Asia's free people for mutual aid to protect their independence.

The Senate committee too moved for broader action in Asia than this country is now taking, with an amendment which might permit economic aid from this country to guerilla forces and war lords holding out in China against the communists.

That language was attached to a portion of the bill under which "if the President deems it practical" not less than $50,000,000 or previously appropriated China-aid funds may be used on the Chinese mainland, and on the islands of Hainan and Formosa.

At the same time the Senate committee approved $100,000,000 in economic aid for Korea.

Three-day Conference

ROME, March 22 — (P) — The United States top ambassadors to Europe will discuss Secretary of State Dean Acheson's seven new requirements for understanding with Russia in their three-day closed door conference here this week.

"Discussions will cover the whole field of diplomatic and economic problems," said George W. Perkins, U. S. assistant secretary of state of European affairs, who arrived last night.

"Certainly it will include the secretary of state's new definition of the American position toward Russia."

Acheson's seven steps necessary for the Soviet Union to take before any real accord could be reached included agreement on atomic control, speedy conclusion of peace treaties, withdrawal of Soviet armies from the satellite countries, and ceasing to use Communist parties for subversive activities.

'Two Big Boosts' Is Comment

JEFFERSON CITY, March 22—(P)—The Better Roads committee said Tuesday it has received "two big boosts" in its fight for Gov. Forrest Smith's gasoline tax increase law.

The committee announced that Rep. Clarence Cannon, Democrat, sent a letter from Washington asking Missourians to vote for the tax hike when it comes up for referendum vote April 4.

The Missouri Baptists' Association swung in behind the governor's law, too, the committee said. Official support of the church organization came in its newspaper, "Word and Way." The committee said Dr. T. W. Medearis of Jefferson City, general superintendent of the state association, urged members of his congregation to vote for the law "for the good of all our people and for better conditions of our country churches."

Congressman Cannon was quoted as writing that "we have lifted the interurban driver out of the mud and now let us lift the farmer out of the mud and up on the highway with him."

The law would double Missouri's two cent gasoline tax, setting aside one cent of the increase for state-built country roads.

GE Presents New Creation

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 22—(P)—"Avoid that run down feeling—be careful," a voice barked at pedestrians waiting to cross the street today at Syracuse's main downtown intersection.

They looked around, saw no one who might have uttered the warning.

"Long chances shorten lives—be careful," the voice blurted. It came from a small box atop a traffic light and sounded off every time the light changed. The General Electric Company announced that the device was its creation.

The voice, described by GE as "friendly," is operated by a tape recording machine and is designed to make pedestrians safety conscious. It uttered six different messages of warning.

The gadget was constructed at GE's electronics park plant here.

Actor Edward Arnold To Run For Senator

HOLLYWOOD, March 22—(P)—Actor Edward Arnold says he's considering running for the Republican nomination as U. S. senator.

When asked to comment on the coincidence that his current role in the movies is that of a senatorial candidate Arnold gave forth "Heh, heh, heh."

Boost Stewart For Jaycee Post

MONETT, Mo., March 22—The Missouri Junior Chamber of Commerce will back Floyd Stewart, Monett high school teacher, for national Jaycee president this year.

Jim Kolb, state president, of Jefferson City made the announcement at a dinner meeting here. Stewart now is national vice-president of the Jaycees. Kolb said the state organization plans to raise a $1,500 campaign fund in behalf of Stewart. The national convention will be in Chicago in June.

An organization meeting for the establishment of a Junior Chamber of Commerce club in Sedalia will be held in the board room of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 o'clock Thursday March 30th.

All you men interested in bettering their community, their state and their country are invited to attend this session. The meeting will be in charge of the state president, James Kolb, of Jefferson City.

Col. J. W. Newsome, Tyndall chief of staff, said the roofs of "75 to 100" administration and barracks buildings would have to be replaced. Many windows also were shattered.

Two airmen received hospital treatment for bruises. They were struck by hailstones as big as hen eggs.

After having served as alderman of the fourth ward for the past two (2) years, I now come before all of our people as a candidate for the office of mayor. Although a candidate on the Republican ticket, I shall not, if elected, indulge in partisan politics. I shall, if elected maintain office hours at the City Hall and the office will be used, primarily to serve all of our citizens without regard to race, creed or political affiliations. I shall devote my every effort for a clean, sound, economical business administration and for the building of a greater and better community. I shall be very grateful, if I may merit your confidence and support and shall honestly and sincerely endeavor to demonstrate my appreciation by giving to this community the kind of an administration which it has the right to expect and it so meritoriously deserves.

Handy and Easy Are Both Wrong

Handy Peterson and Easy Roberts got in quite an argument the other day over at Fred's Garage talking about the best spot to fish up at Green Lake.

"Opposite the old sawmill is the best spot," says Handy. But Easy "pooh-poohs" him. "I've seen the biggest fish caught off Cedar Point," says Easy. "I've been catching them there for years."

Then Fred goes into his office and brings out the biggest mounted rainbow trout you ever saw. "Bet that was caught at the sawmill," comments Handy. "Cedar Point," says Easy. "Well," says Fred, "you're both wrong. I caught this baby right out in the middle!"

From where I sit, there are always two (or more) sides to every story. Let's live and let live in the true American tradition of toleration. Your opinion is worth a lot, but so is the other fellow's—whether it's on politics, the best fishing spots, or whether he likes a temperate glass of beer and you like buttermilk.

Violin Is Worth Fortune
NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. —(AP)—It would take a fortune to buy the ancient violin owned by Vladimir Lenski. He values it at $100,000. The music teacher and former concert violinist says his fiddle was carved in 1510 by Gaspar Duiffopruggar, instrument maker to King Francis I of France. It is reputedly one of the earliest modern-type violins.

Lenski acquired the prize, he says, more than 50 years ago from a member of the Russian royal family who admired his playing.

Bradley is Favored to Win Playoffs

Meet Will be Friday, Saturday In Kansas City

By Skipper Patrick

KANSAS CITY, March 22—(P)—Tired or souped-up, Bradley university's Braves will be favored to win the Western NCAA basketball playoffs here Friday and Saturday.

Coach Forrest (Forddy) Anderson's Braves, named the nation's No. 1 team in the final Associated Press poll, will play U.C.L.A., Pacific coast representative, in the second game of Friday's program at 9:45 p. m. (CST).

Baylor of the Southwest conference and Brigham Young of the Rocky mountains meet in the opener at 8 o'clock (CST).

NCAA Finals Tuesday

The western winner will meet the eastern winner in New York City next Tuesday in the NCAA finals.

Bradley, which won the Missouri Valley berth in the westerns by beating Kansas 59-57 last Monday, appeared fairly well spent after playing four games in eight days.

However, they'll come into the playoffs with some rest. They also have the best record of the four teams participating.

They played three times in the national invitational at New York, losing to C.C.N.Y. in the finals last Saturday before coming to Kansas City to trim Kansas on a late scoring drive.

30 Wins for Bradley

Bradley, Missouri Valley conference champion, played 34 games this winter, winning 30 of them.

U.C.L.A., regarded as the second best team in the western field and winner over Washington State in a Pacific Coast conference playoff, won 24 of its 29 games.

Neither Brigham Young nor Baylor come up to the Western with good season records, but each was strong in the home stretch. Baylor, 1948 Western winner, has played 24 games, winning 13 and losing 11.

B.Y.U., Skyline Six champion, played almost as many games as Bradley, but won only 21 against 11 defeats.

Two Big Worries

Anderson has two big worries. First, he says his team is very tired; second, the Braves are the favorites and "everybody gets up" for them.

The Braves were given the day off yesterday, but are scheduled to work on their home court at Peoria, Ill., tonight.

All four teams are scheduled to arrive in Kansas City tomorrow in time for a workout in Municipal auditorium, which is sold out for the games.

Briefs on the Big Leagues While in Spring Training

By the Associated Press

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 22—(P)—Mal Mallette, Branch Rickey's "sleeper" draft choice, may not be long with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Rickey acknowledged concern today over the rookie southpaw pitcher from Sacramento and said, "I don't see how we can carry him if he doesn't improve."

Mallette was picked up for the $10,000 draft price last fall and at the time was regarded as a real bargain. However, the left hander has had a constant sore arm and X-rays disclose calcium deposits in the shoulder.

The hitting of outfielders Del Ennis and Richie Ashburn has been one of the most encouraging features of the Philadelphia Phillies spring training camp sessions. Manager Eddie Sawyer has been having his troubles with the Phillies' pitchers — but offsetting the ineffective hurling, Ashburn has been pounding the ball at a .340 clip.

Rookie May Make It
WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 22—(P)—Bob Porterfield, 25-year-old right hander whose name isn't even on the roster, has been making the experts sit up and take notice at the Philadelphia Athletics' training camp.

Byrd, originally consigned to the A's Buffalo farm club, came to West Palm Beach for a little conditioning with the parent team. Now coaches Mickey Cochrane, Bing Miller and Jimmy Dykes tell Connie Mack they want to see some more of Harry before a final decision.

Pirates vs. Giants
STOCKTON, Calif., March 22—(P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Giants arrived here today for the third game of their four-game west coast exhibition series.

The Bucs, specializing on home run hitting, have slapped out six of the circuit clouts in two days, but have only one victory over the New Yorkers to show for it. The victory came the hard way. Eddie Fitzgerald went in as a pinch hitter in the tenth inning yesterday with the Giants one run ahead and one man on base. Eddie promptly knocked the ball out of the lot to give the Bucs a 4-3 win.

Stated For Mound Duty
BURBANK, Calif., March 22—(P)—Dick Starr and Russ Bauers are slated for mound duty today in the St. Louis Browns' windup game of their two-day series with the Cleveland Indians.

The Browns are expecting another addition to the squad. Frank Gustine notified Brownie president Bill DeWitt that he hopes to arrive for spring training today or tomorrow.

More Action for Veterans
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22—(P)—The veterans probably will see more action in the St. Louis Cardinals' spring training games from now on.

So far regular pitchers such as Al Brazier, Max Lanier, Howard Pollet, George Munger and Ted Wilks have been in just one exhibition game each. There are just 15 more games in Florida and only 23 before the season starts.

Right hander Gerald Staley has been the most active of the veterans with 11 exhibition innings to his credit. He has pitched shutout ball and allowed just 7 hits and two walks.

Chance to Bow In or Out
ORLANDO, Fla., March 22—(P)—Rookie Jim Pearce and Sid Huson were picked to pitch for the Washington Nationals in their exhibition game today against the New York Yankees.

Manager Bucky Harris decided to give the 6 foot 6 Pearce his chance to bow in or out of the major leagues after watching his smart work in two previous outings.

Third Round Of AAU Cage Tournament

16 Teams From Original Field Of 42 Are Left

DENVER, March 22—(P)—Defending champion Oakland, Calif., (Blue 'N' Gold) and other seeded favorites swept past collegian-manned teams in yesterday's second round of the National AAU basketball tournament.

Competition gets a little tougher in today's third round of eight games between the 16 teams surviving from the original field of 42. The eight seeded teams are still favored to go into tomorrow's quarter finals.

The Oakland champions had only a light workout in a 75-48 romp over Aurora, Colo., (Strait Lumber Co.). The Californians play a group of Utah collegians from Salt Lake City (Murray Buick) at 11:30 p. m. (CST) tonight.

May Find A Surprise
Milwaukee (Allen Bradley), one of the seeded teams, may find a surprise at 3 p. m. today in the Dayton, Ohio, All-Stars. The Ohioans ran up a 99-53 victory over Kokomo, Ind., all stars in the opening round. Milwaukee was hard pushed yesterday to turn back Nebraska Wesleyan, an aggressive college five, 62-55.

Santa Maria, Calif., (Golden Dukes) is another of the seeded fives that faces a stern test today against Houston, Tex., (Ada Oilers). Houston boasts Clarence Brannum, Kansas State's ace center, and may upset the Dukes who had difficulty disposing of an erratic Billings, Mont. (Stockman) five last night 54-43.

Today's third round pairings: (Time Central Standard).
Spokane, Wash., (Inland Empire 66ers) vs. Peoria, Ill., (Diesels) noon.

Seattle (Alpine Dairy) vs. Los Angeles (Cliffons) 1:30 p. m.
Dayton Ohio All-Stars vs. Milwaukee (Allen Bradley) 3 p. m.

Houston, Tex. (Ada Oilers) vs. Santa Maria, Calif. (Golden Dukes) 4:30 p. m.
Los Angeles (Police) vs. Bartlesville, Okla. (Phillips Oilers) 7 p. m.

Hesston, Kas. (King Motors) vs. Denver (Chevrolets) 8:30 p. m.
San Francisco (Stewart Chevrolets) vs. Sioux City, Iowa (Jamos) 10 p. m.

Oakland, Calif. (Blue 'N' Golds) vs. Salt Lake City (Murray Buick) 11:30 p. m.
Yesterday's second round results:

Los Angeles (Cliffons) 83 Arkansas State Teachers 58.

Los Angeles (Police) 66 Lincoln, Nebr. (Metz Service) 58.

Milwaukee (Allen Bradley) 62 Nebraska Wesleyan 55.
San Francisco (Stewart Chevrolet) 50 Alamosa, Colo. (Gordon Stores) 23.

Oakland, Calif. (Blue 'N' Golds) 75 Aurora, Colo. (Strait Lumber Co.) 48.
Santa Maria, Calif. (Golden Dukes) 54 Billings, Mont. (Stockman) 43.

Nashville Business College ran into stiffer opposition and it took an overtime period for the team to beat Wayland (Texas) College, 35-32.

The Nashville Generals trimmed the Denver Hudsonettes, 43-23. Hanes Hosiery of Winston-Salem, N. C., seeded No. 3, beat the Baltimore, Md., Martin Bomberettes, 50-30, and fourth-seeded Des Moines, A. I. B. trounced the Okmulgee, Okla., Cardinals, 44-24.

Other results included: Davenport, Iowa, A. I. C. 36, Atlanta, Ga., Sports Arena Blues 35; St. Joseph, Mo., 16, Denver Vicer Chevrolets 27; Dallas Regal Beer 24.

Maryville is Favored In MIAA Tract Meet
COLUMBIA, Mo., March 22—(P)—Maryville is heavily favored to defend its championship successfully in the annual M.I.A.A. spring track and field meet Friday night.

The meet will be in the Brewer fieldhouse at the University of Missouri.

Coach Ryland Milner's Maryville Bearcats won both the indoor and outdoor track titles last year and the squad was only slightly hit by graduation.

Don Neil, Paul Zuchowski and Phil Carter, who placed in that order in the sprints last spring, are back with Maryville. The school also features the defending 2-mile champion in Mickey Anderson and has strength added with Al Wormsley in the shot and high jump.

In the 1949 indoor meet, Rolla, Cape Girardeau, Springfield and Warrensburg trailed Maryville in that order.

Bad weather has played hob with workouts at all schools. Claude Groves, Springfield coach, said none of the schools is equipped with facilities suitable for indoor drills.

There will be competition in 12 events. Preliminaries will start at 6:30 p. m.

Really on the Kisser

It was not love match but Bill Mann (11), Bradley university forward, appears to be kissing the ball held by Claude Houchin, University of Kansas, in their fifth district playoff at Kansas City, Mo., for a berth in the N.C.A.A. western playoff. Also shown is Bradley's All-America Paul Unruh (15). Bradley won, 59-57, and will join four other teams in the western playoffs Friday and Saturday. (Associated Press Photo)

Prediction That Palmer Will Win the Masters Golf Title

By F. T. Macfeely

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 22—(P)—Here's a tip right from the feed box—Johnny Palmer will win the 1950 Masters Golf Title at Augusta, Ga., next month.

Leading professionals of the game voted the 31-year-old veteran from Baden, N. C., most likely take the important tournament winding up the winter circuit.

Sneed, a Close Second
Of course, don't say you weren't warned that Sam Sneed is a close second choice just in case the veteran from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., repeats his 1940 Masters victory.

High regard goes to National Open champion Cary Middlecoff of Ormond Beach, Fla., and Jimmy DeMaret of Ojai, Calif. Some votes also went to 27-year-old Jack Burke of White Plains, N. Y., and the Argentinian champion Roberto De Vicenzo of Buenos Aires, although they will be playing for the first time in Augusta.

Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., and Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago got sentimental votes if nothing else. Both are recovering from serious auto accidents. Mangrum has showed he can win the Masters and Hogan makes no secret of the fact he wants to badly.

To round out the voting, a scattered mention or two went to Jim Turnesa and Lew Worsham.

Middlecoff, who knows the exacting Masters course as well as any of the pros, explained that it takes long, accurate drives and good putting to conquer it—even more than other layouts.

That may give a hint why his fellow pro pick Palmer to win. He has the right combination of shots though they haven't given him a major victory this year. He stands tenth among winners, far behind Sneed, Burke, Demaret and Middlecoff.

Palmer finished fourth in the Masters a year ago. He won the Chicago event called the world championship, was runner-up to Sneed in the PGC and eighth in the National Open. He won more money during 1949 than any other golfer but Sneed and Middlecoff.

'Swing Your Partner'---3

By MARGOT MAYO
Leading Square Dance Authority
Written for NEA Service

Most square dance steps you usually do with your own partner, but here's an exception. It's called the "allemande." The call is "allemande left" or "allemande your corner." Remember, the "gents" corner is the lady to his left.

When this step is called for, each man faces his corner lady, and they join left hands (see sketch at left). Then they both turn in a counter-clockwise direction. They make a complete circle, ending up exactly where they started.

The square dance scene in the movies—the one you've seen many times—always involves this next step, the "grand right and left." That's the step where everybody weaves in and out, extending right hand to one person and then left hand to the next, as they move in a circle.

Here's the third of 12 lesson articles that show you how to do the basic square dancing steps and some of the advanced figures. Later articles will refer back to earlier lessons, so save them all for future reference.

You start out by facing your partner, and joining right hands with him (or her). Then you both turn in the direction you're facing. The men move counter-clockwise, the ladies clockwise. You alternate right and left hands with each person you come to. When you join right hands with a dancer (as the couple in the sketch is doing), you pass by his right shoulder. When you join left hands, as the sketched couple will do with the next person they meet, you pass by his left shoulder. The result is a weaving in and out, around the circle, until you return to your "home" position.

In some selections, a routine "grand right and left" works like this: The couple weaves in opposite directions around the circle, until they meet directly across from where they started. Then they join hands and promenade home. In other sections, they meet across they set, but keep moving around until they come back to where they started.

Here's another basic figure you must master. It's the "do-si-do" (right) which is sometimes spelled deucey-do. The name is French, and means back-to-back. You face your partner (or whoever the caller tells you to do-si-do with). You advance toward and past each other figure (figure 1). Then you walk sideways, back to back with the person you're do-si-doing with (figure 2). And then simply walk backwards to your place (figure 3). The diagram (figure 4) shows exactly how you move—forward, past your partner, sideways back to back, and then backwards to your place. It can be done either side—that is, you can go past your partner's right or left shoulder. Some sections of the country stick to one side, others prefer the other.

These figures are usually used as "chorus calls"—that is, they are called for between the more advanced figures, or at the end of them.

Pants Are Bears
SALT LAKE CITY —(AP)—The Navy may never have thought it would happen but some of its surplus flying pants are becoming Teddies. The fleece-lined pants make very cuddly bears. Mrs. De Wayne C. Anderson got the Teddy bear idea when her husband brought home 150 pairs which he bought as surplus and planned to sell. She cuts up the pants and sews the pieces together in the shape of three-foot tall Teddies. For noses, feet-bottoms and paws she uses the dark brown leather from the pockets. She stuffs the bears with upholstery batting. Fox eyes from a furrier serve as eyes. And Mrs. Anderson says the pants bring more money as toy bears.

Tooth Comfort Makes Trouble
CHICAGO — (AP) — The lunch hour crowd in the cafeteria at the Chicago Art Institute saw the small girl weeping. What was the matter? She had taken an expensive brace from her teeth so she could eat. Now it was gone. The restaurant feeds about 3,000 persons a day. But some of the staff searched through wadded napkins and scraps of food — and hours later found the brace.

"DER FUHRER"—Germany's Adolf Hitler, father of World War II—had hardly begun to make his name one of the most infamous in history when this picture was made in 1925. The "little corporal" was just an ex-jailbird, having served 13 months in prison at Landsberg for his part in the abortive Nazi beer garden "putsch" in Munich—an incident which the Nazis later glorified in annual holiday observances. Nazism sprang alive in Munich in 1923, and became the ruling power in Germany 10 years later. In 1935, the powerful Nazi army marched into the Rhineland, marking the start of a program of ruthless aggression such as the world had never seen before. Many millions were to die wretchedly, including Herr Hitler. Before the scourge of fascism was destroyed.

Safe Workers Get Reward
AKRON, O. — (AP) — A "sweet reward" is in store for rubber company workers who steer clear of disabling injuries. Under a new safety program spearheaded by the Foreman's Club at B. F. Goodrich for the 10,600 plant employees, a free candy bar will be awarded to employees in departments that remain accident-free for at least 30 days. The new campaign against plant accidents also pays off to workers in departments that do report injuries. They receive a free package of chewing gum imprinted with "Sorry, no candy. Here's something to chew on. Work for no disabling injuries. Hope you enjoy your candy next month."

Strong World Impact

Former Minister Of U. S. So Says Regarding Break With Bulgaria

WICHITA, Kas., March 21 —(P)—The United States' diplomatic break with communist Bulgaria has had strong world impact, Donald Heath said today.

The former U. S. minister —recalled Feb. 21 from Sofia after Bulgaria charged he was a spy—spoke in what sponsors said was his first public statement, state department sanctioned.

The break with Bulgaria climaxed two years of mistreatment of U. S. representatives there, Heath told more than 400 Wichitans at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

"To tolerate it further would have been in the line of appeasement—not peace."

By this nation's action, he said, "We have shown the world that we are patient, but we have shown the communists that there is a point beyond which we won't be pushed."

Heath—former Topeka, Kas., resident—said Bulgaria's communist government charged him with conspiring with the nation's former deputy prime minister, Traicho Kostov, "to deliver Bulgaria to Tito."

Kostov was hanged after trial on treason charges.

Heath labeled the charges against himself "fantastic"—said "I'd never exchanged a word with Mr. Kostov."

Heath described Kostov and Michael Shipkov—Bulgarian employee of the U. S. legation at Sofia—as victims of a minority communist regime that "tolerates no show of mercy x x x because that would lessen the terror under which it holds the Bulgarian people."

Shipkov, arrested last August and indicted in February, "confessed and was sentenced in Bulgarian court March 9 to 15 years imprisonment.

But the U. S. state department published Shipkov's own prediction that he would "confess," outlining the communist tortures he said would make him do so.

That statement, Heath said today, "was in Shipkov's own handwriting—made to clear himself and others."

The break with Bulgaria—first by this nation with any other since the war—quickly followed Shipkov's indictment.

Shipkov was innocent of spying, but "guilty of not being a communist," Heath said—and his case is "by no means unique."

"The concentration camps, jails and cemeteries of Bulgaria contain thousands of unknown Shipkovs."

Communist tactics stand challenged in the world court and the United Nations assembly, Heath said.

But Russia and her communist neighbors "have demonstrated their contempt for civilized conduct, and their complete contempt for any agreement they have entered into," he charged.

"Russia and her satellites have made it clear that they are not bound by the code of national ethics which all other nations are."

WICHITA, Kas., March 21—(P)—"I don't see how Russia can maintain her pretence—her facade—of being for world peace."

By continued pressure, he said, "we can make it completely clear that they are outlaw nations in the world."

Heath returned to this country when it broke diplomatic relations with communist-dominated Bulgaria Feb. 21.

Of a locally-published press conference story quoting him as saying communist sympathizers "are" in every department of government, Heath said it "was mistaken in tense. I said 'were'—not 'are.'"

Blame Static Electricity For Explosion of Bomber

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 22 —(P)—Air Force officials blame static electricity for the explosion in one engine of the world's largest land-based plane, the XC-99.

Eight men were injured in the explosion yesterday, none seriously.

Maps Strategy For His Tours

Truman to End First May 15 at Chicago Rally

KEY WEST, Fla., March 22—(P)—President Truman mapped strategy Tuesday for stumping tours this spring and next fall matching the intensity of his 31,500-mile "give 'em hell" campaign of 1948.

He'll hit the road in early May for a rear-platform speaking swing that will carry him into Washington State about May 11 for the dedication of Grand Coulee dam. It will wind up with a fighting political talk in Chicago Stadium the night of May 15 at a giant Democratic rally.

Official confirmation of plans for the May trip came from his headquarters at the "Winter White House" where preliminary speech drafting will get underway this week.

The official who made the disclosure withheld use of his name until a formal announcement can be made, filling in the details of the trip.

It will include "off-the-cuff" talks to crowds around the railroad tracks, to and from the west coast, and plugs for Democratic candidates as well as "fair deal" measures. Other projects, besides Grand Coulee, may be visited on the western swing.

It will afford an opportunity to attempt to put voter pressure on congress for passage of many bills now given the "untouchable" treatment.

An even longer, more intensive campaign is being planned for the fall when the President will go into a score of more states to slug it out for Democratic congressional candidates.

The "Winter White House" disclosed that President Truman had a second telephone conference yesterday with Secretary of State Acheson.

Acheson called presidential secretary Charles G. Ross said, after Mr. Truman blasted reports he might be replaced and declared he thought Acheson was running the department "admirably."

Ross said Acheson talked with the President about a "department matter" but not charges made against the department of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis).

Burned House Causing Deaths

JUNCTION CITY, Kas., March 22 —(P)—James C. Harris, 33-year-old Negro Taxi driver, was charged with arson and murder Tuesday in the death of two young girls in a house fire.

Shortly after the charges were filed, Harris gave a signed confession to Lee Hornbaker, Geary county attorney, stating that he fired the house with kerosene in the early hours of March 15.

Hornbaker said that Harris stated he burned the house, which he owned, to collect the insurance of about $3,000.

Harris acknowledged, according to Hornbaker, that the house was occupied but said he thought the occupants would be able to flee.

Two children of U. S. Army Private First Class Joseph Marshall perished. They were Joanna, 2 year old, and Gwendolyn, 4 Mrs. Marshall and another daughter, 1, escaped with burns. All are Negroes.

Pfc. Marshall arrived from Texas several hours after the fire.

Harris confessed that he drove from Omaha, Nebr., where he now lives, set the fire and returned to Omaha soon after.

Convicted in Killing Negroes

KUSCISKO, Miss., March 22—(P)—A jury Tuesday night convicted Leon Turner, 38-year-old white man, in the slaying of three Negro children.

The jury was not able to agree on punishment. In such cases, life imprisonment is mandatory under Mississippi state law.

Circuit Judge J. P. Coleman sentenced Turner to life imprisonment.

The conviction was in the death of one of three Negroes—four-year-old Ruby Nell Harris.

Judge Coleman announced that court would resume at 9 a. m.

(CST) tomorrow. At that time a decision will be made on two other murder indictments pending against Turner in the same slayings, the judge said.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(P)—Trying to save his $2,000,000,000 co-op housing program from prospective defeat, President Truman declared today this plan to provide homes for middle-income families is above party politics.

A telegram from the president at Key West, Fla., reached Democratic leaders as a spot poll indicated that almost half of his own party members in the House may vote against the co-op idea. The Senate already has turned it down.

The House will vote on the bill late today or tomorrow.

Mr. Truman addressed his special appeal to Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House Banking committee. Spence is House floor manager for the bill.

Mr. Truman said the plan "will stimulate home ownership through the use of cooperative methods which have long been successfully used in other fields of endeavor."

He added:

Of Value to Veterans
"It will be of particular value to those of our veterans who are still seeking adequate housing, and who should not be required to pay an excessive share of their income in order to obtain it."

"The bill will enable many citizens of moderate income to acquire homes through their own combined efforts, without government subsidy."

Mr. Truman went on to say that middle income families—those with incomes of $2,800 to $4,400 a year—are "the backbone of the country" but that they can't afford to buy or rent suitable homes at present prices. He said the co-op housing plan would go a long way toward meeting their needs.

Spence read the telegram when the House resumed debate on the bill.

Democratic leaders are hoping they may yet switch some of their party members now inclined to vote against the measure.

Score About Even
Of over 100 Democrats checked by a backer of the proposal, the score for and against the bill was just about even. Several were non-committal.

Republicans probably will line up almost solidly against the co-op idea and, unless there is a sudden shift in Democratic opposition ranks, it is bound to be defeated. The House GOP policy committee has voted unanimously to oppose it.

President Truman personally interceded in an effort to head off defeat. From his Key West, Fla., vacation quarters, he wired Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House Banking committee urging favorable House action.

The Senate struck co-op housing.

Springfield Nominees

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 22.—(P)—Voters here yesterday nominated L. A. Weeks and Charles Ray Brown for street commissioner, and J. Oliver Gideon and Wiley F. Spencer for commissioner of revenue.

The four led four other candidates—two in each place—by wide margins. The four nominees will meet in the runoff election April 4.

Gideon, former county assessor, polled the most votes. His total was 3078, while Spencer received 2433. Champe M. Tise received 926 and William B. Hanger, a Marine recruiting sergeant to be retired March 31, was fourth with 639.

For street commissioner, Weeks, the incumbent, received 3065 votes while Brown, a state representative polled 1982. Third was Lester B. Nichols with 2034 and Brownie Keller was fourth with 967.

'Advertising' Topic of Talk At Lions Club

Californian Tells History, Development Through the Years

"Earliest recorded use of advertising is found in the crude drawings left by prehistoric cave dwellers," Stan Lane, executive vice-president of the Western Pottery Distributors, Los Angeles, California, said to the members of the Sedalia Lions club at their noonday meeting held at Hotel Bothwell today. Mr. Lane using as his subject, "From Tom-Tom to Television," covered advertising from the Garden of Eden to the present day.

Lane, a nationally known authority on advertising and television as well as an author of several books on the subject, traced the history of advertising down to the Babylonian, Greek and Roman civilizations, where "advertising became an art, prior to the total eclipse during the dark ages."

In his talk, Mr. Lane said, "Revival began in the twelfth century, accelerated by the invention of the printing press. Signboards, trademarks, development of newspaper and magazines are the milestones in progress of advertising, leading up to the present day."

Made Many Talks

He has been speaking on advertising developments and its history to universities, Chambers of Commerce, civic organizations, advertising clubs, as well as sales executive clubs throughout the nation. Prior to his advertising work, Lane was a lawyer in Philadelphia, and represented Pennsylvania in its legal aid department. He is an author and actor having appeared in Broadway stage productions as well as having directed several of these productions.

Joplin Primary Results

JOPLIN, Mo., March 22.—(P)—Dr. H. Chris Oltman established himself as a favorite to unseat Mayor L. Russell McGee in the April 4 city election by his vote getting in yesterday's primary.

Both men will run in the regular election, for first and second get the nomination. Dr. Oltman, dentist and state wing commander of the civil air patrol, got 3,980 votes; Mayor McGee, 1,771.

Refuses to Attend Funeral Of Twin Sister She Killed

FRESNO, Calif., March 22.—(P)—Almoody Alice Richard, 14—"An exhibitionist seeking notoriety"—today passed up requiem mass for the twin-loving twin, Sally, she killed in an outburst of hatred.

The blonde bobby-soxer firmly said "No, I don't want to" when asked if she wished to attend her sister's funeral.

Outwardly cool, she wisely cracked with newsmen at a preliminary hearing yesterday. That caused Juvenile Judge Arthur C. Shepard to comment:

"This would appear to be, at first glance, a case of pure exhibitionism. Alice may just want attention and is determined to go to any length to get it. Certainly she is basking in the light of her publicity—or should I say notoriety?"

Alice said a firm "Yes" when

By the Associated Press

Spring appeared getting off to a slow start over many parts of the eastern half of the country.

There was snow on the ground over many sections of the midwest and fresh falls covered areas in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts. The falls in Cambria county in Western Pennsylvania measured up to 12 inches and other sections reported falls from one to eight inches on yesterday, the first day of spring. The fall at High Point park, in Northwest New Jersey, measured 7½ inches.

More snow fell today in the Great Lakes region and the upper Mississippi valley. Some rain also was reported in the area and also in some parts of the southeastern states. Skies across the eastern half of the nation were cloudy. It also was dark in the Pacific northwest, but other areas reported fair weather.

There wasn't much warming in the west belt. Temperatures were at freezing or below in the New England region, New York State, the northern plains and the northern and central Rockies. The 13 above at Pembina, N. D., was one of the lowest readings early today. The highest mark yesterday was 90 at Yuma, Ariz.

Not Sure Man Can Make Bomb

PASADENA, Calif., March 22.—(P)—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, Nobel prize winning scientist, says he is not at all certain that man can make a hydrogen bomb.

He is frankly skeptical that any man-made device will ever split the earth asunder.

But it is true, he says, "that we and our possible adversary now possess the instruments to destroy each other."

Millikan is 82 today. In an interview commemorating the occasion, the man who first isolated and measured the electron and opened the way for present day atomic research observed:

"With all the talk about the hydrogen bomb, I'm not yet convinced that it's at all certain we can build such a bomb. Of course, if it were possible to make the hydrogen in all the seas combine at once into helium, we probably could explode the whole earth and transform it into a nebula."

"However, I'm still skeptical. I think it would take a warmer lady than mother earth to make such a horror possible."

Presents Plan For Twenty Years of Peace

Secretary-General United Nations Critical of Disunity

By The Associated Press

The secretary-general of the United Nations has presented a bold plan to bring Russia and the United States together and end the cold war through a 20-year peace plan.

"What we need, what the world needs," he said, is a 20-year program to win peace through the United Nations.

Trygve Lie, speaking in Washington last night, pointed out the United Nations charter calls for periodic meetings of "foreign ministers or even heads of government."

He warned the world the sands of time are running out for settling national differences through negotiation and conciliation. He urged the heads of government to take advantage of United Nations machinery now. The dangers of further delay were too great, he said, in this age of the hydrogen bomb and bacteriological weapons.

In effect, Lie criticized both the United States and the Soviet Union for the present disunity in the U. N. organization. He rapped the Soviet for boycotting the U. N., because recognition has not been given to Chinese Communism.

His First Concern

On the other hand, he said, his first concern is to see that Communist China's 450,000,000 people should be represented in world councils "by whatever government is qualified, regardless of its ideology." The United States recognized the regime of Chiang Kai-Shek on the island of Formosa and has not extended recognition to the Chinese Communist republic at Peiping.

Italy is torn again by a Communist-called general strike. The 12-hour demonstration was called by the Communist-directed General Confederation of Labor (CG-IL) in protest against government proposals to increase the country's police force and authorize bans on political demonstrations.

The Communists claim the police restrictions are a blow at civil liberties. The strike order was issued last night after two workers were reported killed when police opened fire on a group of demonstrators in the central Italian town of Lentella.

Move To Preserve Order

Heavily-armed police and troops have moved swiftly to preserve order. Minor clashes between demonstrators and police marked the early hours of the strike.

Shanghai's Lungwha air field was under attack yesterday by Chinese Nationalist planes. The Nationalist air arm claimed it raked shipping along a wide swath of coastline.

Hong Kong dispatches said Communist Gen. Lin Piao has moved his best troops, the "Steel Corps" of 5,000 elite to Luichow peninsula on the south China coast for the invasion of Hainan, second largest island territory controlled by Nationalists.

Sweden's foreign minister, Osten M. Unden reiterated in parliament that Sweden is standing firm in her refusal to join the North Atlantic Treaty. Adhering to her historic neutral position, he said, Sweden has turned thumbs down on military cooperation with Norway and Denmark, both members of the Atlantic Pact.

File Charges in Horse Meat Case

AUSTIN, Tex., March 22.—(P)—Texas may follow through on federal charges against dealers involved in recent horsemeat cases.

Slate Health Officer George W. Cox said federal charges filed in Dallas yesterday against Kansas City, Mo., and Minneapolis handlers "encourage" state action against any Texans involved.

The federal complaints named Meyer Gilgus, operator of a meat commission firm at Kansas City, and Louis K. Risken of Minneapolis.

The charges said the men shipped horse meat in interstate commerce which had not been federally inspected and which was not labeled horse meat.

Thousands of pounds of horse meat were seized in Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth and Austin. And officers said thousands of pounds more had already been sold to the public as beef tenderloins.

Quads' Mother Worried, Says Need of Help

May Have to Offer Them For Adoption For Their Welfare

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ontario, March 22.—(P)—Mrs. C. O. Hargreaves is "really crazy" about her quadruplet daughters but she is still afraid she may have to offer them for adoption "for their own welfare."

"I'm very worried," she said today. "We really need help." Word that the financially stricken Hargreaves family was considering offering the five-month-old daughters for adoption was announced yesterday and reports of ready offers of assistance sprang up immediately.

But Mrs. Hargreaves said today those reports were greatly exaggerated and that the only definite offer of help came from a Hamilton (Ont.) radio station.

"They wanted to know what we needed in the way of clothing, food and the like," she said.

His Take-Home Pay

Her husband gets $208 monthly in take-home pay as a laborer at the Great Lakes Power company here. Mrs. Hargreaves said, adding that was insufficient to care for the quads, themselves and two other children.

"We had reached the end of our rope," she said, "when we wrote a Toronto paper we were considering offering the babies for adoption."

"We're exhausted, physically and financially. We haven't put them up for adoption yet. That's the last thing we want to do, but I'm worried."

No Offer of Adoption

John McLeod, legal advisor of the family, said flatly he hadn't had any offer of adoption or support as had been reported.

"No offer of any kind of assistance has come to me from any quarter since the parents talked of offering the children for adoption," McLeod said.

However, there was unofficial reports of offers of funds to the family.

With money worries piling up, the father, C. O. Hargreaves, a laborer, had speculated on finding foster parents for the babies.

Passengers Drove Off With the Beer

MIAMI, Fla., March 22.—(P)—When a bus driver parked his vehicle, turned off the lights and went into a restaurant for a cup of coffee, two passengers drove off with the bus.

They were picked up later and jailed on a charge of larceny of a vehicle. The men were identified as Joseph C. Bowman, 26, and Hugh D. Lomas, 23.

The bus driver said he thought all passengers were off when he went to get his nightly cup of coffee.

Questioning Two Men in Slaying Case

Columbia Officers Flew to Arkansas Where Men Are Held

VAN BUREN, Ark., March 22.—(P)—Missouri officers are questioning two men here in connection with the rape-slaying of a 13-year-old baby sister in Columbia, Mo., last week.

Police Chief Voll Russell said one of the men, identified as Hershel Summers, 29, 2419 East Ninth street, Kansas City, Mo., cab driver, had in his wallet a newspaper clipping of the slaying of Janett Christman at Columbia.

Summers explained he had the clipping because he intended to go to Columbia to look at the house where the slaying occurred. Russell contacted Missouri authorities and they flew here this morning to talk with Summers and Curtis L. Linder, 27, a Kansas City (31st and Indiana) sheet metal worker.

The chief said he is holding Summers on a drunken driving charge and Linder on a drunkenness charge. They were picked up here yesterday as Assistant Chief Virgil Goff and Patrolman Russell Dunn.

Had Missouri License

Summers was driving an automobile with a Missouri car dealer's license plate, Chief Russell said. A regular Missouri license plate was in the rear of the car.

Summers was quoted as saying that he and his companion had left off work Monday and were headed for Mexico. The chief said Summers denied knowing the location of Columbia, although he had worked in Kansas City for about ten years and also had lived in Clinton, Mo., about 60 miles from the Missouri university city.

The chief expressed the opinion the men possibly left Kansas City in a hurry because they had little extra clothing with them. Summers had more than $100 on him, but Linder was without funds. There was beer and whisky in the car, Russell said.

Borrowed From Wife

Missouri officers included Police Chief E. M. Pond of Columbia. Deputy Sheriff Jack Beasley of Boone county, Missouri, and Sgt. Harry H. Wells of the Missouri State Highway patrol.

They flew to Fort Smith, just across the Arkansas river from Van Buren, in a Missouri State Highway Patrol plane.

A reward for arrest and conviction of the baby sister's killer is being raised in Columbia. It is past the $1,650 mark.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 22.—(P)—Chief of Police E. M. Pond telephoned his office here today from Van Buren, Ark., to say that two Kansas City men questioned there with regard to the rape-slaying of baby sister Janett Christman here Saturday night had satisfied Columbia officers they had nothing to do with the case.

Pond said that he and two other officers who flew to Van Buren today to question the pair will return to Columbia immediately.

54 County Courts to Support Gas Tax Law

JEFFERSON CITY, March 22.—(P)—The better roads committee said today it has the promises of 54 county courts to support Gov. Forrest Smith's gas tax increase.

The law, designed to double Missouri's two cent gasoline tax and apply one cent of the increase to all-weather county roads, is slated for the referendum vote April 4.

The committee said some other county court registered partial or qualified support of the law.

Glory of the 1890's Held in The Hand of an Auctioneer

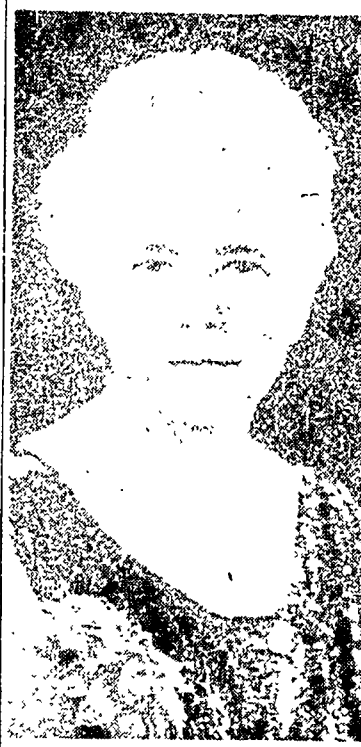

By Martha Cole
TERRELL, Tex., March 22.—(P)—The glory of the 1890's was there—held in the hand of an auctioneer.

They sold most of the stock that I. Levy had started collecting more than half a century ago. He put it all in his store in Terrell, a small north Texas town among the cotton fields—damasks, fine furs, imported laces, silks from China, high button shoes, handkerchiefs, linen shirts for men, imported woolsens and hand painted buttons.

Hundreds came yesterday to the two-story store to stand among the crumbling gingerbread work and listen to the chatter of the auctioneer—J. B. Mosley of Terrell.

The high school girls bought high button shoes and put them on. Their mothers bought old lace and linen dresses to wear to the square dances. And they bought whalebone Dallas.

Strike Nearer Settlement

By Glenn Engle

Detroit, March 22.—(P)—The Chrysler strike, now in its ninth week, was reported only slightly nearer settlement today, after the first major peace move since the walkout.

The company and the United Auto Workers swapped settlement proposals in an action-packed bargaining session last night.

Both sides, it was learned, gave a little ground on the pension dispute and other matters. But sources close to the negotiators indicated they would have to give considerably more ground to send the 89,000 strikers and 50,000 other idled workers back to their jobs.

The contents of both Chrysler's proposal and the UAW's counterproposal were kept secret.

The company put its peace bid on the table as the session got under way late yesterday, after both sides had huddled privately most of the day. The union's counter proposal came shortly after negotiations were adjourned three hours later. Another session was set for today.

Separate Judges For Gas Tax Election

A separate set of judges will be used in the election on April 4 to handle the Four-Cent Motor Vehicle Gas Tax law which will be submitted to Missouri voters on that day. In Pettis county those voting on the tax law can vote at their regular precinct voting place the same as in any general election.

It was announced this morning by County Clerk James Green each political party will appoint one judge in each precinct and each judge will have one clerk to handle the gas tax voting.

The naming of the judges is expected to be made this week.

Aged Resident Dies

CARROLLTON, Mo., March 22.—(P)—Carroll county's oldest resident died yesterday.

He was Peter Morgan, 102 years old, who came to the county from Ohio while a small boy.

He is survived by three children and two sisters.

Goes To Chillicothe

IOLA, Kas., March 22.—(P)—Morris Willis, city engineer and utilities superintendent here 2½ years, has resigned to accept a similar position at Chillicothe, Mo.

Operator of Fur Business Dead

KANSAS CITY, March 22.—(P)—Mrs. Irene Sarno, 48, operator with Mrs. Charles Binaggio of the fur concession at Chasoff's Inc., here, died today.

Her physician, Dr. D. M. Nigro, said death might have been caused by an overdose of sleeping tablets. Dr. Nigro said he would perform an autopsy later today.

Mrs. Sarno had been subpoenaed as a witness by the present federal grand jury investigating the crime conditions and income tax matters here. She had not appeared before the jury, however.

Dr. Nigro said Mrs. Sarno had been ill recently, suffering from a tumor for which she was to enter a hospital for treatment next month. He added her mother had died recently, placing her under a strain. But the doctor pointed out she had been in his office yesterday and had seemed to be in good spirits.

So, Mr. Levy sat in the back of his store and read amid the things he had brought to Terrell. "When friends came to Terrell," said Mrs. Ben Wilson, who's lived here all her life, "we took them to see the state mental hospital. Their mothers bought old lace and linen dresses to wear to the square dances. And they bought whalebone Dallas."

Loyalty Program Is Legal

Board May Dismiss Person if Loyalty Is Questioned U. S. Appeal Court Rules

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(P)—The United States court of appeals today upheld the constitutionality of the government's employee loyalty program.

The three-man tribunal that any government worker may be fired by a loyalty board acting under an executive order from President Truman.

The decision was handed down in the case of Dorothy Bailey, a former $8,000-a-year-employee of the federal security agency.

Miss Bailey was suspended from her job in November, 1948, on grounds her loyalty was questionable. In February, 1949, she was dismissed.

She sued for reinstatement to her job, raising among other points, the contention that the whole loyalty program was unconstitutional.

This program, ordered by President Truman, calls for the investigation of every government employee and the dismissal of any whose continued employment might be a risk to the security of the United States.

Denied Being a Red

At the time Miss Bailey came under investigation she was president of Local No. 10 of the CIO government workers union. She denied any Communist party membership or affiliation.

In the U. S. district court, Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled the program is constitutional and that he lacked authority to set aside federal loyalty board findings. Miss Bailey appealed.

In its 2-1 decision, the appeals court's majority said:

"It is our clear opinion that the president may remove from government service any person of whose loyalty he is not completely convinced."

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, March 22—The future atomic-hydrogen defense of Washington, according to atomic scientists, must require a ring of fire stations fifteen miles out of the city and completely around the city. Present fire stations inside the city would be wiped out and futile in case of an enemy attack. It will require from 10,000 to 15,000 regularly trained and paid firemen to man these stations.

The defense of New York, a city nine times the size of Washington would require at least nine times as many firemen — about 100,000 — and cost nine times as much. In brief, the defense of our big cities against future hydrogen bombing would just about bankrupt us. Peace will be cheaper.

Every noon when Republican senators sit down at lunch they ask each other: "How's Joe doing?" They are referring to their colleague, Joe McCarthy of Wisconsin. They agree that Joe isn't doing well, but they think he's winning votes for Republicans. Senator Taft, now the leader of the party, expressed it this way: "I told Joe to keep talking. I don't think he's got anything. But the longer he talks, the more people will think he has something."

Worked up by astute political speeches, the drift toward isolation continues. The secretary of state Dean Acheson, a scholar more than a politician, has lost so much political appeal that some Senate leaders want Truman to dump him.

Meanwhile, in Key West, President Truman sits in the sun, oblivious to congressional bitterness, oblivious to his slipping foreign policy. In addition to Republicans, many Democrats are bitter at Truman. They feel that overnight — election night of November, 1948 — he was transformed from a humble little man who asked all Americans to help him, to a boastful little "I-did-it" Harry.

In the Wardman Park hotel in Washington, Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, the Republican, who has had the courage and unselfishness to give the United States a bipartisan foreign policy, remains ill. He may never go back to the Senate as a vigorous leader. Without him, less responsible Republicans run berserk.

Democratic leaders would like to see their president launch a bold, brave move for a unified nation. They recall how President Roosevelt conferred repeatedly with Wendell Willkie and brought two elder GOP statesmen, Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox, into his cabinet. They wish Truman would call Dewey, Stassen, Warren of California to a conference on the vital problems facing this country — before it is too late.

Along the Hungarian-Yugoslav border, more and more divisions of the Red army have been moved up, including mechanized divisions. They are equipped with machine shops and heavy repair units, which do not accompany troops unless they are heading for battle. Some Russian troops, seized by Yugoslavs in border raids, have maps showing Yugoslav airports and Danube bridges.

It looks as if the Red army is waiting for spring and dry weather for the big push against the one man who has successfully defied Stalin. But whether that push comes or not, virtual war is now on. And it will continue on until one side or the other cracks.

Risk of Hurting Living Men
Shouldn't Bar Marshall Story

By Bruce Blossat

Gen. George C. Marshall, former Army Chief of Staff and Secretary of State, says he won't write his memoirs because to tell the whole truth might do irreparable to living men.

Says the general:

"Inevitably the press reaction—the public reaction—devotes itself to the critical item, although it may be only one paragraph in the entire book.

"You almost ruin a man. But if you don't mention that, it is not history, because it had a very important bearing on the procedure."

Many other men who have played a key role in the great events of America's recent past do not seem to share Marshall's attitude. Either they are less concerned about the impact of their disclosures upon living individuals, or they believe the importance of their story transcends whatever damage they may do.

Naturally there may be some, too, who choose to leave out vital parts of the story rather than offend principals whose part in the events may have laid them open to criticism.

We agree with Marshall that leaving out essentials to achieve a result that is simply "pleasant reading" is an unwise thing. It may be badly misleading to all but the most discerning of our historians.

As for whether or not to risk harming living men, that is an individual choice that each public figure must make according to his own conscience. But in our view, no man should bar for all time the telling of his personal chronicle of great events.

In other words, no one can rightly quarrel with the general for declining to speak out publicly at this time. But it would be a great loss to history in this version of events were never to be told.

Marshall is rated the great organizing genius of our victorious military effort. On top of that, he was our chief diplomat in one of the most puzzling periods in the history of U. S. foreign affairs. The historian can never gauge the war and early postwar days accurately without knowing what Marshall did, what he thought, how events appeared to him.

Some say the lessons of history are seldom learned. But we dare not assume man will not learn to draw more guidance from the story of his own past. That story, well and completely told, is inevitably filled with great instruction for his present course—no matter what the age he's living in.

Marshall owes it to history to set down his personal report on the war and its aftermath. Let him tell the full story, sparing no one. To protect any living men likely to be hurt, he can direct that his memoirs be kept secret until, say, 2000 A. D.

That way the general may live with his conscience, and he may know also that he has faithfully performed his final, inescapable duty as a high public servant.

Who Should Man H-Bomb Ark?
Picking Ten is Tough Chore

By Peter Edson
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— There's a new wrinkle going around on the old wheeze about, "Who would you like to be stuck on a desert island with?" To make the question fit the atomic age, it has been revised to, "What ten persons should be given top priority protection for posterity, in the event of national destruction by hydrogen bomb?"

The supposition is that, as in the days of The Flood, they would take the place of . . .

"Noah and the animals—two by two—
The Hippo-pa-lamus and the ki-kangaroo"
. . . As the old song had it.

This is a fair enough question. It should be good for an evening's lively conversation at any cookie and carrot juice party. It makes you think who is essential and who is non-essential. And it brings you up against the stark realization that there are many more of the latter than the former.

In the first place, there is no use saving anyone over 30 years old. The ten to be picked will have the job of procreating to carry on civilization. So all the old gals and gaffers are out. Much as you would at first be inclined to nominate for salvation John L. Lewis and Eleanor Roosevelt or Senator and Martha Taft, the sad truth is that they'll have to be sacrificed. No personal reflections about this of course. It's all in the interest of posterity, and the wisdom of the aged counts for naught.

Some people working on this list would no doubt like to approach it from the Dan Cupid angle and do some ideal matchmaking: Margaret O'Brien and boy friend, Joe DiMaggio and a diving queen. Ingrid Bergman and Rita Hayworth and their latest, Clark Clifford and Miss America. Margaret Truman and Mr. America. Yehudi Menuhin and somebody to play the piano.

But that's no go. It's too much like the old story about the proposal that Bernard Shaw marry Elenora Duse. The idea was that their children—with his brains and her beauty—would all be geniuses. Shaw discovered the catch in that one. What if the offspring turned out to have his beauty and her brains?

Spin the Wheel

Perhaps the easiest way to start on this problem would be to conduct a national lottery. Leave it to chance. That's what Mother Nature has done since the beginning of time. It has produced some terrible misfits. It has also produced Abraham Lincoln, Thomas A. Edison, Mark Twain and Walt Whitman. Ten people picked at random—if of sound body and average intelligence—would probably do as good a job as five ideal couples.

Another approach would be to pick 'em the way they pick race horses. Get good stock. Perfect physical specimens, high I. Q. Or pick one couple on those standards. Then surround them with four other couples who would contribute most to their staying alive.

First off, you would want a scientist. Somebody who could run a Geiger counter and tell you where it would be safe to put your tootsies without getting them ray-burned in an atom-contaminated world. That suggests some young atomic scientist like J. Robert Oppenheimer, generally conceded the smartest of the American geniuses. Only he'd have to promise not to build another bomb. If his wife is a school-teacher let him bring her along to educate the next generation.

You would want a young doctor and nurse, to carry on what mankind has learned so far about curing illness and saving life.

Next you would want a good farmer and wife. Somebody who knew how to grow potatoes and can tomatoes. That suggests picking the champion 4-H Club boy and girl each year, and keeping them available. They're young enough, of good country stock, sound of heart, of health, of mind and habit.

Next you would need a good mechanic and jack-of-all-trades—somebody who could build a porch on the cave, rig up a waterwheel, hook it to a grindstone, build a fire by rubbing sticks together, trap a squirrel, skin a rabbit, build a boat, cut firewood and fix the plumbing. By all means he must be able to do that.

Your jack-of-all-trades would need to have a good practical wife. Somebody who could run a sewing machine, hang curtains over the cave windows, bake a wild cherry pie, spin, weave and darn socks.

And there you have your ten.

As for all politicians, lawyers, radio entertainers, bond salesmen, bankers, real estate agents, movie stars, executives, Canasta players and newspaper columnists—

As the Lord High Executioner sings in the Mikado, "They never would be missed, they never would be missed."

FEAR IS THE FIFTH COLUMNIST

Now we come to the sixth step: (6) Hold in mind that nothing that you fear is as bad as the fear itself. I mean that seriously: nothing that can happen to you, or can be as disastrous and disruptive as the entrance of fear and worry into your life; for if you keep the center of life intact, then you can come back from anything. Healed at the heart, you can say, "Let the world come on," but, hurt at the heart by fear and worry, you are knocked down by happenings—real and imaginary. The man who fights life's battles without fear fights one enemy—the real thing confronting him. But the man who fights with fears within him fights three enemies—the real thing to fight, plus the imaginary things built up by fear, plus the fear itself. And the greatest of these is fear. Fear is the Fifth Columnist within the soul, the Trojan horse that looses from within itself the enemies that capture us within before the real fight with the outward enemy begins.

Then take your fear
By the ear.
And say, "See here,
If the thing I fear
Were really here,
It could not cause a tear
So scolding, nor could it sear
My soul as much as you, the fear,
So, now and forever, out of here!"

So, boiled down to its essence, the conclusion is that there is nothing to fear, nothing to worry about except worry.

But to leave the matter there with that trite saying is to leave us with fear feeding on fear and worry feeding on worry. That would be just as bad as fearing and worrying about something objective. Even the fear of fear must go. How? By fastening our attention not on the thing to be feared, or on the fear of this fear, but on Christ, the Savior from fear.

O Christ, my Saviour, Thou dost know everything that causes me fear—Thou hast gone through it all. And yet no fears or worries rooted themselves in Thee. I would know Thy secret; unfold it to me. I obey completely and fully. Amen

The Doctor Says—

Special Summer Camps Fit
Needs of Handicapped Child

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Great progress has been made in the medical care and in the understanding of children who are crippled, deformed or handicapped by injury or disease. A number of involuntary organizations have helped immensely. Today many of these youngsters can be helped to take a more normal part in the mental and physical activities in which others of the same age indulge.

It is encouraging to realize, too, that play as well as work has been so much improved for the handicapped. Camping in the summer has been one of the great delights of many children for years. Now the camping experience (adjusted to the particular needs of the youngster) can be provided for more and more of the handicapped and crippled.

For example, the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults (11 South LaSalle Street, Chicago 3, Illinois) in co-operation with the American Camping Association (343 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois) has informed me that either organization would be willing to supply information on camps for crippled children which are located in many parts of the continent.

These camps are not exclusively the privilege of the rich. Through the generosity of many public-spirited citizens, it is often possible to send children who need it to some of these camps under scholarships or partial scholarships.

It is particularly appropriate to call attention to this service and to the other great work for handicapped youngsters which the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults has done now when the Easter Seal campaign is under way.

Special Diabetic Camps

Other organizations also have an interest in camps for handicapped youngsters. There are a number of camps which are designed particularly for children with diabetes. Youngsters suffering from this condition can profit greatly from a properly conducted camp experience.

I am gratified, therefore, to be able to report that the American Diabetes Association (1 Nevins Street, Brooklyn, 17, New York) has also offered its services as a clearing house for information on diabetic camps.

Certainly all children should have a camp experience if it can be arranged. Certainly, too, there are special needs for those who

FINGERPRINTS
Don't Lie

By Rupert Hughes

THE STORY: Although fingerprints found on the telephone used to bludgeon Wendell Palmer to death point to Paul Moody as the guilty party, the murdered man's daughter, who is Moody's fiancée, refuses to believe his guilt. She has hired private detective Martin Queripel to investigate the case. When Queripel and Moody's lawyer, Harley Kenyon, interview Moody, the young man says he did not touch the phone and when he left Palmer he was alive. A woman in a passing car had waved Palmer standing in the doorway when he left, Moody says.

—XXI—

MARTIN QUERIPHEL considered Harley Kenyon's suggestion to advertise for the woman who could supply evidence that Wendell Palmer was still alive when Paul Moody left his home.

"We can try it," said Queripel, "but in the first place, she might not see the ad. In the second place, she might prefer to keep out of this case."

"I don't know about her not reading it," Kenyon objected. "The reporters would certainly find news in the fact we're advertising for a witness."

"That's true," Queripel said, with a nod. "But if she did not appear, it would tend to weaken Paul's story. Furthermore, all the testimony of all the women in the world wouldn't weigh against those fingerprints on the telephone." Kenyon nodded and Queripel went on.

"Harley, you stay here and make your notes and your plans, and I'll go about bail and habeas corpus and what-have-you. I'll go take a peek at those prints."

Queripel shook hands with Paul and left the jail in a state of extreme conflict between what he wanted to believe and what he could not disbelieve. He was in the mood of the Scriptural prayer: "Lord, I believe; help thou my unbelief." His torment gave the lie

He was tempted to throw away his principles and his convictions for the sake of his new and fatherly love for Azalea Palmer. In a daze he made his way to his car and drove it to the Crime Laboratory down at 320 West First Street. His mind was chugging on all cylinders, humming:

"Whether Moody is guilty or not guilty, that girl worships him and needs him, and must have him, or all her beautiful life is wrecked. Some murderers go free—some of the bestliest win the applause of juries. Hundreds of murderers are walking the streets uncaught and unconvicted. Why make an exception of this one sculptor?"

"I told that sweet girl that Benvenuto Cellini was a murderer and liked it. But if they had put Cellini to death, the world would never have had his magnificent 'Perseus with Medusa's Head' or his other works."

INTERTANGLED with these impious thoughts were thoughts of Detective Pete Kelso and the fallibility of fingerprints.

It was a confused and bewildered man who climbed the shabby stairway in the old rookery at 320 West First Street and presented himself to the technicians in the Crime Laboratory.

He felt something like an atheist walking into an old cathedral to tell the priest that their Gospels were all wrong and they might as well abandon their religion.

Naturally Queripel did not tell his hosts that he had come to take a long shot at proving their supposed infallibility a myth.

He merely explained that he had been retained by the defense in the Paul Moody case and would like to follow the evidence against him step by step. He was hospitably received by Ray Pinker, who instructed James Stivers to "give him the works."

Stivers knew Queripel by reputation and knew also that Queripel was well informed on fingerprint methods. Although he was working on another case Stivers was glad to interrupt his task and show the eminent sleuth everything he asked to see.

By apparently casual questioning, Queripel verified all that Azalea had told him; but he avoided any mention of Kelso's name.

Stivers definitely identified Paul Moody's fingerprints by showing Queripel first acknowledged prints he had made from Moody's own fingers at the studio, where Moody had made no objection to the ordeal. Indeed, Moody had brazenly welcomed it.

Next, Stivers produced the prints he had found at the studio. They all conformed to the pattern. Finally, he brought forward the eight fingerprints taken from the base of the telephone.

He said with a kind of solemn elation:

"These are the prints that will give Moody his whiff of gas."

Queripel shuddered, thinking more of Azalea's grief than of Moody's exit from the world he had hoped to adorn with statues.

Queripel studied the prints with fiercely eager eyes. To his sorrow he could find no least excuse to doubt that they were all the portraits of Moody's talented fingertips.

But it was his custom to probe ever deeper and deeper, and he said:

"Could I see the telephone base these prints were taken from?"

"Sure," said Stivers. "We cut the instrument loose and brought it in for safekeeping."

He produced the telephone and part of its severed cords, carefully wrapped in cellophane so as to be visible without being touched. He held it while Queripel studied it through a magnifying glass.

Abruptly Queripel winced as if struck with a knife.

Generous help in supporting camps such as those mentioned, and in making it possible for deserving children of modest means to attend these camps, is worthy of ungrudging support. • Q's and A's

Q—What does an inch of rainfall amount to in ordinary liquid measure?

A—A rainfall of one inch over one acre of ground is equivalent to 27,143 gallons of water.

Q—When were lead pencils first used?

A—Apparently they originated in England about 1560 with the discovery of the Barrowdale graphite mine in Cumberland. Raw graphite was sawed into strips and, without further treatment, was inserted into slots cut lengthwise in wooden dowels. The first real invention was made in 1793 simultaneously by Conte in Paris and Hardmuth in Vienna.

Q—Should wet or green lumber be painted?

A—No. Paint does not adhere well to wet wood and is likely to peel off.

Q—What is the world's tallest known standing tree?

A—Founders Tree, a redwood in the Humboldt State Redwood Park, near Dyerville in California. It was 264 feet tall in 1947.

Too Many Questions Rob
Women of Their Friendships

The February issue of the "Woman's Home Companion" offers its women readers a full page feature called "How to Ask a Question."

If there's anything women don't need to be taught it's how to ask questions. The average woman asks far too many as it is and is as brash as a radio quizmaster hammering away until she gets the information she wants.

Have you ever listened to one

Have you ever listened to a woman digging out every single fact about a juicy bit of gossip—when she had nothing more to go on than a feminine hunch when she started out?

Build Up Frustration

And yet what good does all this skill at question-asking get women, beside a lot of headaches?

What they work so hard to find out often just makes them more envious, more suspicious, or more upset than they were when they started probing around with a lot of questions.

It's a safe bet the fewer questions a woman asks the more friends she has, the longer she keeps a man's love and the happier she is.

Says the introduction to "How to Ask a Question": "Questions are one of the best means of handling and improving our personal relationships."

Ask any husband what he thinks of that statement!

Crime DOES Pay!...3 'Junior Rackets' Add Billions For The Crime Chiefs

PICK A NUMBER (or a horse, or a ball team) and the writers will take your bet, on the street or in your factory. The big winners will be the men "upstairs" in the syndicates.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's the third of six dispatches on how crimes DOES pay in the U. S. today—the sinister story of a new brand of super-crime with a yearly take estimated as high as $20 billion, more than the national defense budget, an illegal big business that threatens every law-abiding citizen.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—With the fabulous profits from their safe-monopoly on off-track betting and slot machines, America's big crime syndicates have successfully promoted other gambling enterprises into the multi-billion dollar racket.

The two most important "subsidiaries" are sports pools and the numbers racket, plus the operation of both of them in the relatively new in-plant gambling business. Betting on the outcome of sports events is handled very much like off-track betting on horse racing. Odds and results are flashed to gamblers and bookie joints all over the country by integrated networks of long distance telephone lines and on the same wires that carry horse race information.

A Massachusetts crime committee report finds that "the principal function of the syndicates is to serve as 'lay-off' houses for smaller sports book-makers, and the 'servicing' of big money gamblers." It also reveals "that a Minneapolis organization, the Athletic Publishing House, equipped with an excellent research staff, prepares odds on baseball games 22 hours before game time."

Last summer, in Boston alone, it was estimated that the syndicate was taking in about $200,000 worth of bets a week and would aggregate about $4,000,000 for the season. Nationally, it is estimated by reliable investigators, the total take is $5,000,000,000.

The numbers or "policy" racket first became popular because very small sums, even pennies, could be wagered. Bets are made on the "number" of the day. The most popular method of getting the "number" is to select various predetermined digits from the daily pari-mutuel prices.

There are many clever ways of cheating the numbers players. Not long ago the daily number was composed of two digits from the noon report of bond sales in the New York exchange and one digit of the Cincinnati Clearing House reports. In a sensational expose, the secretary of the clearing house, Dennison Dubel, was discovered accepting a bribe to manipulate the number so that a minimum number of bettors would win. He is now in prison.

Not to Accept Chairmanship

ST. LOUIS, March 22—(P)—Dr. Arthur H. Compton, chancellor of Washington University, said Tuesday he would not accept chairmanship of the Atomic Energy Commission.

"The work of the Atomic Energy Commission is essential to the nation's safety and welfare," Compton said, "but it seems clear to me that I can do more toward these ends at Washington University than with the Atomic Energy Commission."

The university head, one of the group of scientists who developed the atomic bomb, made his statement to the university's campus publication.

It was not clear whether the post, left vacant by the resignation of David E. Lillienthal, has been offered to Compton by President Truman.

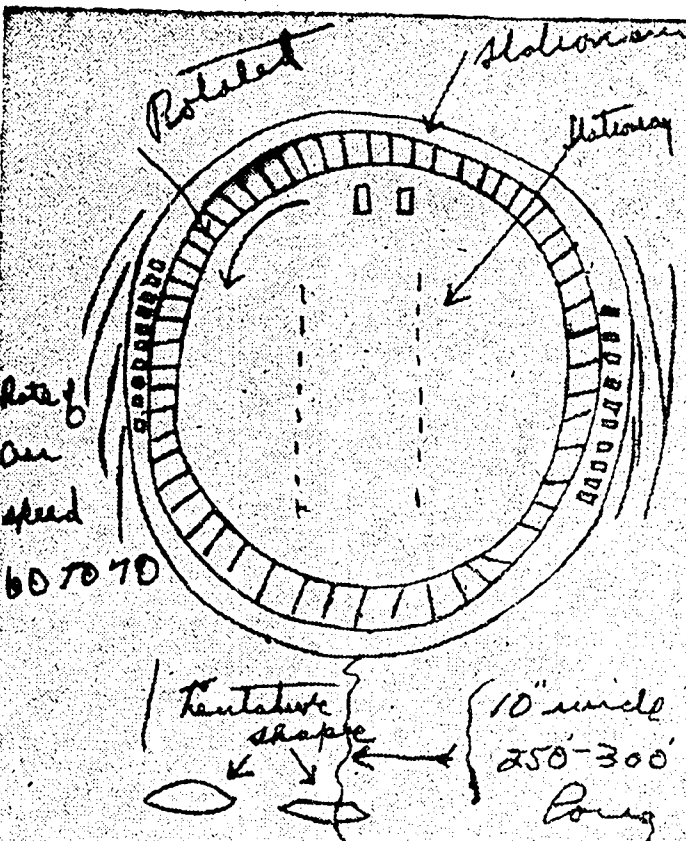

Compton previously had declined to comment on published reports that he was under consideration for the job.

of all employees in these plants gamble at some time or other.

"For every job opening as a gamblers' agent, there are dozens of applicants from among workers regularly employed in the plant. The risk of being seriously punished if caught is relatively slight. In-plant gambling is a much more highly organized business since the end of the war. National syndicates are involved as never before."

What this activity means in the loss of production, in addition to the loss of income by workers, is obvious. And the part that violence and bloodshed play in this situation is explained by the Massachusetts report:

"Rumors have been persistent in crime prevention and law enforcement circles and in the labor movement itself that the nearly

Want Plans Soon In Event Gas Tax Law is Passed

The Missouri state highway department is making preliminary plans on rural roads if the four-cent motor vehicle gas tax law is passed at the special election on Tuesday, April 4. Representatives of division four of the highway department were in Sedalia this morning discussing plans with the Pettis county court and the county road commission as to future rural roads.

Division engineer H. M. Brush and G. A. Barth, with the division of survey and plans, were in Sedalia this morning meeting with the court and commission. They told the group the highway department wants them to make ready their preliminary plans for Pettis county on rural roads. Should the tax law be passed they desire to have these plans in the hands of the department within ten days after the election so they can compare the highway plans with the county plans and make a final agreement on what work is to be done.

Barth also made it clear the highway department was not campaigning for the tax law, but they were only making preliminary plans should it be carried. If the tax law is defeated, "you just as well can forget the whole thing" was the inference left by the two highway department men from Kansas City.

Have Plans Ready
Judge J. V. Kestersen told the two Pettis county already has plans, with minor changes they can be given to the highway department anytime they want them. He also said the county court and highway commission have been working very closely on road plans in this county and feel they could work with the highway department as in the past.

Barth explained Pettis county will get $93,000 for farm-to-market roads as are now maintained in the county and an additional $93,000 for supplementary county roads.

Mr. Brush also explained the King bill road program will be open for two more years and Pettis county can still take advantage of those additional roads which will be a great help in improving the entire road system. Just when work will start if the tax law is passed is still a question. Brush said it all depends upon the collection of the tax and how soon it will be available for the highway department to start its work. It was indicated no work would get underway under ninety days after the election.

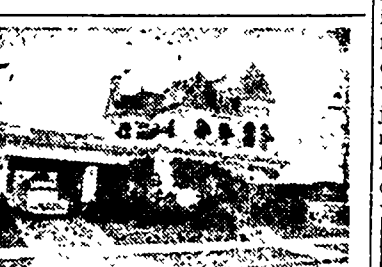

Funeral Director Home From Meeting

D. W. Heckart, a local funeral director, has returned from the National Selective Mortician Group meeting. This meeting, held annually, took place this year on March 20-21 at the Fontelle hotel in Omaha, Neb.

Meeting with morticians from the states of Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Mr. Heckart was able to discuss many of the trends in today's funeral service.

The National Selective Morticians, of which Gillespie funeral home is a member, consists of 500 funeral directors in the United States and Canada. The purpose of the S. N. M. is to improve the service of funeral directors to the public and to maintain high standards.

Cancer Clinic Friday
The Cancer Clinic will be held at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Nurses Home at Bothwell hospital. Dr. John W. Walker, of Kansas City, and Dr. Fink, of Topeka, Kas., will be at the clinic, assisted by members of the Pettis County Medical Society.

ing from its bill last week, on a 43 to 38 vote. The administration apparently feels that if the House approves the idea the Senate might follow suit.

There were no immediate indications whether Mr. Truman's personal efforts will build up any more house strength.

Compromise Talk
Leaders talked of possible compromise.
The measure proposes a $2,000,000,000 government corporation. It would borrow most of its money from the public and make loans to co-ops or other nonprofit organizations at about 3 per cent interest with mortgages to extend up to 60 years. The co-ops would build dwellings for families with annual income from $2,400 to $4,700.

Opponents contend the plan is discriminatory and socialistic. They point out that veterans must pay 4 per cent on housing loans and that home mortgage insurance for other citizens through FHA is at 4 1/2 per cent.

The poll, showing Democrats themselves lukewarm to the cop plan, was made on the basis of the legislation as now drawn.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Ardie Pretzinger
Mrs. Ardie Pretzinger, 76 years old, a former Sedalia, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Virgil Lawhorn, in Los Angeles, Calif., after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Pretzinger was a native of Clinton and was born February 28, 1874. She lived many years in Clinton and then came to Sedalia where together with Mrs. Dolly Bailey, she operated the LaMoore Coffee shop. She left Sedalia in 1936 with Mr. and Mrs. Lawhorn and went to Los Angeles where she has since made her home.

Surviving besides her daughter, Mrs. Virgil Lawhorn, is one son, Leonard Pretzinger, also of the state of California.

Funeral services will be held in Clinton on Saturday afternoon. The body is expected to arrive in Clinton, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lawhorn, about noon Saturday.

Following the burial Mr. and Mrs. Lawhorn will come to Sedalia where they will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Green, 624 East Fourteenth street.

Mrs. Cameron D. Garrett

The body of Mrs. Cameron D. Garrett, former Sedalia, who died in Yonkers, N. Y., will arrive in Sedalia at 5:28 o'clock Thursday afternoon, accompanied by deceased's son, Richard Barrett and Mrs. Garrett, with whom she had made her home.

Mrs. Garrett was born in Kentucky September 4, 1851, a daughter of Dr. Thomas Montgomery and Mrs. Montgomery. The family moved here from Kentucky and the daughter was married to Richard Garrett, a lawyer. Mr. Garrett died soon after their son was born.

Mrs. Garrett then taught school for a time in a private school in Booneville, then at Broadway, Prospect which is now Mark Twain, and she was principal of the East Sedalia Primary school.

She was the oldest member of the Broadway Presbyterian church. She was a sister of the late John Montgomery, Jr., and for six years prior to leaving Sedalia had made her home with Mr. Montgomery. Since that time she had resided with her son and family in Yonkers.

The body will be taken to McLaughlin's chapel.

John D. Wills

John D. Wills, 50 years old, of 1423 East Ninth street, died at the Bothwell hospital at 5:33 o'clock Tuesday evening. He had been a patient at the hospital since February 26.

He was born in Benton county, October 7, 1899, the son of C. G. and Hattie Smith Wills. He had resided in and near Sedalia for the past 20 years.

May 17, 1920 he was married to Miss Viola Chapman, who preceded him in death August 30, 1930.

He was married at Warsaw, November 29, 1933 to Miss Anna Wills.

A daughter, Yvonne Wills, died in 1934 at the age of two months.

One sister, Mrs. Armelia Smith, died in 1933.

Mr. Wills is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Wills; one son, Donald Wills of the home; three daughters and one son by his first marriage, Mrs. A. M. Cameron, Miss Armelia Wills, Boston, Mass.; Mrs. Grace Riojas, Kansas City; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Wills, 1407 East Sixth street, three brothers, Guy H. Wills, 1712 East Seventh street; Paul Wills, Windsor, Mo.; Elsie Wills, Fordland, Mo.; three sisters, Mrs. Mary Elkins, Ft. Worth, Texas; Mrs. Averilla Rudolph, 2400 South Missouri avenue; Mrs. Una May Smith, Eldon.

Funeral services will be held at the Ewing funeral home at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Rev. Walter P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church, will officiate.

Interment will be in the Crown Hill cemetery.

The body is at the Ewing funeral home.

Mrs. W. H. Powell Service

Funeral services for Mrs. Louise Humphreys Powell, widow of the late Col. William H. Powell, who died at the Bothwell hospital Tuesday morning will be held at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the Calvary Episcopal church with the rector, the Rev. Warren Botkin, to officiate.

Pallbearers will be T. W. Cloney, II, E. M. Stafford, Jr., C. E. Meserly, John G. Crawford, Dr. W. A. Beckmeyer and James Norlin. Burial will be in the Powell family lot in Crown Hill cemetery.

Here to attend the funeral are: Mrs. Powell's two sons and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Powell, of Albuquerque, N. M., and Mr. and Mrs. David H. Powell, of Kansas City.

Loyalty Program Is Legal

Miss Bailey's patriotism or the value of her services to the government, or to suppose that an unpatriotic person could do substantial harm in her sort of job.

"Even if her services were on the whole undesirable, to oust her as disloyal on rumor and without trial is to pay too much for protection against such harm as she could do in such a job."

"Even if such dismissals would strengthen the government instead of weakening it, they would still cost too much in constitutional rights. We cannot preserve our liberties by sacrificing them."

'Dagwood' Gets Out on Bond

HOLLYWOOD, March 22.—(AP)—Police early today arrested two men on drunk charges and identified one of them as Arthur Lake, the movies' "Dagwood."

Arresting officers identified the other as Paul W. Sebring, president of a dogfood company. The men were picked up in front of Sebring's home where neighbors complained they were creating a disturbance.

Both were released on $20 bail pending hearing in municipal court later today.

Important Events In World News

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—A Senate committee was told today that this country needs to follow up splitting the atom by splitting the nickel. But the lady who mints Uncle Sam's coins said no.

The battle of the coinage took place before a Senate banking sub-committee that opened hearings on legislation to add 2 1/2 and 7 1/2 cent pieces to the change in Americans' pockets.

Witnesses supporting the proposal estimated it would save the public from 5 to 8 billion dollars a year.

Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, testified that on the contrary "the expense to the public would be undoubtedly heavy."

She said her view, and that of the treasury department, is: "No conditions now exist which would justify the addition of new coins to our system."

ROME, March 22.—(AP)—

One man was reported killed at Parma and 3,000 persons were arrested in Rome today during a Communist-led general strike that hit Italy's industries and tied up local transportation.

The government met the challenge with a massing of police strength that choked off many demonstrations throughout the country.

NEW YORK, March 22.—(AP)—

Former president Herbert Hoover says the federal government "needs more than an annual housecleaning."

"There are corners where the dust, cobwebs and the red tape have not been cleaned out for at least 50 years," he declared yesterday.

Mr. Hoover, head of the commission on reorganization of the executive branch of government, spoke at a women's rally of the New York citizens committee for the Hoover report.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—

Secretary of State Acheson today backed up contentions from associates that the United States is being harmed in its foreign relations by the charges from Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) of Communist infiltration of the state department.

At a news conference, reporters recalled that ambassador-at-large Philip C. Jessup had called McCarthy's charges "utterly irresponsible" and harmful. Acheson said he fully supports Jessup's declaration.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—

A report that government payroll showed a net reduction of 6,153 persons in January came today from the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—

Senator Taft said today that former President Hoover may be asked to testify on President Truman's proposal to abolish the independent general counsel of the National Labor Relations board.

The Ohio Republican told a reporter he doesn't know Hoover's attitude toward the President's move, submitted to Congress as No. 12 of 21 government reorganization plans. Hearings on the proposal probably will be held by the Senate expenditures committee early in April.

Four Perish When Fire Sweeps Home

GRAND JUNCTION, Tenn., March 22.—(AP)—Four small Negro girls perished here yesterday when flames swept their home.

Mary Pirtle, mother of the children, said she left them alone to go a short distance into town to get some laundry. The father, Jesse Pirtle, was at work.

The victims were Dorothy Mae, five; Bessie Jean, three; Elsie, two; and Elvora, three months.

Firemen said the cause of the fire was not known.

Bothwell Hospital

Admitted for tonsillectomy: William D. Hawley, 1100 East Sixteenth street, and Virgil Rodgers, 1620 South Beacon avenue.

Dismissed: George Whitman, 131 East Walnut street; Jimmie Lee Thompson, 429 North Summit street; Ernest Selken, route 5, Sedalia; Mrs. Volle Moore, 1301 South Lamine avenue; Wilber Easter, route 1, Green Ridge; Mrs. James D. Case and son, 1400 South Speed avenue, Mrs. Roy Sirks, 1311 East Broadway; Mrs. Nell V. J. P. Devine, Clifton City; Francis Harvey, 319 1/2 West Sixth street; C. Smith, 506 South Park street; and Dalton H. Brown, Versailles.

Judge W. M. Ilgenfritz, 615 West Broadway, was admitted to the hospital this afternoon for medical attention. Judge Ilgenfritz had been ill at his home for several days.

Gorgeous George Coming Thursday

Advance ticket sales for the Gorgeous George of Hollywood, Calif., and Marshall Esteppe of Sturgeon, Mo., wrestling match on Thursday night are in demand according to Mel Carl of Beverly's Snack Shop where the tickets are being handled.

Promoter Pearl Christy has announced that Gorgeous George is drawing overflow crowds in every city in which he appears. His popularity as one of the leading attractions in wrestling is nationwide, and the face he is mentioned from time to time by leading radio entertainers on their broadcasts creates a desire to see him.

His appearance in Kansas City Tuesday night proved his drawing powers as he had an overflow crowd at the Legion hall there. Sedalia is certain to provide one of the largest crowds ever to jam into the National Guard armory.

Supporting Gorgeous George and Esteppe will be two catches in which women wrestlers will appear. These two matches alone are worth seeing as the women wrestlers provide many thrills during their events to the delight of the wrestling fans.

Barber Admits Killing Man

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., March 22.—(AP)—A slender, greying barber who told police he was too little to carry the body of a big man admitted last night the butcher slaying of a window washer.

Detective Clint Seward said 56-year-old Clarence Taylor broke down after 12 years of questioning and, between sobs, told a grisly tale of how he killed George Willis Baldwin, 54.

The police detective said Taylor related that he killed Baldwin with shots from a .38-caliber pistol in his downtown barber shop the night of March 13.

Seward quoted Taylor as saying, adding that the slight-statured barber blamed the shooting on an argument over a pretty young woman.

The woman, identified as 19-year-old Mrs. Goldie Juanita Wilson of Dresser, a community across the Wabash river from Terre Haute, was held without charge for questioning.

Forrest Smith Is Encouraged

KANSAS CITY, March 22.—(AP)—Governor Forrest Smith said today he was encouraged over growing sentiment for the proposal to increase Missouri's gasoline tax from two to four cents a gallon.

"I feel greatly encouraged," he said in an interview. "If the people and the organizations who tell us that they are for it will go out and vote April 4, there is no question about the outcome."

In regard to the possibility of a special session of the legislature in April, Smith said it was not at all certain there would be one.

While there have been numerous requests for one, he added, a definite decision is yet to be reached.

The Governor and Mrs. Smith came here to attend a concert by Miss Margaret Truman last night.

Cocktail Invitations Must be Censored

WARSAW, Poland, March 22.—(AP)—Even cocktail party invitations must be passed by the censor under Poland's new law governing all printed material.

The British embassy found out about it yesterday when a Warsaw printer refused an order for invitation cards to a farewell party for Sir Donald Gainer, the retiring British ambassador.

The printer cited a new law which requires prior approval by the press censor of all material to be printed. The embassy sent a formal note to the press ministry asking it to approve the wording of the invitations.

WONDER-WORKING
HADACOL
THIN, SICKLY KIDDIES

suffering from B Vitamins and Mineral Deficiencies

Most mothers don't realize this! When your child won't eat, is pale, sickly, puny, backward at school, nervous, has an easily upset stomach—it's often because he's suffering from such nutritional deficiencies. Kiddies need two to three times more of these disease-fighting, health-building elements than adults. So start your children on HADACOL at once.

HADACOL is almost a miracle-working nutritional treatment for kiddies troubled like this. HADACOL helps build strong spines, muscles, sound teeth. It improves the appetite, aids digestion and relieves upset stomachs. HADACOL even helps build up red blood to course through their little bodies, bringing unbelievable new strength and energy. Watch school marks improve!

Mrs. C. R. Reeves of Anniston, Alabama writes: "I've been giving my little girl HADACOL for about eight weeks and it's done her so much good. She eats more and is more playful. She doesn't mind taking it at all."

No matter what you've tried—give HADACOL a chance to help your kiddies. Trial size only $3.19 a bottle. Large family or hospital size for $1.19.

'MOTHERS TO BE' NEED
HADACOL
healthy babies

Expectant mothers may not be aware of it, but they often times have a deficiency of essential B vitamins and minerals—which are so necessary if they want to help bear strong, healthy babies. Undoubtedly, Nature's plans are to disregard the older life to do the best possible for the new individual coming into the world. In order to maintain normal calcium concentration in the blood, Nature makes so great an effort that it robs bones and teeth for this purpose. This explains the increase in tooth decay during pregnancy, for Nature robs the mother—to feed the child—of not only calcium, but of iron and other valuable elements.

So give your children the right start—take wonder-working HADACOL all through the waiting months. HADACOL relieves morning sickness, upset stomachs, heartburn and constipation when (as so often) these symptoms are due to such deficiencies. HADACOL helps reinforce and nourish body tissues. It contains precious calcium to help keep your teeth sound. HADACOL also has iron to build up red blood to course through your body, bringing new strength and energy which you need at this time.

Buy HADACOL today! You owe it to yourself, your family, and the little one coming. Trial size only $3.19 a bottle. Large family or hospital size $1.19.

Carefully Planned Shrubs Can Make a House a Home

ROLL VERY LIGHTLY TO AVOID PACKING SOIL

SQUARE OFF WORN SPOT

PATCH WITH SQUARES OF GOOD SOD

Everyone likes to spruce up the lawn. This can be done even when the spring and your lawn is no exception. So don't spare a little elbow grease in getting it in shape to look its best throughout the summer and fall. First chore, as soon as possible after winter's snows have ended for good, is to give your lawn a thorough raking. Clean up all the debris of winter—the dead leaves, the fallen twigs and branches, the wind-blown scraps of paper, the stones that have worked their way up to the surface. A frugal gardener does not throw away these sweepings, but uses them to build up a compost pile. Never forget that your grass needs food. So, as early in the season as possible, top dress your lawn with a complete fertilizer.

There are dozens of similar tricks, but Kiernan doesn't believe anybody can become a successful humorist merely by following formulas. "It can't really be taught at all," he said. "It's just an attitude of mind. I doubt if some of the best gagwriters even can read. It isn't essential, certainly." Kiernan, a pleasant, easy-going man of 48, shows little of the strain that afflicts many laughter merchants. He doesn't have an ulcer, one Hallmark of success in this clan, nor does he support a staff of psychiatrists. His Specialty This may be because he specializes in what is called "throw-away humor," casual pleasanties aimed at stirring chuckles instead of the explosive yuks which are the goal of high-pressure buff artists, such as Milton Berle. During a 70-minute morning broadcast, interspersed with phonograph records, Walter generates a minimum of 30 low-pressure wisecracks on news of the day, and tosses them off spontaneously. But it takes him an hour-and-a-half of hard writing to develop and whip into pattern the 20 gags he packs into a five-minute ABC network program. "You can't write them by a formula," he said. "But after a few years you find you can write them by reflex. One joke sets the stage for the next one. "I mumble out loud as I write, because the material has to sound right as well as read right." No Card File of Jokes Unlike many comedians, Kiernan doesn't keep a card file of jokes. "When you've used a joke, it's better to throw it away," he said. "You can't keep yourself alive long trying to keep old jokes alive." He avoids dialect jokes, atom bomb jokes ("it's too serious to joke about"), or deformity words—such as blind drunk, blind date, cock-eyed or cross-eyed. "Anyone who has a deformity doesn't think it's funny," said Kiernan. What is his funniest joke? He doesn't know, but the one copied most often by other humorists was his story of how he made an electric blanket by using some wiring from an old toaster but had to give it up "because it started to popping me out of bed buttered on both sides."

Lives Out Year in Which Her Death Was Forecast

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 22—(P)—Mrs. Heart is alive — 12 months later.

"I have learned to live for each day," says the unidentified middle-aged Oklahoma City widow who last March was told a heart condition would prove fatal in a year. "It's a wonderful thing—a precious thing—that has happened to me."

Mrs. Heart, who drew the nation's sympathy when she asked now best to spend $10,000 before death came, has decided the year which was to be her last was a good one.

She has a new philosophy. "Each day I think this may be the last day I have," Mrs. Heart says, "but I no longer frightens me. I want to get the most from each day . . . to live it to the fullest . . . to help people."

Most of that $10,000, she says, has been spent. She gave hundreds of dollars away—but not to any of the persons who wrote her for a financial assist.

"Those who really need help seldom ask for it," she says. "They are the ones I like to help—the people I come in contact with personally. I can see their needs, and it's wonderful to be able to do something for them, and to do it anonymously if you can."

Mrs. Heart came to the Oklahoma City Daily Oklahoman last year, a robbing and near-hysterical woman. She was moderately wealthy, an only child—living in California had been provided for—and death, to her, was a timed thing.

But then she didn't know how to spend it. Perhaps, she said, a reader could help.

But the newspaper must pledge itself to secrecy. It did.

In all, some 30,000 persons wrote her at the Daily Oklahoman.

"I have filled a book with notes I took from those letters," she says. "Especially the letters from doctors telling me I had no reason to give up hope. And from people who had lived long past the time they were given to die."

Mrs. Heart traveled to Arizona. The woman who once said her's was "a reckless kind of feeling" also sought additional medical advice.

Now, she says, she has become intensely interested in Christian Science.

"Studying it and attending lectures has helped me in every way," she says. "It's meant more to me than anything. 'I've a self-confidence that I never had before in my life.'"

Mrs. Heart says her health has improved, she has gained ten pounds, and she knows she still has a future.

"I know Christian Science has helped me in so many ways," she adds, "not just my health."

Mrs. Heart plans to continue to live here. She hopes her identity will never be known. "I was ready to give up before," she says, "but it's different now. There are so many things I really want to do and places I want to go."

Storm Sewer Report Made By Engineer

Richard Lindemoor, resident engineer, Monday night submitted to the City Council, the following report on progress on the sewer system being installed:

"March 8, 1950.
To: The Honorable Mayor and Members of the City Council, Sedalia, Missouri.

"Progress Report of Sanitary and Storm Sewer Improvement Project and Treatment Plant Construction."

"Gentlemen:
The following is a report of the progress during the month of February 1950 on the Sanitary and Storm Sewer Improvement Project, and the Construction Program for the South, North and West Treatment Plants.

"Work on the Sanitary Sewer Improvement Project included completion of Main "A" consisting of in inch tile laid East on Henry street between Lamine and Washington avenues. This completed installation of tile in the North District. In the West District Main "V" consisting of 8 inch tile laid south of Eleventh street and Warren avenue, was completed which completed installation of tile in the West District. In the East District work continued on the section of Main "N" consisting of 8 inch tile laid west of Merriam avenue and north of Fourteenth street extending east to Merriam avenue and then south. Sewer tile laid this month consisted of approximately 1,961 lineal feet. By the end of February the total amount of sewer laid amounted to approximately 40,495 lineal feet, which combined with manholes constructed and work done on the pump stations represents approximately 86 per cent completion of the project.

Complete Contract Documents
"Contract documents have been completed for the replacing of approximately 120 lineal feet of 24 inch vitrified clay pipe, installation of concrete encasement, installation of approximately 54 lineal feet of 25 inch cast iron pipe and necessary excavation, structures and grading to be known as "Repair of 25 inch outfall sewer." This sewer carries sewage from a point north of Henry street and east of Grand avenue to the North Treatment Plant. The contractor on this project is W. J. Menefee Construction Co., and they are in the process of obtaining the necessary materials with construction to start as soon as materials are on hand.

"Work on the storm Sewer Improvement Project consisting of construction of a 96 inch monolithic concrete relief sewer parallel to the existing 60 inch brick sewer located on block east of Grand avenue and extending from the Missouri Pacific railroad tracks north approximately 2,800 feet will be started in March. The contractor on this project is Hastings and Stiers and they have set up an office on the job site, brought in some equipment and are in the process of clearing brush and receiving materials to begin construction.

"At the South Treatment Plant work this month consisted of sitting the digester floating covers, completion of roofing and glazing for the Control building and additional work on gas and water piping and power and light wiring in the Control Building. The concrete work on the influent structure was completed. Work done to March 1, represents approximately 91 per cent completion of the project. Since my last report there has been some lost time due to bad weather and although the contractor is making every effort to put this plant in operation by March 15, it appears at this time as though it might be nearer the last week of March.

Work Done
"At the North Treatment Plant this month the Control Building roof was poured and brick work was completed. Work was continued on yard piping and installation of filter tile was completed. Concrete work on the influent structure was started and alterations to the existing Imhoff tank are under way. Pumps and pipe work have been installed in the pump structure and grading was in progress around the digesters. Work done to March 1 represents approximately 80 per cent completion of the project.

"At the West Treatment Plant the operation floor slab of the Control Building was poured this month and all forming and reinforcing steel placed for pouring the walls above the operating floor level. Work proceeded on yard piping which is now approximately 75 per cent completed. Alterations to the existing dosing tank were completed and the tank put back into operation. Work done to date represents approximately 63 per cent completion of the project.

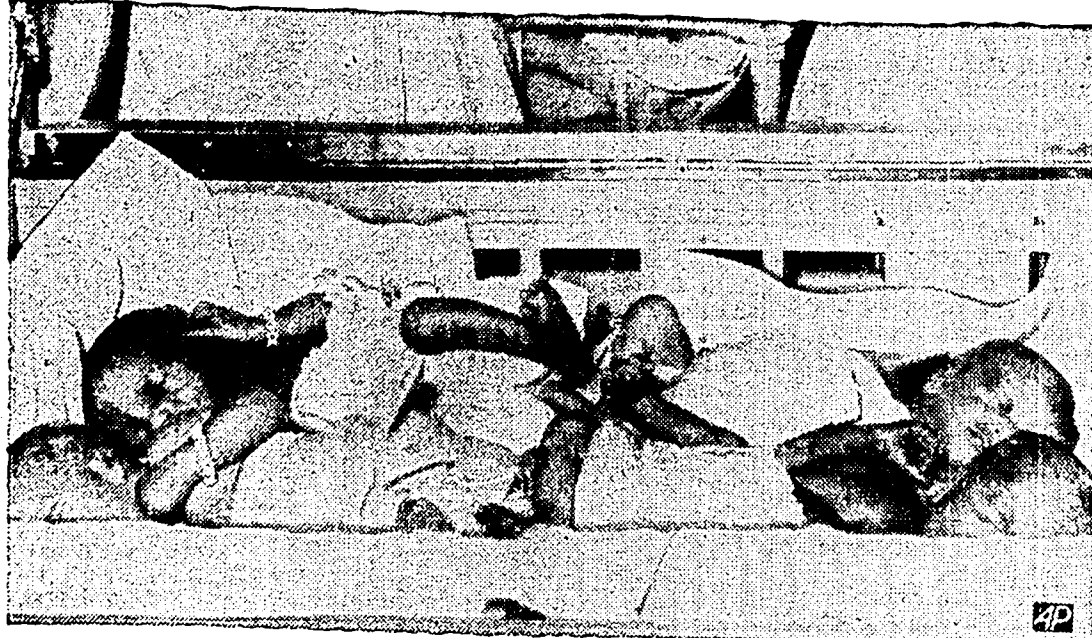

"Respectfully submitted,
"RICHARD LINDEMOOR,
"Resident Engineer."

Save Cameraman From Mob Action
CAPRI, Italy, March 22—(P)—Police saved an American movie cameraman from mob action on Monday in the Capri village square.

He was identified as Peter Riethof who had been shooting scenes on the isle of Capri for several days.

Quads Bring Financial Crisis

Ossie Hargreaves, father of the five-months-old girl quadruplets shown here in a Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., hospital soon after their birth, says his financial plight is such "we may have to consider offering the four girls for adoption." The father says that public interest has waned. He points out that there is only $5,000 allotted for a home by the committee organized to raise funds for building a home and educating the children. He says he doesn't feel he can make a start on that. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Grocers See Movies After a Dinner
The Sedalia Retail Grocers Association held a dinner meeting in the Palm room of the Bothwell hotel Tuesday night. The meeting was open to all retail grocers of this city and surrounding areas.

A movie entitled "Design for Selling" was shown following the dinner. This was the first in a series of seven such pictures produced by the National Association of Retail Grocers.

The remainder six movies will be shown at the ensuing six meetings of the association.

Fire Destroys Abbey and Church
NORTH CUMBERLAND, R. I., Mar. 22—(P)—Fire Tuesday night destroyed the abbey and church of the Cistercian monastery here.

At 11:10 p. m., EST only the front gate and quarters in the rear of the Abbey had not been consumed by the flames.

Two ambulances with litter cases arrived at Woonsocket hospital but there were no details.

The monks of the Cloistered Trappist order said so far as they knew no one had been trapped in the buildings.

How the fire started was not immediately clear.

Acheson Speech Reply up To Propaganda Agencies

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.,
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Soviet Russia's reaction to Secretary Acheson's Berkeley speech has been as expected—a resounding "Nyet."

The Kremlin has left the job of replying to its propaganda agencies, which is only natural since the secretary's words were addressed to people, not to any government.

First Moscow comment was a long diatribe by Anatoli Surov, Russian writer, who termed Acheson's seven points of needed cooperation an "ultimatum."

Since that time Pravda and others have made it plain that the "ultimatum" has been rejected in its entirety, although the Moscow commentators did discuss one point—the Japanese Peace treaty—which they say can be had, but only on their terms. There does seem to be a certain modification of these terms to include the smaller participants in the Pacific war as observers at the peace conference. But the Russians still want the real work to be done by the Big Five, which in practical effect leaves the others just as ineffective as ever.

Belittled by Chinese Reds
The Chinese communists were quick to catch their cue, too, in belittling Mr. Acheson's San Francisco speech in which he warned the Chinese people against adventures in other Asiatic countries.

The whole thing has resulted in a dispatch from Eddy Gilmore, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Moscow for many years, in which he says:

"There has probably been no time since the war when relations between the Soviet Union and the United States have reached such a low level."

Gilmore says the Russian people believe war is possible but not probable or imminent.

Russia, he says, still counts heavily on the Lenin-Stalinist theory that the capitalist countries will hang themselves through failure of their economic systems. The Russians feel time is on their side; it at their sphere grows stronger while the west grows weaker. They consider the communist conquest of China and the establishment of the East German "Republic" as highly significant signs of this trend.

Departing from the mass of villifying generalities in which Acheson's terms were rejected, one specific Russian complaint which is understandable is made against American policy. It says it is understandable, even though based on misunderstanding. That is the Russian fear that the U. N. proposals for control of atomic energy are aimed at western monopoly. The Russians are counting heavily on atomic energy for the power with which to hurdle their years-long lag in catching up with the industrial revolution. They hope it will do for them in a few years what steam, electricity and the internal combustion engine did for western industry in the course of a more gradual development. They believe that proposed international controls would be rigged by the anti-Soviet majority to throttle these hopes.

The western nations are just as naturally fearful that, without the strictest sort of controls and inspection, Russia would be preparing secretly for atomic warfare whenever she feels the time is ripe to put the military climax to her world revolution.

This is just one example of the impossibility of a meeting of minds between east and west, and why speeches such as Acheson's will be strictly "for the record" until there are factual changes in the situation which will permit some exchange of mutual faith.

looks at Life Insurance

RECENTLY members of Newsweek magazine's editorial staff interviewed Mr. Leroy A. Lincoln, President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, on the subject of Life insurance.

The tremendous role that Life insurance plays in the national economy, and the interesting institutional material developed during the discussion, are so important that a motion picture has been made of this interview. This film will be given wide distribution in line with Metropolitan's "Open Book" policy.

Naturally, in reply to questions from the editors, Mr. Lincoln made many references to Metropolitan's achievements in 1949. In fact, the interview developed the information that is customarily included in the Annual Report to Policyholders. Accordingly, a complete transcript has been printed as the Company's Report for 1949. Here are some of the highlights of that report:

—Metropolitan...paid about $769,000,000 (to beneficiaries and policyholders last year) ...and I might add further that... (this includes) $502,000,000 to living policyholders."

—"For our 33,000,000 policyholders in the United States and Canada, the total Life insurance in force in the Metropolitan at the end of last year was almost $42,000,000,000—an increase of 4 percent over the preceding year."

—"Metropolitan's assets totaled $9,700,000,000, an increase of about 6 percent over the figure for 1948."

—"Through the combined efforts of the many health organizations, the average expectation of life at birth has improved 18 years since 1900. At that time it was about 49 years—while right now it is about 67."

—"Expenses for the Life insurance companies have gone up the same as for everybody else. For example, in the Metropolitan last year they increased about 4 percent ... insurance in force in Metropolitan has Increased about 80 percent since 1939, whereas operating expenses have increased only 71 percent."

—"In 1949, Metropolitan ... paid $164,000,000 in dividends to policyholders—the largest such amount in the Company's history. Dividends payable to policyholders in 1950 will be somewhat larger in the aggregate than 1949."

—"Dividends would be substantially higher were it not for the low interest returns which have prevailed throughout the United States and Canada. For example, last year the net interest earned on Metropolitan assets was 3.07 percent, compared with 3.03 in 1948, and with 5.18 in 1929."

Metropolitan's Annual Report to Policyholders for 1949 will be sent to anyone on request. In addition, copies of the film may be borrowed for showing by local business, civic, or other groups in which Metropolitan policyholders are interested.

Critical on 'Overlapping'

Call on Brannan For Close Study On Activities

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—The House Appropriations committee Tuesday sharply criticized Agriculture Department for "overlapping and duplication" in its multi-billion dollar activities.

It called upon Secretary Brannan to make a searching study of nationwide activities of his department looking toward a more efficient organization.

And, emphasizing the desirability of government economy, the committee said it was "disturbed about the question of efficient administration and operation" within the agency which directs broad food and farm research, crop control and price support programs.

"The committee is concerned about the future of the department and the agricultural programs of the country, in view of the fact that a large number of separate organizational units are conducting separate and in many cases completely independent programs in the field, each with a separate representative contacting the farmer," the committee said.

It cited as an example the separate soil conservation activities of the soil conservation service and the production and marketing administration.

The committee also professed to see "some reluctance throughout the department to adopt new lines of research holding more promise." It said committee investigations had disclosed a complete lack of advanced planning in department programs for insect and plant disease control.

Similar criticism of the department has been made by the Hoover commission on reorganization of the government.

The house committee's remarks were made in a report on the Agriculture department section of a huge $29,000,000 appropriation bill approved by the committee today. The measure recommends $1,284,382,000 to run the department's activities—exclusive of price supports—for the 1951 fiscal year, starting July 1. This amount is $50,000,000 more than the agency received for the current year, but $131,893,000 less than it requested.

Six Prisoners Escape
BUENA VISTA, Colo., March 22.—(AP)—Six prisoners attacked a guard and escaped from the Colorado state reformatory Monday night.

Warden James Thomas said they hit Ed Murdie over the head and broke out of Camp No. 1. Murdie suffered a concussion.

The six stole a pickup truck at the reformatory, he said, and headed south. Road blocks were set up.

Thomas said the men were armed with a pistol and gas gun.

Plan Easter Egg Roast

The Oak Point Extension club met at the home of Mrs. Otto Tegtmeyer at their last all day meeting until fall on March 15.

Mrs. Norman Gibson, the president, opened the meeting and roll call was answered by "An Ironing Trick."

Mrs. Gibson gave some hints on clothing from a meeting she had recently attended in Sedalia. Several songs were sung including the club song. The Lord's Prayer was also repeated in unison.

Arrangements were made for an Easter Egg Roast to be held at the school on April 7.

Recipes were given the members from a former demonstration on food by Mrs. Paul Payne and Mrs. Paul Sparks.

Members of the club play will present it at the school March 10. It will be given again the 21st when a group of county plays will be given in Sedalia.

The April meeting will be at Mrs. Darald Arnett's home in the afternoon.

By W. H. Mobley

WASHINGTON, March 22—(P)—Foreign committees of the Senate and House split wide apart Tuesday over question of substituting surplus U. S. farm products for $1,000,000,000 of European recovery cash.

Each gave final approval to its version of a foreign spending authorization bill with $3,100,000,000 provided for economic cooperation administration programs in Europe. But in the Senate's measure it is all cash while in the House's bill a billion is farm surplus.

The Senate Foreign Relations committee action was unanimous. On the House side Chairman Kee (D-WVa) of the Foreign Affairs committee said approval was by "a large majority."

The disagreement set the stage for a rousing Senate-House battle. Kee made the prospect of such a contest plainer with a statement to reporters that "I'm going to support the bill all the way through."

Lack of support from the Foreign Affairs chairman made the road ahead look rough for any move to take out the farm products substitution amendment on the floor.

No Hurry on Bill

There were indications the Senate committee will be in no hurry to bring its bill formally to the floor. The House's bill is likely to be reported tomorrow, but there are no plans to bring it to debate until late April, after the Easter recess.

Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio), author of the substitution plan, told reporters there was "evidence of a determination among members 'to cut the cash fund even more and hinted he would lead a move to trim $150,000,000."

Simultaneously with the Senate committee action, the House group attached to its own foreign aid measure a declaration in favor of organization of Asia's free people for mutual aid to protect their independence.

The Senate committee too moved for broader action in Asia than this country is now taking, with an amendment which might permit economic aid from this country to guerrilla forces and war lords holding out in China against the communists.

That language was attached to a portion of the bill under which "if the President deems it practical" not less than $50,000,000 or previously appropriated China-aid funds may be used on the Chinese mainland, and on the islands of Hainan and Formosa.

At the same time the Senate committee approved $100,000,000 in economic aid for Korea.

Three-day Conference

ROME, March 22 — (P) — The United States top ambassadors to Europe will discuss Secretary of State Dean Acheson's seven new requirements for understanding with Russia in their three-day closed door conference here this week.

"Discussions will cover the whole field of diplomatic and economic problems," said George W. Perkins, U.S. assistant secretary of state of European affairs, who arrived last night.

"Certainly it will include the secretary of state's new definition of the American position toward Russia."

Acheson's seven steps necessary for the Soviet Union to take before any real accord could be reached included agreement on atomic control, speedy conclusion of peace treaties, withdrawal of Soviet armies from the satellite countries, and ceasing to use Communist parties for subversive activities.

LIGHTER MASK—This is the new "M-9" gas mask, selected by the Army to replace the old World War II type mask. The M-9 is lighter, more efficient and less hampering than any of its predecessors. The air-purifying canister is attached to the cheek, eliminating the need for a bulky hose.

End of a Happy Holiday

'Two Big Boosts' Is Comment

JEFFERSON CITY, March 22—(P)—The Better Roads committee said Tuesday it has received "two big boosts" in its fight for Gov. Forrest Smith's gasoline tax increase law.

The committee announced that Rep. Clarence Cannon, Democrat, sent a letter from Washington asking Missourians to vote for the tax hike when it comes up for referendum vote April 4.

The Missouri Baptists' Association swung in behind the governor's law, too, the committee said. Official support of the church organization came in its newspaper, "Word and Way." The committee said Dr. T. W. Medcarris of Jefferson City, general superintendent of the state association, urged members of his congregation to vote for the law "for the good of all our people and for better conditions of our country churches."

Congressman Cannon was quoted as writing that "we have lifted the interurban driver out of the mud and now let us lift the farmer out of the mud and up on the highway with him."

The law would double Missouri's two cent gasoline tax, setting aside one cent of the increase for state-built country roads.

GE Presents New Creation

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 22—(P)—"Avoid that run down feeling—be careful," a voice barked at pedestrians waiting to cross the street today at Syracuse's main downtown intersection.

They looked around, saw no one who might have uttered the warning.

"Long chances shorten lives—be careful," the voice blurted.

It came from a small box atop a traffic light and sounded off every time the light changed. The General Electric Company announced that the device was its creation.

The voice, described by GE as "friendly," is operated by a tape recording machine and is designed to make pedestrians safety conscious. It uttered six different messages of warning.

The gadget was constructed at GE's electronics park plant here.

Actor Edward Arnold To Run For Senator

HOLLYWOOD, March 22—(P)—Actor Edward Arnold says he's considering running for the Republican nomination as U. S. senator.

When asked to comment on the coincidence that his current role in the movies is that of a senatorial candidate Arnold gave forth "Heh, heh, heh."

Boost Stewart For Jaycee Post

MONETT, Mo., March 22—The Missouri Junior Chamber of Commerce will back Floyd Stewart, Monett high school teacher, for national Jaycee president this year.

Jim Kolb, state president, of Jefferson City made the announcement at a dinner meeting here. Stewart now is national vice-president of the Jaycees. Kolb said the state organization plans to raise a $1,500 campaign fund in behalf of Stewart. The national convention will be in Chicago in June.

An organization meeting for the establishment of a Junior Chamber of Commerce club in Sedalia will be held in the board room of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce at 7:30 o'clock Thursday March 30th.

All you men interested in bettering their community, their state and their country are invited to attend this session. The meeting will be in charge of the state president, James Kolb, of Jefferson City.

Violin Is Worth Fortune
NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—(AP)—It would take a fortune to buy the ancient violin owned by Vladimir Lenski. He values it at $100,000. The music teacher and former concert violinist says his fiddle was carved in 1510 by Gaspar Duiforprugger, instrument maker to King Francis I of France. It is reputedly one of the earliest modern-type violins.

Lenski acquired the prize, he says, more than 50 years ago from a member of the Russian royal family who admired his playing.

Bradley is Favored to Win Playoffs

Meet Will be Friday, Saturday In Kansas City

By Skipper Patrick

...KANSAS CITY, March 22—(P)—Tired or souped-up, Bradley university's Braves will be favored to win the Western NCAA basketball playoffs here Friday and Saturday.

Coch Forrester (Forddy) Anderson's Braves, named the nation's No. 1 team in the final Associated Press poll, will play U.C.L.A., Pacific coast representative, in the second game of Friday's program at 9:45 p. m. (CST).

Baylor of the Southwest conference and Brigham Young of the Rocky mountains meet in the opener at 8 o'clock (CST).

NCAA Finals Tuesday The western winner will meet the eastern winner in New York City next Tuesday in the NCAA finals.

Bradley, which won the Missouri Valley berth in the westerns by beating Kansas 50-57 last Monday, appeared fairly well spent after playing four games in eight days.

However, they'll come into the playoffs with some rest. They also have the best record of the four teams participating.

They played three times in the national invitational at New York, losing to C.C.N.Y. in the finals last Saturday before coming to Kansas City to trim Kansas on a late scoring drive.

30 Wins for Bradley Bradley, Missouri Valley conference champion, played 34 games this winter, winning 30 of them.

U.C.L.A., regarded as the second best team in the western field and winner over Washington State in a Pacific Coast conference playoff, won 24 of its 29 games.

Neither Brigham Young nor Baylor come up to the Western with good season records, but each was strong in the home stretch.

Baylor, 1948 Western winner, has played 24 games, winning 13 and losing 11.

B.Y.U., Skyline Six champion, played almost as many games as Bradley, but won only 21 against 11 defeats.

Two Big Worries Anderson has two big worries.

First, he says his team is very tired; second, the Braves are the favorites and "everybody gets up" for them.

The Braves were given the day off yesterday, but are scheduled to work on their home court at Peoria, Ill., tonight.

Martin Forced at Second

Billy Martin (right), New York Yankee infielder, slides into second base but is forced out by Billy Johnson's double play ball in the fifth inning of a game with the Detroit Tigers at Lakeland, Fla. Johnson bounced to shortstop Johnny Lipon who tossed to second baseman Gerry Priddy (left) for the out. Priddy's pivot throw to Dick Kryhoski was in time to nip Johnson at first base. (AP Wirephoto)

Briefs on the Big Leagues While in Spring Training

By the Associated Press
VERO BEACH, Fla., March 22—Mal Mallette, Branch Rickey's "sleeper" draft choice, may not be long with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Rickey acknowledged concern today over the rookie southpaw pitcher from Sacramento and said, "I don't see how we can carry him if he doesn't improve."

Mallette was picked up for the $10,000 draft price last fall and at the time was regarded as a real bargain. However, the left hander has had a constant sore arm and X-rays disclosed calcium deposits in the shoulder.

Injury Inex to Hitler

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22—(P)—Bob Porterfield, the New York Yankees' hard luck right-hander, can't seem to get away from the injury list.

The 25-year-old promising pitcher, out repeatedly last year with a recurring arm ailment, now turns up with a sore leg. He pulled a muscle in practice and does say that will keep him sidelined a week.

The other big news in the champions' camp is that Bobby Brown, third baseman and final holdout, has signed his contract.

No Worries Over Pitchers

FRESNO, Calif., March 22—(P)—Fred Fitzsimmons, Leo Durocher's lieutenant, isn't worried about the New York Giant pitching staff, which has given up eight home runs in two games.

"There isn't a sore pitching arm on the club," the rotund coach said. "But there is plenty of stiffness. It always happens that way this time of year."

"Our pitchers will strike their form all at once. Wait and see."

Youngster Has Sore Arm

SARASOTA, Fla., March 22—Chuck Stobbs, 21 year old bonus left-hander who is being figured by Boston's Red Sox in the coming American league pennant battle, has a sore arm. The youngster who won 11 and lost six last year when he was handled carefully by Manager Joe McCarthy, disclosed the sore flipper yesterday.

Deep, Dark Secret

TAMPA, Fla., March 22—If the Cincinnati Reds are making any progress in their search for an experienced relief pitcher, it's a deep, dark secret.

President Warren Giles returned here yesterday from a trip to New Orleans but said he still had not found anyone available to be used as a Redleg fireman. Indianapolis of the American Association and New Orleans of the Southern Association, both Pittsburgh Pirate farms, are training in New Orleans.

LAKELAND, Fla., March 22—

(P)—On their own side of the fence the Detroit Tigers are doing all right.

The 11 to 5 victory over the Boston Red Sox yesterday gave Detroit a four-for-four exhibition game record against American league rivals.

May be a Major Leaguer

OAKLAND, Calif., March 22—Once again speedy Gerry Scala is leading the Chicago White Sox hustle parade.

For the third straight year, the fleet outfielder is trying to become a major leaguer. He may make it, for now he is thinking along the right lines.

Last year Scala vanished when notified he had been optioned to Sacramento. Finally he was found at his home in Bayonne, N. J. Later, after a good season at Indianapolis, he went home again, missing the American Association playoffs and the Little World Series.

"I lost my head," he confesses. "But I'm not going to do it again. I hope now I'm ready to be a major leaguer."

Ashburn Pounds the Ball

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 22—

—The hitting of outfielders Del Ennis and Richie Ashburn has been one of the most encouraging features of the Philadelphia Phillies spring training camp sessions. Manager Eddie Sawyer has been having his troubles with the Phillies' pitchers — but offsetting the ineffective hurling, Ashburn has been pounding the ball at a .340 clip.

Rookie May Make It

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 22—Harry Byrd, 25-year-old right-hander whose name isn't even on the roster, has been making the experts sit up and take notice at the Philadelphia Athletics' training camp.

Byrd, originally consigned to the A's Buffalo farm club, came to West Palm Beach for a little conditioning with the parent team.

Now coaches Mickey Cochrane, Bing Miller and Jimmy Dykes tell Connie Mack they want to see some more of Harry before a final decision.

Pirates vs. Giants

STOCKTON, Calif., March 22—(P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Giants arrived here today for the third game of their four-game west coast exhibition series.

The Bucs, specializing on home run hitting, have slapped out six of the circuit clouts in two days, but have only one victory over the New Yorkers to show for it.

The victory came the hard way. Eddie Fitzgerald went in as a pinch hitter in the tenth inning yesterday with the Giants one run ahead and one man on base. Eddie promptly knocked the ball out of the lot to give the Bucs a 4-3 win.

Stated For Mound Duty

BURBANK, Calif., March 22—Dick Starr and Russ Bauers are slated for mound duty today in the St. Louis Browns' windup game of their two-day series with the Cleveland Indians.

The Browns are expecting another addition to the squad. Frank Gostine notified Brownie president Bill DeVitt that he hopes to arrive for spring training today or tomorrow.

More Action for Veterans

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 22—The veterans probably will see more action in the St. Louis Cardinals' spring training games from now on.

So far regular pitchers such as Al Brazle, Max Lanier, Howard Pollet, George Munger and Ted Wilks have been in just one exhibition game each. There are just 15 more games in Florida and only 23 before the season starts.

Righthander Gerald Staley has been the most active of the veterans with 11 exhibition innings to his credit. He has pitched shutout ball and allowed just 7 hits and two walks.

Chance to Bow In or Out

ORLANDO, Fla., March 22—Rookie Jim Pearce and Sid Huxon were picked to pitch for the Washington Nationals in their exhibition game today against the New York Yankees.

Manager Bucky Harris decided to give the 6 foot 6 Pearce his chance to bow in or out of the major leagues after watching his smart work in two previous outings.

16 Teams From Original Field Of 42 Are Left

DENVER, March 22—(P)—Defending champion Oakland, Calif., (Blue 'N' Gold) and other seeded favorites swept past collegian-manned teams in yesterday's second round of the National AAU basketball tournament.

Competition gets a little tougher in today's third round of eight games between the 16 teams surviving from the original field of 42. The eight seeded teams are still favored to go into tomorrow's quarter finals.

The Oakland champions had only a light workout in a 75-48 romp over Aurora, Colo., (Strait Lumber Co.). The Californians play a group of Utah collegians from Salt Lake City (Murray Buick) at 11:30 p. m. (CST) tonight.

May Find A Surprise

Milwaukee (Allen Bradley), one of the seeded teams, may find a surprise at 3 p. m. today in the Dayton, Ohio, All-Stars. The Ohioans ran up a 99-53 victory over Kokomo, Ind., all stars in the opening round. Milwaukee was hard pushed yesterday to turn back Nebraska Wesleyan, an aggressive college five, 62-55.

Santa Maria, Calif., (Golden Dukes) is another of the seeded fives that faces a stern test today against Houston, Tex., (Ada Oilers.) Houston boasts Clarence Brannum, Kansas State's ace center, and may upset the Dukes who had difficulty disposing of an erratic Billings, Mont. (Stockman) five last night 54-42.

Today's third round pairings: (Time Central Standard).

Spokane, Wash., (Inland Empire 66ers) vs. Peoria, Ill., (Die-sels) noon.

Seattle (Alpine Dairy) vs. Los Angeles (Cliffions) 1:30 p. m.

Dayton Ohio All-Stars vs. Milwaukee (Allen Bradley) 3 p. m.

Houston, Tex. (Ada Oilers) vs. Santa Maria, Calif. (Golden Dukes) 4:30 p. m.

Los Angeles (Police) vs. Bartlesville, Okla. (Phillips Oilers) 7 p. m.

Hesston, Kas. (King Motors) vs. Denver (Chevrolets) 8:30 p. m.

San Francisco (Stewart Chevrolets) vs. Sioux City, Iowa (Jambos) 10 p. m.

Oakland, Calif. (Blue 'N' Golds) vs. Salt Lake City (Murray Buick) 11:30 p. m.

Yesterday's second round results:

Los Angeles (Cliffions) 83 Arkansas State Teachers 58.

Peoria, Ill. (Die-sels) 68 Toledo, Ohio (Cliff Nelson Club) 57.

Los Angeles (Police) 66 Lincoln, Neb. (Metz Service) 58.

Milwaukee (Allen Bradley) 62 Nebraska Wesleyan 55.

San Francisco (Stewart Chevrolets) 50 Alamosa, Colo. (Gordon Stores) 23.

Oakland, Calif. (Blue 'N'Gold) 75 Aurora, Colo. (Strait Lumber Co.) 48.

Santa Maria, Calif. (Golden Dukes) 54 Billings, Mont. (Stockman) 43.

George King Is Top Scorer

NEW YORK, March 22—(P)—George King, of Morris-Harvey (W. Va.) won the 1950 collegiate individual basketball scoring race with a record of 967 points, but he failed to overtake Nate Delong, of River Falls (Wis.) in their career scoring struggle.

King took the 1950 individual crown with 106 more points than Delong's 861, a final season competition by the Associated Press showed today. Delong became collegiate career champion with 2,592 points to King's 2,537.

King, now playing with the Dayton All-Stars in the National AAU Tourney at Denver, finished the season with 42 points last week-end in the Cincinnati Invitational Tourney. His 976 places Brooms Abramovic's one year mark of 777 set by the Salem (W. Va.) star in 1942.

The top scorers for 1950 as compiled by the Associated Press:

Player-School G FG FT TP
George King, Morris-Harvey (W. Va.) 31 354 230 967
Nate Delong, River Falls, Wis. 31 307 247 861
Paul Arizin, Villanova 29 260 215 735
George Bengtson, Kings (Del.) 25 262 180 704
Bob Cope, Montana 31 277 149 703

Ranking third was Clyde Lovellette, Kas. 25 214 177 545

New Entrants In The Southern Relays

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 22—(P)—Georgia and Virginia Polytechnic Institute are the two newest entrants in the Southern Relays here April 8.

Officials for the annual track carnival said Georgia entered 12 varsity men and seven freshmen, and V.P.I. entered 10 varsity performers.

Other teams already in the field are Notre Dame, Illinois, Yale and Oklahoma A. & M.

Really on the Kiss

It was not love match but Bill Mann (11), Bradley university forward, appears to be kissing the ball held by Claude Houchin, University of Kansas, in their fifth district playoff at Kansas City, Mo., for a berth in the N.C.A.A. western playoff. Also shown is Bradley's All-America Paul Unruh (15). Bradley won, 59-57, and will join four other teams in the western playoffs Friday and Saturday. (Associated Press Photo)

Nashville Teams Dominate Tourney

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 22—(P)—If you're looking for a good women's basketball team, Nashville has an abundance.

Three teams from the Tennessee city have earned their way into the quarterfinal round of the Women's National AAU Basketball Tournament. There's a good chance that one of them will win the championship.

The quarterfinals in the 22nd annual tournament starts today. The three Nashville teams are the Goldblumes, defending champions, the Generals and Nashville Business College.

In yesterday's second round, the Goldblumes trounced the Marshalltown, Iowa, Gasoline Alleys, 40-19.

Nashville Business College ran into stiffer opposition and it took an overtime period for the team to beat Wayland (Texas) College, 35-32.

The Nashville Generals trimmed the Denver Hudsonettes, 43-23.

Hanes Hosiery of Winston-Salem, N. C., seeded No. 3, beat the Baltimore, Md., Martin Bomberetts, 50-30, and fourth-seeded Des Moines, A. I. B., trounced the Okmulgee, Okla., Cardinals, 44-24.

Other results included: Davenport, Iowa, A. I. C. 36, Atlanta, Ga., Sports Arena Blues 35; St. Joseph, Mo., 49, Pittsfield, Mass., 16; Denver Vicer Chevrolets 27, Dallas Regal Beer 24.

Maryville is Favored In MIAA Tract Meet

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 22—(P)—Maryville is heavily favored to defend its championship successfully in the annual M.I.A.A. spring track and field meet Friday night.

The meet will be in the Brewer fieldhouse at the University of Missouri.

Coach Ryland Milner's Maryville Bearcats won both the indoor and outdoor track titles last year and the squad was only lightly hit by graduation.

Don Neil, Paul Zuchowski and Phil Carter, who placed in that order in the sprints last spring, are back with Maryville. The school also features the defending 2-mile champion in Mickey Anderson and has strength added with Al Wormsley in the shot and high jump.

In the 1949 indoor meet, Rolla, Cape Girardeau, Springfield and Warrensburg trailed Maryville in that order.

Bad weather has played hob with workouts at all schools. Claude Groves, Springfield coach, said none of the schools is equipped with facilities suitable for indoor drills.

There will be competition in 12 events. Preliminaries will start at 6:30 p. m.

HUTCHINSON, Kas., March 22—(P)—Only two east-of-the-Mississippi teams remain in the running today for the National Junior College basketball crown.

Northeast Mississippi of Booneville was the only eastern survivor in six round games yesterday. The Mississippi team set a new tournament scoring record in eliminating Campbellsville, Ky., 88-85.

Northeast Mississippi meets Tyler, Tex., defending champion, in tonight's final (9:30 CST) game. The Texas club coasted to an easy 82-54 victory over Virginia, Minn.

Grand View college of Des Moines, Iowa, and Wingate were to wind up first round play this afternoon. The Iowa team faced Olympic college of Bremerton, Wash., and Wingate was paired with Los Angeles City College.

In other games yesterday San Francisco, Calif., City College won from Flint, Mich., 64-32; Garden City, Kas., had little trouble with Jacksonville, Fla., 76-52; Amarillo, Tex., won from Dodge City, Kas., 54-45 and Weber College of Ogden, Utah, downed Bayonne, N. J., 76-49.

Swing Your Partner'---3

By STANLEY MAYO
Leading Square Dance Authority
Written for NEA Service

Most square dance steps you usually do with your own partner, but here's an exception. It's called the "allemande." The call is "allemande left" or "allemande your corner." Remember, the "gents" corner is the lady to his left.

When this step is called for, each man faces his corner lady, and they join left hands (see sketch at left). Then they both turn in a counter-clockwise direction. They make a complete circle, ending up exactly where they started.

The square dance scene in the movies—the one you've seen many times—always involves this next step, the "grand right and left." That's the step where everybody weaves in and out, extending right hand to one person and then left hand to the next, as they move in a circle.

Here's the third of 12 lesson articles that show you how to do the basic square dancing steps and some of the advanced figures. Later articles will refer back to earlier lessons, so save them all for future reference.

You start out by facing your partner, and joining right hands with him (or her). Then you both turn in the direction you're facing. The men move counter-clockwise, the ladies clockwise. You alternate right and left hands with each person you come to. When you join right hands with a dancer (as the couple in the sketch is doing), you pass by his right shoulder. When you join left hands, as the sketched couple will do with the next person they meet, you pass by his left shoulder. The result is a weaving in and out, around the circle, until you return to your "home" position.

In some selections, a routine "grand right and left" works like this: The couple weaves in opposite directions around the circle, until they meet directly across from where they started. Then they join hands and promenade home. In other sections, they meet across they set, but keep moving around until they come back to where they started.

Here's another basic figure you must master. It's the "do-si-do" (right) which is sometimes spelled docey-do. The name is French, and means back-to-back. You face your partner (or whomever the caller tells you to do-si-do with). You advance toward and past each other figure (figure 1). Then you walk sideways, back to back with the person you're do-

si-doing with (figure 2). And then simply walk backwards to your place (figure 3). The diagram (figure 4) shows exactly how you move—forward, past your partner, sideways back to back, and then backwards to your place. It can be done either side—that is, you can go past your partner's right or left shoulder. Some sections of the country stick to one side, others prefer the other.

These figures are usually used as "chorus calls"—that is, they are called for between the more advanced figures, or at the end of them.

"DER FUHRER"—Germany's Adolf Hitler, father of World War II—had hardly begun to make his name one of the most infamous in history when this picture was made in 1925. The "little corporal" was just an ex-jailbird, having served 13 months in prison at Landsberg for his part in the abortive Nazi beer garden "putsch" in Munich—an incident which the Nazis later glorified in annual holiday observances. Nazism sprang alive in Munich in 1923, and became the ruling power in Germany 10 years later. In 1935, the powerful Nazi army marched into the Rhineland, marking the start of a program of ruthless aggression such as the world had never seen before. Many millions were to die wretchedly, including Herr Hitler, before the scourge of fascism was destroyed.

Safe Workers Get Reward
AKRON, O. — (P) — A "sweet reward" is in store for rubber company workers who steer clear of disabling injuries. Under a new safety program spearheaded by the Foreman's Club at B. F. Goodrich for the 10,600 plant employees, a free candy bar will be awarded to employees in departments that remain accident-free for at least 30 days. The new campaign against plant accidents also pays off to workers in departments that do report injuries. They receive a free package of chewing gum imprinted with "Sorry, no candy. Here's something to chew on. Work for no disabling injuries. Hope you enjoy your candy next month."

Pants Are Bears
SALT LAKE CITY — (P) — The Navy may never have thought it would happen but some of its surplus flying pants are becoming the Teddy bears. The fleece-lined matter? She had taken an expensive brace from her teeth so she could eat. Now it was gone. The restaurant feeds about 3,000 persons a day. But some of the staff searched through wadded napkins and scraps of food — and hours later found the brace.

And Mrs. Anderson says the pants bring more money as toy bears.

Lawrence Washington, a 'brother of Gen. George Washington, was a Marine officer in one of the three Marine regiments recruited in 1740.

Strong World Impact

Former Minister Of U. S. So Says Regarding Break With Bulgaria

WICHITA, Kas., March 21—(AP)—The United States' diplomatic break with communist Bulgaria has had strong world impact, Donald Heath said today.

The former U. S. minister—recalled Feb. 21 from Sofia after Bulgaria charged he was a spy—spoke in what sponsors said was his first public statement, state department sanctioned.

The break with Bulgaria climaxed two years of mistreatment of U. S. representatives there, Heath told more than 400 Wichitans at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

"To tolerate it further would have been in the line of appeasement—not peace."

By this nation's action, he said, "We have shown the world that we are patient, but we have shown the communists that there is a point beyond which we won't be pushed."

Heath—former Topoka, Kas., resident—said Bulgaria's communist government charged him with conspiring with the nation's former deputy prime minister, Traicho Kostov, "to deliver Bulgaria to Tito."

Kostov was hanged after trial on treason charges.

Heath labeled the charges against himself "fantastic"—said "I'd never exchanged a word with Mr. Kostov."

Heath described Kostov and Michael Shipkov—Bulgarian employee of the U. S. legation at Sofia—as victims of a minority communist regime that "tolerates no show of mercy x x x because that would lessen the terror under which it holds the Bulgarian people."

Shipkov, arrested last August and indicted in February, "confessed and was sentenced in Bulgarian court March 9 to 15 years imprisonment.

But the U. S. state department published Shipkov's own prediction that he would "confess" outlining the communist tortures he said would make him do so.

That statement, Heath said today, "was in Shipkov's own handwriting—made to clear himself and others."

The break with Bulgaria—first by this nation with any other since the war—quickly followed Shipkov's indictment.

Shipkov was innocent of spying, but "guilty of not being a communist," Heath said—and his case is "by no means unique."

"The concentration camps, jails and cemeteries of Bulgaria contain thousands of unknown Shipkovs."

Communist tactics stand challenged in the world court and the United Nations assembly, Heath said.

But Russia and her communist neighbors "have demonstrated their contempt for civilized conduct, and their complete contempt for any agreement they have entered into," he charged.

"Russia and her satellites have made it clear that they are not bound by the code of national ethics which all other nations are."

"I don't see how Russia can maintain her pretence—her facade—of being for world peace."

By continued pressure, he said, "we can make it completely clear that they are outlaw nations in the world."

Believed "Weeded" Out

WICHITA, Kas., March 21—(AP)—There probably have been "fuzzy-thinking" communist sympathizers in all departments of the U. S. government, Donald Heath—recalled U. S. Minister to Bulgaria—said Tuesday.

But he stressed belief "that was in the past"—that repeated loyalty checks have "weeded them out."

The State Department in particular—currently blasted in congress by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis)—"would welcome an investigation" of loyalty of its personnel, he said.

That loyalty can "more than stand" any tests which congress may call for, Heath added.

He praised Secretary of State Acheson as "a brilliant man, filled with integrity."

Heath returned to this country when it broke diplomatic relations with communist-dominated Bulgaria Feb. 21.

Of a locally-published press conference story quoting him as saying communist sympathizers "are" in every department of government, Heath said it "was mistaken in tense. I said 'were'—not 'are.'"

Blame Static Electricity For Explosion of Bomber

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 22—(AP)—Air Force officials blame static electricity for the explosion in one engine of the world's largest land-based plane, the XC-99.

Eight men were injured in the explosion yesterday, none seriously.

Maps Strategy For His Tours

Truman to End First May 15 at Chicago Rally

KEY WEST, Fla., March 22—(AP)—President Truman mapped strategy Tuesday for stumping tours this spring and next fall matching the intensity of his 31,500-mile "give 'em hell" campaign of 1948.

He'll hit the road in early May for a rear-platform speaking swing that will carry him into Washington State about May 11 for the dedication of Grand Coulee dam. It will wind up with a fighting political talk in Chicago Stadium the night of May 15 at a giant Democratic rally.

Official confirmation of plans for the May trip came from his headquarters at the "Winter White House" where preliminary speech drafting will get underway this week.

The official who made the disclosure withheld use of his name until a formal announcement can be made, filling in the details of the trip.

It will include "off-the-cuff" talks to crowds around the railroad tracks, to and from the west coast, and plugs for Democratic candidates as well as "fair deal" measures. Other projects, besides Grand Coulee, may be visited on the western swing.

It will afford an opportunity to attempt to put voter pressure on congress for passage of many bills now given the "untouchable" treatment.

An even longer, more intensive campaign is being planned for the fall when the President will go into a score of more states to slug it out for Democratic congressional candidates.

The "Winter White House" disclosed that President Truman had a second telephone conference yesterday with Secretary of State Acheson.

Acheson called presidential secretary Charles G. Ross said, after Mr. Truman blasted reports he might be replaced and declared he thought Acheson was running the department "admirably."

Ross said Acheson talked with the President about a "department matter" but not charges made against the department of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis).

Burned House Causing Deaths

JUNCTION CITY, Kas., March 22—(AP)—James C. Harris, 33-year-old Negro taxi driver, was charged with arson and murder Tuesday in the death of two young girls in a house fire.

Shortly after the charges were filed, Harris gave a signed confession to Lee Hornbaker, Geary county attorney, stating that he fired the house with kerosene in the early hours of March 15.

Hornbaker said that Harris stated he burned the house, which he owned, to collect the insurance of about $3,000.

Harris acknowledged, according to Hornbaker, that the house was occupied but said he thought the occupants would be able to flee.

Two children of U. S. Army Private First Class Joseph Marshall perished. They were Joanna, 2 year old, and Gwendolyn, 4. Mrs. Marshall and another daughter, 1, escaped with burns. All are Negroes.

Pfc. Marshall arrived from Texas several hours after the fire.

Harris confessed that he drove from Omaha, Neb., where he now lives, set the fire and returned to Omaha soon after.

Convicted in Killing Negroes

KUSCISKO, Miss., March 22—(AP)—A jury Tuesday night convicted Leon Turner, 38-year-old white man, in the slaying of three Negro children.

The jury was not able to agree on punishment. In such cases, life imprisonment is mandatory under Mississippi state law.

Circuit Judge J. P. Coleman sentenced Turner to life imprisonment.

The conviction was in the death of one of three Negroes—four-year-old Ruby Nell Harris.

Judge Coleman announced that court would resume at 9 a. m.
